Black Mountain And The Swannanoa Valley:

Black Mountain and the Swannanoa Valley Swannanoa Valley Museum, 2004-05-24 North Carolina's magnificent Blue Ridge Mountains have drawn people to the Swannanoa Valley since the beginning of time. Rivers and forests lured early hunters and gatherers; later inhabitants tilled the rich fertile soil and logged the thick forests on the mountainsides. People also came to the mountains to enjoy the mystical beauty and enchantment of the area, the cool crisp climate and the sparkling waters of brooks and streams. Hiking, camping and the tranquility of a woodland world provided escape from city life. The Swannanoa Valley is cradled between the Craggy Mountains to the north and the Swannanoa Mountains to the south. Mount Mitchell, the highest peak in America east of the Mississippi River, rises majestically nearby. Among the early visitors who decided to settle in the valley were those who purchased the land that later became the sites of the famous conference centers in the area: Montreat, YMCA, Blue Ridge Assembly and Ridgecrest, and businessmen who brought industry to the area.

Mount Mitchell and the Black Mountains Timothy Silver, 2003-12-04 Each year thousands of tourists visit Mount Mitchell, the most prominent feature of North Carolina's Black Mountain range and the highest peak in the eastern United States. From Native Americans and early explorers to land speculators and conservationists, people have long been drawn to this rugged region. Timothy Silver explores the long and complicated history of the Black Mountains, drawing on both the historical record and his experience as a backpacker and fly fisherman. He chronicles the geological and environmental forces that created this intriguing landscape, then traces its history of environmental change and human intervention from the days of Indian-European contact to today. Among the many tales Silver recounts is that of Elisha Mitchell, the renowned geologist and University of North Carolina professor for whom Mount Mitchell is named, who fell to his death there in 1857. But nature's stories of forest fires, chestnut blight, competition among plants and animals, insect invasions and most recently, airborne toxins and acid rain are also part of Silver's narrative making it the first history of the Appalachians in which the natural world gets equal time with human history. It is only by understanding the dynamic between these two forces Silver says that we can begin to protect the Black Mountains for future generations.
