Black Holes and Baby Universes and Other Essays Stephen W. Hawking,1993      What Is Inside a Black Hole?
Stephen Hawking,2022-09 If you feel you are in a black hole don't give up There's a way out What is inside a black hole Is time travel possible Throughout his extraordinary career Stephen Hawking expanded our understanding of the universe and unravelled some of its greatest mysteries In What Is Inside a Black Hole Hawking takes us on a journey to the outer reaches of our imaginations exploring the science of time travel and black holes The best most mind bending sort of physics The Times Brief Answers Big Questions this stunning paperback series offers electrifying essays from one of the greatest minds of our age taken from the original text of the No 1 bestselling Brief Answers to the Big Questions      Black Holes, Baby Universes, and Random Matrices Philip Saad,2020 There is a lot of evidence that black holes follow the usual rules of quantum mechanics and exhibit all of the fundamental properties of quantum systems such as a discrete set of energy levels However many of these properties are difficult to see directly in gravity there is an apparent tension between the gravitational description of black holes in terms of smooth geometry and the discrete quantum aspects of quantum mechanics In this work we focus on understanding certain probes of the discreteness of the black hole energy spectrum which exhibit this tension such as an averaged version of the two point function of operators widely separated in time outside of a black hole in AdS space The chaotic dynamics of black holes indicates that its energy levels should have random matrix statistics and its energy eigenstates should obey the Eigenstate Thermalization Hypothesis These expectations allow us to make precise predictions for the behavior of our probes We find strong evidence that contributions from spacetime geometries with nontrivial topology and even arbitrary numbers of disconnected components are responsible for reproducing the expected behavior of our probes Physically these contributions correspond to including effects from the absorption and emission of closed baby universes from the black hole spacetime These processes have a small amplitude but may provide the dominant contribution to the transitions between very distinct states of the black hole      Black Holes Marcia Zappa,2011 Learn all about the science behind the spatial phenomena known as black holes      Space, Black Holes, and Time Stephen Hawking,2017-12-11 To understand how a black hole might be formed we first need an understanding of the life cycle of a star A star is formed when a large amount of gas mostly hydrogen starts to collapse in on itself due to its gravitational attraction As it contracts the atoms of the gas collide with each other more and more frequently and at greater and greater speeds the gas heats up Eventually the gas will be so hot that when the hydrogen atoms collide they no longer bounce off each other but instead coalesce to form helium The heat released in this reaction which is like a controlled hydrogen bomb explosion is what makes the star shine This additional heat also increases the pressure of the gas until it is sufficient to balance the gravitational attraction and the gas stops contracting It is a bit like a balloon there is a balance between the pressure of the air inside which is trying to make the balloon expand and the tension in the rubber which is trying to make the balloon smaller Stars will remain stable like this for a long time with heat from the nuclear reactions balancing the gravitational attraction Eventually however the star will run out of its hydrogen and other nuclear fuels Paradoxically the more fuel a star starts off with the sooner it runs out This is because the more massive the star is the hotter it needs to be to balance its gravitational attraction And the hotter it is the faster it will use up its fuel Our sun has probably got enough fuel for another five thousand million years or so but more massive stars can use up their fuel in as little as one hundred million years much less than the age of the universe When a star runs out of fuel it starts to cool off and so to contract

Beautiful Black Holes For Kids! K. Bennett, John Davidson, 2016-03-17 Introduction Space the final frontier to explore strange new worlds to seek out new life and new civilizations to boldly go where no man has gone before Gene Roddenberry The universe is full of surprises We can find amazing things like galaxies planets comets asteroids moons meteorites and more One of the strangest objects we can find in space is called a black hole Have you ever heard of black holes What do you know about them Let s learn more Black holes are dark areas in space with strong gravity Not all black holes are black and we cannot see them but we know they are there How do we know they exist even though we can t see them Scientists study the things that happen around a black hole and that tells them a black hole is there The force of a black hole is so strong light cannot escape Do you know what happens to light when it gets near a black hole Strong gravity pulls light and everything else into the center It is so strong that nothing escapes the powerful force and everything falls in Black holes come in lots of different sizes Some are big and some are small Some black holes are so big they are called supermassive black holes That s a big big hole Black holes affect not only space but time too How so Did you know time changes when you get near a black hole Yes it does This is because of Einstein s theory of relativity Let s find out how black holes work and what else we can learn about this mysterious force in the universe
