Kuehni,Andreas Schwarz,2008-01-09 Since antiquity people have searched for a way to understand the colors we see what they are how many there are and how they can be systematically identified and arranged in some kind of order How to order colors is not merely a philosophical question it also has many practical applications in art design and commerce Our intense interest in color and its myriad practical applications have led people throughout history to develop many systems to characterize and order it The number of color order systems developed throughout history is unknown but ranges in the hundreds Many are no longer used but continue to be of historical interest Despite wrong turns and slow progress our understanding of color and its order has improved steadily Although full understanding continues to elude us it seems clear that it will ultimately come from research in neurobiology perception and consciousness Color Ordered is a comprehensive in depth compendium of over 170 systems dating from antiquity to the present In it Rolf Kuehni and Andreas Schwarz present a history and categorization of color systems describe each one using original figures and schematic drawings and provide a broad review of the underlying theory Included are a brief overview of color vision and a synthesis of the various systems This volume is a unique and valuable resource for researchers in color vision and visual perception as well as for neuroscientists art historians artists and designers      Liverpool and the Unmaking of Britain Sam Wetherell,2025-02-27 Few cities in the world are as famous as Liverpool the home of the modern world s most celebrated rock group and of a legendary football team The city is equally notorious for its poverty its ethnic and racial divides and above all its decline For Liverpool

was once a major port growing rich on slavery on trade with the Americas and the British Empire's outposts in Africa and Asia In the 1980s it was described as obsolete Yet the city fights on This is the epic history of Liverpool since the Second World War It is a story of vast docklands shrinking and eventually vanishing when corporations discovered they could shift goods in containers and dispense with human workers of industries like car manufacturing mushrooming and disappearing of huge new suburbs being built and neglected It is a moving and horrifying narrative of casual racism Chinese sailors deported en masse in the aftermath of the war systematic discrimination against the city's Black population and of resistance culminating in the Toxteth riots in 1981 It is the story of a city fighting against a descent into obsolescence Liverpool also becomes a prism through which recent British history is brought into a new focus It is the fascinating history of a single iconic city But it is also a warning of what the future may hold for many more communities

Prehistoric Archeology Along the Zagros Flanks University of Chicago. Oriental Institute, 1983 Robert J Braidwood set out with his wife Linda in the spring of 1948 to explore the field evidence for the transition from hunter gatherer way of life to sedentary food production in the region surrounding the Mesopotamian Plain This initial work started many archaeologists thinking about how the processes that lay behind this fundamental change and ultimately other transitions could be documented archaeologically His pioneering effort to introduce specialists from the geological and biological sciences into work on relevant problems in this transition brought about a new set of standards for fieldwork in the Near East and a new appreciation of the richness of the multidimensional archaeological record that can result from these studies This volume is the final report on the Braidwoods initial phase of exploration from 1948 to 1955 in the Chemchemal Valley and adjacent regions of Iraqi Kurdistan In this sense it is a work that can be viewed as the result of a study begun at a transition within archaeology itself from the goals and techniques of the period between the wars to the methods and purposes that characterize the discipline at present Approximately half the volume is devoted to reports on the architecture and artifacts recovered during three seasons of work at Jarmo the first early village site with aceramic levels excavated in the Near East Substantial sections are also devoted to reports on the earlier aceramic site of Karim Shahr and the later Halafian site of Banahilk From a review by Arthur J Jelinek in the Bulletin of the American Schools of Oriental Research 265 1987 87 88
