disassemble racist and sexist stereotypes re constructing black female subjectivity through an image of active resistance against oppression one that authorizes unconventional definitions of womanhood and motherhood The book shows that in the womens revisions of national history their writings also demonstrate the pervasive role of racial and gender categories in the creation of a discourse of national identity while promoting a historiography constructed within flexible borders that need to be negotiated constantly The study s engagement in crosscultural exploration constitutes a step further in opening connections with a comparative literary study that is theoretically engaging in order to include Afro Cuban women writers and Afro Caribbean scholars into scholarly discussions in which African American women have already managed to participate with a series of critical texts The book explores connections between methods and perspectives derived from Western theories and from Caribbean and Black studies while recognizing the black women authors studied as critics and scholars In this sense the book includes some of the writers own commentaries about their work taken from interviews many of them conducted by the author Paula Sanmart n herself as well as critical essays and letters Black Women as Custodians of History adds a new dimension to the body of existing criticism by challenging the ways assumptions have shaped how literature is read by black women writers Paula Sanmart n s study is a vivid demonstration of the strengths of embarking on multidisciplinary study This book will be useful to several disciplines and areas of study such as African diaspora studies African American studies Afro Latin American and Afro Caribbean studies women s studies genre studies and slavery studies

Memorial of St. Mark's Church in the Bowery, 1899 Memorial St. Mark's Church in-the-Bowery (New York, N.Y.), 1899 Memorial of William Spooner, 1637, and of His Descendants to the Third Generation Thomas Spooner, 1871 William Spooner 1622 1684 married Elizabeth Partridge and emigrated from England to Plymouth Massachusetts moving in 1660 to Acushnet Massachusetts Descendants lived in New England New York Ohio California and elsewhere Game Day and God Eric Bain-Selbo, 2009 Game Day and God Football Faith and Politics in the American South takes seriously the often stated assertion that college football in the South is a religion To this end Eric Bain Selbo draws upon a wide range of theoretical approaches in religious studies and cultural criticism He also relies upon field research on several campuses in the Southeastern Conference where he interviewed fans and experienced game day Consequently the author is able to make the case that college football does function religiously for many people in the South In addition the author introduces key concepts and theories of religion and culture to a general audience Game Day and God also recounts the role that college football has played in Southern history and culture Going back as far as the Civil War the work explains the cultural meaning of college football in the South delivering a much needed critical perspective to the subject Scholars of religion will find the work a compelling extension of key concepts and theories to an otherwise secular activity Scholars of American culture and sports will find the work to be an interesting case study one that unlike much work in the area focuses our attention on the religious dimension of the phenomenon of sport in American culture And general readers will find that college football or any sport can be much more than they imagined as well as discover important theories with which to make sense of the complexity of our daily lives Book jacket

Reconstructions Thomas J. Brown, 2008-09-23 The pivotal era of Reconstruction has inspired an outstanding historical literature In the half century after W E B DuBois published Black Reconstruction in America 1935 a host of thoughtful and energetic authors helped to dismantle racist stereotypes about the aftermath of emancipation and Union victory in the Civil War The resolution of long running interpretive debates shifted the issues at stake in Reconstruction scholarship but the topic has remained a vital venue for original exploration of the American past In Reconstructions New Perspectives on the Postbellum United States eight rising historians survey the latest generation of work and point to promising directions for future research They show that the field is opening out to address a wider range of adjustments to the experiences and effects of Civil War Increased interest in cultural history now enriches understandings traditionally centered on social and political history Attention to gender has joined a focus on labor as a powerful strategy for analyzing negotiations over private and public authority The contributors suggest that Reconstruction historiography might further thrive by strengthening connections to such subjects as western history legal history and diplomatic history and by redefining the chronological boundaries of the postwar period The essays provide more than a variety of attractive vantage points for fresh examination of a major phase of American history By identifying the most exciting recent approaches to a theme previously studied so ably the collection illuminates the creative process in scholarly historical literature

The Southern Past William Fitzhugh Brundage, 2009-07 Since the Civil War whites and blacks have struggled over the meanings and uses of the Southern past Indeed today s controversies over flying the Confederate flag renaming schools and streets and commemorating the Civil War and the civil rights movement are only the latest examples of this ongoing divisive contest over issues of regional identity and heritage The Southern Past argues that these battles are ultimately about who has the power to determine what we remember of the past and whether that remembrance will honor all Southerners or only select groups For more than a century after the Civil War elite white Southerners systematically refined a version of the past that sanctioned their racial privilege and power In the process they filled public spaces with museums and monuments that made their version of the past sacrosanct Yet even as segregation and racial discrimination worsened blacks contested the white version of Southern history and demanded inclusion Streets became sites for elaborate commemorations of emancipation and schools became centers for the study of black history This counter memory surged forth and became a potent inspiration for the civil rights movement and the black struggle to share a common Southern past rather than a divided one W Fitzhugh Brundage s searing exploration of how those who have the political power to represent the past simultaneously shape the present and determine the future is a valuable lesson as we confront our national past to meet the challenge of current realities

Blacks and Whites in Christian America Jason E. Shelton, Michael Oluf Emerson, 2012-10-08 In this engaging and accessible sociological study of white and black Christian beliefs Jason E Shelton

BLIGHT, 2009-06-30 No historical event has left as deep an imprint on America's collective memory as the Civil War In the war's aftermath Americans had to embrace and cast off a traumatic past David Blight explores the perilous path of remembering and forgetting and reveals its tragic costs to race relations and America's national reunion

The Politics and Rhetoric of Collective Remembering John E. Richardson, Tommaso M. Milani, 2024-11-15 This book critically examines the ways that collective pasts are commemorated and contested in a wide variety of national locations media and genres Collective remembering is a dynamic process through which narratives about the past about us and them as well as beliefs values and affective conditions contained in these stories are produced and reproduced This facilitates room for not only the creation of unity but also the potential for contestation and conflict given that different interpretations of the past are often vehicles for opposing political interests This book reflects the geographical breadth and empirical depth of the field of collective remembering

Foregrounding the idea that collective remembering always entails contestation individual chapters explore the field of remembrance and its various genres including murals memorials museums newspaper reports speeches textbooks tourist tours and the work of community activists in countries as diverse as Australia Germany Hungary Israel Italy Portugal South Africa the UK and the USA This volume will be of interest to advanced students and researchers in Critical Discourse Studies Memory Studies Rhetoric and Communications The chapters in this book were originally published in Critical Discourse Studies

War Monuments, Museums and Library Collections of 20th Century Conflicts Steve Rajtar, Frances Elizabeth Franks, 2015-07-11 This unique state by state directory covers monuments memorials museums markers statues and library collections that relate to the veterans weapons vehicles airplanes victims or any other aspect of war in which the United States participated While a site may have been created before 1900 such as a fort there must be some operational or historical tie to a twentieth century conflict to be included here General collections such as museums of aviation are included if they house materials related to a twentieth century conflict The coverage is so thorough that statues honoring veterans of the Civil War appear if veterans of later wars are on their rosters of honorees Another example of the comprehensiveness of this compilation is in the inclusion of memorials to victims of war such as the Holocaust Museum in Houston Texas For each site the following information is given street address phone number website and email address if applicable days and hours of operation admission fees other necessary information and a brief description of the site

The Publishers' Trade List Annual ,1977 Arranging Grief Dana Luciano,2007-11 2008 Winner MLA First Book Prize Charting the proliferation of forms of mourning and memorial across a century increasingly concerned with their historical and temporal significance Arranging Grief offers an innovative new view of the aesthetic social and political implications of emotion Dana Luciano argues that the cultural plotting of grief provides a distinctive insight into the nineteenth century American temporal imaginary since grief both underwrote the social arrangements that supported the nation s standard chronologies and sponsored other ways of advancing history Nineteenth century appeals to grief as Luciano demonstrates diffused modes of sacred time across both religious and ostensibly secular frameworks at once authorizing and unsettling established schemes of connection to the past and the future Examining mourning manuals sermons memorial tracts poetry and fiction by Harriet Beecher Stowe William Apess James Fenimore Cooper Catharine Maria Sedgwick Susan Warner Harriet E Wilson Herman Melville Frances E W Harper Frederick Douglass Abraham Lincoln Elizabeth Keckley and Ralph Waldo Emerson Luciano illustrates the ways that grief coupled the affective body to time Drawing on formalist Foucauldian and psychoanalytic criticism Arranging Grief shows how literary engagements with grief put forth ways of challenging deep seated cultural assumptions about history progress bodies and behaviors Race, Place, and Memory Margaret M. Mulrooney,2022-03-15 A revealing work of public history that shows how communities remember their pasts in different ways to fit specific narratives Race Place and Memory charts the ebb and flow of racial violence in Wilmington North Carolina from the 1730s to the present day Margaret Mulrooney argues that white elites have employed public spaces memorials and celebrations to maintain the status quo The port city has long celebrated its white colonial revolutionary origins memorialized Decoration Day and hosted Klan parades Other events such as the Azalea Festival have attempted to present a false picture of racial harmony to attract tourists And yet the revolutionary acts of Wilmington s African American citizens who also demanded freedom first from slavery and later from Jim Crow discrimination have gone unrecognized As a result beneath the surface of daily life collective memories of violence and alienation linger among the city s black population Mulrooney describes her own experiences as a public historian involved in the centennial commemoration of the so called Wilmington Race Riot of 1898 which perpetuated racial conflicts in the city throughout the twentieth century. She shows how despite organizers' best efforts a white authored narrative of the riot's contested origins remains. Mulrooney makes a case for public history projects that recognize the history making authority of all community members and prompts us to reconsider the memories we inherit.
