International Journal of Applied Linguistics & English Literature Editor, 2012-07-12 International Journal of Applied Linguistics and English Literature IJALEL is a peer reviewed journal established in Australia Authors are encouraged to submit complete unpublished and original works which are not under review in any other journal The scopes of the journal include but not limited to the following topic areas Applied Linguistics Linguistics and English Literature The journal is published in both printed and online versions The online version is free access and downloadable Vol 1 No 2 Black American Women Novelists Craig Hansen Werner, 1989 Women Writers and Experimental Narratives Kate Aughterson, Deborah Philips, 2021-01-23 This book explores the history of women's engagement with writing experimentally Women writers have long used different narratives and modes of writing as a way of critiquing worlds and stories that they find themselves at odds with but at the same time as a way to participate in such spaces Experimentation of style mode voice genre and language has enabled women writers to be simultaneously creative and critical engaged in and yet apart from stories and cultures that have so often seen them as other This collection shows that women writers in English over the past 400 years have challenged those ideas not only through explicit polemic and alternative representations but through disrupting the very modes of representation and story itself Black American Literature Forum, 1984 The Lever of Riches Joel Mokyr, 1992-04-09 In a world of supercomputers genetic engineering and fiber optics technological creativity is ever more the key to economic success But why are some nations more creative than others and why do some highly innovative societies such as ancient China or Britain in the industrial revolution pass into stagnation Beginning with a fascinating concise history of technological progress Mokyr sets the background for his analysis by tracing the major inventions and innovations that have transformed society since ancient Greece and Rome What emerges from this survey is often surprising the classical world for instance was largely barren of new technology the relatively backward society of medieval Europe bristled with inventions and the period between the Reformation and the Industrial Revolution was one of slow and unspectacular progress in technology despite the tumultuous developments associated with the Voyages of Discovery and the Scientific Revolution What were the causes of technological creativity Mokyr distinguishes between the relationship of inventors and their physical environment which determined their willingness to challenge nature and the social environment which determined the openness to new ideas He discusses a long list of such factors showing how they interact to help or hinder a nation's creativity and then illustrates them by a number of detailed comparative studies examining the differences between Europe and China between classical antiquity and medieval Europe and between Britain and the rest of Europe during the industrial revolution He examines such aspects as the role of the state the Chinese gave up a millennium wide lead in shipping to the Europeans for example when an Emperor banned large ocean going vessels the impact of science as well as religion politics and even nutrition He questions the importance of such commonly cited factors as the spill over benefits of war the abundance of natural resources life expectancy and labor costs Today an ever greater number of industrial economies are competing in the global market locked in a struggle that revolves around technological ingenuity The Lever of Riches with its keen analysis derived from a sweeping survey of creativity throughout history offers telling insights into the question of how Western economies can maintain and developing nations can unlock their creative potential

Education Feminism Barbara J. Thayer-Bacon, Lynda Stone, Katharine M. Sprecher, 2013-11-18 Winner of the 2015 Critics Choice Book Award presented by the American Educational Studies Association Winner of the 2015 Critics Choice Book Award presented by the American Educational Studies Association Education Feminism is a revised and updated version of Lynda Stone's out of print anthology The Education Feminism Reader The text is intended as a course text and provides students a foundational base in feminist theories in education The classics section is comprised of the readings that students have most responded to in classes The contemporary readings section demonstrates how the third wave feminist criticism of the 1990s has an impact on today's feminist work Both of these sections address critical multicultural educational issues and have an inclusive diverse selection of feminist scholars who bring race class sexual orientation religious practices and colonial postcolonial perspectives to bear on their work The individual essays are concise and well written and arranged in such a way that it is easy for instructors to assign them around themes of their own choosing

The Truth That Never Hurts 25th anniversary edition Barbara Smith, 2023-10-13 Read an excerpt Chicago Firsthand click here Barbara Smith has been doing groundbreaking work since the early 1970s describing a Black feminism for Black women Her work in Black women's literary traditions in examining the sexual politics of the lives of women of color in representing the lives of Black lesbians and gay men and in making connections between race class sexuality and gender is gathered in The Truth That Never Hurts This collection contains some of her major essays on Black women's literature Black lesbian writing racism in the women's movement Black Jewish relations and homophobia in the Black community Her forays into these areas ignited dialogue about topics that few other writers were addressing at the time and which sadly remain pertinent to this day This twenty fifth anniversary edition in a beautiful new package also contains the essays from the original about the 1968 Chicago convention demonstrations attacks on the NEA the Anita Hill Clarence Thomas Senate hearings and police brutality against Rodney King and Abner Louima which after twenty five years still have the urgency they did when they were first written

Black Women as Custodians of History: Unsung Rebel (M)Others in African American and Afro-Cuban Women's Writing Paula Sanmartin, 2014-03-28 This book is an essential addition to the study of comparative black literature of the Americas it will also fill the gap that exists on theoretical studies exploring black women's writing from the Spanish Caribbean This book examines literary representations of the historic roots of black women's resistance in the United States and Cuba by studying the following texts by both African American and Afro Cuban women from four different literary genres autobiographical slave narrative contemporary novel on slavery testimonial narrative and poetry Incidents in the Life of a Slave Girl 1861 by the African American former slave Harriet Jacobs Dessa Rose 1986 by the African American writer Sherley Ann Williams Reyita sencillamente testimonio de una negra cubana nonagenarian Simply Reyita Testimonial Narrative of a Nonagenarian Black Cuban Woman 1996 written transcribed by the Afro Cuban historian Daisy Rubiera Castillo from her interviews with her mother Mar a de los Reyes Castillo Bueno Reyita and a selection of poems from the contemporary Afro Cuban poets Nancy Morej n and Georgina

Herrera The study argues that the writers participate in black women's self inscription in the historical process by positioning themselves as subjects of their history and seizing discursive control of their histories. Although the texts form part of separate discourses, the book explores the commonalities of the rhetorical devices and narrative strategies employed by the authors as they disassemble racist and sexist stereotypes, re-constructing black female subjectivity through an image of active resistance against oppression, one that authorizes unconventional definitions of womanhood and motherhood. The book shows that in the women's revisions of national history, their writings also demonstrate the pervasive role of racial and gender categories in the creation of a discourse of national identity while promoting a historiography constructed within flexible borders that need to be negotiated constantly. The study's engagement in crosscultural exploration constitutes a step further in opening connections with a comparative literary study that is theoretically engaging in order to include Afro-Cuban women writers and Afro-Caribbean scholars into scholarly discussions in which African American women have already managed to participate with a series of critical texts. The book explores connections between methods and perspectives derived from Western theories and from Caribbean and Black studies while recognizing the black women authors studied as critics and scholars. In this sense, the book includes some of the writer's own commentaries about their work taken from interviews, many of them conducted by the author Paula Sanmartín herself, as well as critical essays and letters. Black Women as Custodians of History adds a new dimension to the body of existing criticism by challenging the ways assumptions have shaped how literature is read by black women writers. Paula Sanmartín's study is a vivid demonstration of the strengths of embarking on multidisciplinary study. This book will be useful to several disciplines and areas of study such as African diaspora studies, African American studies, Afro-Latin American and Afro-Caribbean studies, women's studies, genre studies, and slavery studies.

Rewriting the Return to Africa Anne M. François, 2011-08-16 Rewriting The Return to Africa Voices of Francophone Caribbean Women Writers examines the ways Guadeloupean women writers Maryse Condé, Simone Schwarz-Bart, and Myriam Warner Veyra demystify the theme of the return to Africa as opposed to the masculinist version by Ngũgĩ. Male writers from the 1930s to the 1960s, Ngũgĩ, a cultural and literary movement, drew much of its strength from the idea of a mythical or cultural reconnection with the African past, allegorized as a mother figure. In contrast, these women writers of the post-colonial era, who are to a large extent heirs of Ngũgĩ, differ sharply from their male counterparts in their representation of Africa. In their novels, the continent is not represented as a propitious mother figure but a disappointing father figure. This study argues that these women writers' subversion of the metaphorical figure of Africa and its transformation is tied to their gender. The women novelists are indeed critical of a female allegorization of the land that is reminiscent of a colonial or nationalist project and a simplistic representation of motherhood that does not reflect the complexities of the Diaspora's relation to origins and identity. Unlike the primary male writers of the Ngũgĩ movement, they carefully gendered the notion of return by choosing female protagonists who made their way back to the Motherland in search of identity I argue that writing is a more suitable space for the female subject seeking identity because it allows her to have a voice and become subject rather than object as that was the case with the N gritude writers The women writers shattering of the image of Mother Africa and subsequently that of Father Africa highlights the complex relationship between Africa and the Diaspora from a female point of view It shifts the identity quest of the characters towards the Caribbean which emerges as the real problematic mother a multi faceted fragmented figure that reflects the constitutive clash that occurred in the archipelago between Europe Africa and the Americas where the issues of race gender class culture ethnicity history and language are very complex

Women Writers and the Artifacts of Celebrity in the Long Nineteenth Century Maura Ives, Ann R. Hawkins, 2016-12-05 In 1788 the Catalogue of Five Hundred Celebrated Authors of Great Britain Now Living forecast a form of authorship that rested on biographical revelation and media saturation as well as literary achievement This collection traces the unique experiences of women writers within a celebrity culture that was intimately connected to the expansion of print technology and of visual and material culture in the nineteenth century The contributors examine a wide range of artifacts including prefaces portraits frontispieces birthday books calendars and gossip columns to consider the nature of women's celebrity and the forces that created it How did authors like Jane Austen the Countess of Blessington Louisa May Alcott Alice Meynell and Marie Corelli negotiate the increasing demands for public revelation of the private self How did gender shape the posthumous participation of women writers such as Jane Austen Ellen Wood Mary Elizabeth Braddon and Christina Rossetti in celebrity culture These and other important questions related to the treatment of women in celebrity genres and media and the strategies women writers used to control their public images are taken up in this suggestive exploration of how nineteenth and early twentieth century women writers achieved popular critical and commercial success and American Women Writers, 1860-1940 Dale M. Bauer, 2009-01-01 American women novelists of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries registered a call for a new sexual freedom Dale Bauer contends By creating a lexicon of sex expression many authors explored sexuality as part of a discourse about women s needs rather than confining it to the realm of sentiments where it had been relegated if broached at all by earlier writers This new rhetoric of sexuality enabled critical conversations about who had sex when in life they had it and how it signified Whether liberating or repressive sexuality became a potential force for female agency in these women s novels Bauer explains insofar as these novelists seized the power of rhetoric to establish their intellectual authority Thus Bauer argues they helped transform the traditional ideal of sexual purity into a new goal of sexual pleasure defining in their fiction what intimacy between equals might become Analyzing the work of canonical as well as popular writers_ including Edith Wharton Anzia Yezierska Julia Peterkin and Fannie Hurst among others_ Bauer demonstrates that the new sexualization of American culture was both material and rhetorical

A History of the African American Novel Valerie Babb, 2017-07-31 This History is intended for a broad audience seeking knowledge of how novels interact with and influence their cultural landscape Its interdisciplinary approach will appeal to those interested in novels and film graphic novels novels and popular culture transatlantic blackness and the interfacing of race class gender and aesthetics

Teaching What You're Not Katherine Mayberry, 1996-08-01 Examines the roles of historical cultural and personal identities in the classroom Can whites teach African American literature effectively and legitimately What is at issue when a man teaches a women s studies course How effectively can a straight woman educate students about gay and lesbian history What are the political implications of the study of the colonizers by the colonized More generally how does the identity of an educator affect his or her credibility with students and with other educators In incident after well publicized incident these abstract questions have turned up in America s classrooms and in national media often trivialized as the latest example of PC excess Going beyond simplistic headlines Teaching What You re Not broaches these and many other difficult questions With contributions from scholars in a variety of disciplines the book examines the ways in which historical cultural and personal identities impact pedagogy and scholarship Essays cover such topics as the outsider s gaze as it applies to the study of non white literature an able bodied woman s reflections on teaching literature by disabled women and the challenges of teaching the Western canon at an African American college
