Black Masculinity:

Black Masculinity and the U.S. South Riché Richardson, 2010-01-25 This pathbreaking study of region race and gender reveals how we underestimate the South's influence on the formation of black masculinity at the national level. Many negative stereotypes of black men, often contradictory ones, have emerged from the ongoing historical traumas initiated by slavery. Are black men emasculated and submissive or hypersexed and violent? Nostalgic representations of black men have arisen as well: think of the philosophical hardworking sharecropper or the abiding upright preacher. To complicate matters, says Rich Richardson, blacks themselves appropriate these images for purposes never intended by their mostly white progenitors. Starting with such well-known caricatures as the Uncle Tom and the black rapist, Richardson investigates a range of pathologies of black masculinity that derive ideological force from their associations with the South: Military policy, black liberation discourse, and contemporary rap. She argues that these are just some of the instruments by which egregious pathologies of black masculinity in southern history have been sustained. Richardson's sources are eclectic and provocative, including Ralph Ellison's fiction, Charles Fuller's plays, Spike Lee's films, Huey Newton's and Malcolm X's political rhetoric, the O. J. Simpson discourse, and the music production of Master P, the Cash Money Millionaires, and other Dirty South rappers. Filled with new insights into the region's role in producing hierarchies of race and gender in and beyond their African American contexts, this new study points the way toward more epistemological frameworks for southern literature, southern studies, and gender studies.

Black Masculinity and Sexual Politics Anthony J. Lemelle, Jr., 2010-04-26 African American males occupy a historically unique social position, whether in school, life on the job, or within the context of dating, marriage, and family. Often their normal role expectations require that they perform feminized and hypermasculine roles simultaneously. This book focuses on how African American males experience masculinity politics and how U.S. sexism and racial ranking influences relationships between black and white males, as well as relationships with black and white women. By considering the African American male experience as a form of sexism, Lemelle proposes that the only way for the social order to successfully accommodate African American males is to fundamentally eliminate all sexism, particularly as it relates to the organization of families.

Alexander picks a number of settings that highlight Black male interaction, sexuality, and identity: the student-teacher interaction, the black barbershop, drag queen performances, the funeral eulogy. From these, he builds a theory of Black masculine identity using auto-ethnography and ideas of performance as his base.
