Blackberries In The Dream House:

Blackberries in the Dream House Diane Frank, 2003 This book offers both a wide range of critical perspectives on cognitive behaviour therapy CBT from around the world and substantial responses to them It represents the first attempt to engage in print with the controversies and complexities that have exercised sometimes painfully the therapy and counselling world since CBT has risen to such cultural prominence as Western governments take a serious interest in the psychological therapies as instruments of public policy making Against and For CBT will be essential reading for psychotherapists psychoanalysts and counsellors of each and every approach who are concerned with understanding the phenomenon that is CBT and its discontents It will be core reading both on Increasing Access to Psychological Therapies IAPT CBT and contrasting modality training courses that wish to encourage critical engagement with the meaning and cultural context of the therapeutic endeavour

There Is Wisdom in Walnuts Tony Ellis, 2004 The title of Tony Ellis collection of poems there is wisdom in walnuts reflects one of the primary concerns of this collection the presence and containment of the infinite within its smallest part Ellis poems like jewels spare serene and pristine in their beauty need no particular setting They reflect like clear mirrors unhampered by distortion the unity and connectedness of all things Focusing on personal meditative experiences and daily activities the poems in this collection playfully and longingly touch the edges of eternity With a minimum of adornment and elaboration the images presented in these poems move us as through a prism into the center of things The speaker in these poems seek the oneness and is nourished by his affinity to it In a single dewdrop the speaker states from a single drop of dew is the pathway to a million civilizations whose voice we never hear except in the gentle breath of breeze and the quiet hum of life infinitely growing This economy of words unembroidered allows for the graceful and effortless slipping of the bonds of the commonplace as we enter timelessness and connect with past and future The sparkling dewdrop becomes the gateway to connect with the eternal since it carries within itself the essence and the paradigm of all of life and is part of the magnificent and all encompassing software that is nature In the poem sometimes the speaker explains there is nothing so fulfilling as the white tassle of a carpet seen through the eyes of everything or a simple green pot sitting clean on a perfect surface

Tricycle, 2004 Dream House Charlotte Nekola, 1993 In the tradition of Jill Kerr Conway's The Road from Coorain and Tobias Wolff's This Boy's Life this girl's life of the 1950s is a deeply moving family memoir Nekola writes in eloquent translucent prose about a time when it was important to crease your khakis shine the fins on your car and plant colorful flowers in front of your suburban home But her story contradicts this vision of families as well kept as their lawns Nekola's is a woman's take on an era when men were men and women stayed close to home Dad is in love with travel and when not away on business trips leaves home through his nightly cocktails Mom collects recipes having forsaken a career as a teacher She dreams of writing children's books but can't find a free moment to transfer the stories from her mind to paper While the children glimpse the magic of childhood getting up in the middle of the night to see an eclipse finding possums in the backyard they feel the disquieting reverberations of loss and longing This family memoir looks at what might have been lost in the struggle to move up It explores the cost of what was left unsaid by the silent generation and what the cost was for their children from becoming pregnant and marrying young to dropping out and becoming hippies Nekola speaks compassionately of her family torn apart by alcoholism early death and homelessness Through writing through caring she charts a path for others to rethink their lives and the lives of their families Old House Interiors, 2001-09
