- The black smiths at Viking times would have made weapons like axes, swords, helmets and shields.
- Black smiths usually work where there is a fire and an anvil, they would have melted the iron in the fire this took a long time but the fire had to be super-hot.
- Then they would have put it on the anvil and hit it into shape with a hammer that they would have already made, then the Vikings would use those weapons and took them into battle to use to fight against the other team in battle.
