Blacks In The Marine Corps:

Blacks in the Marine Corps Henry I. Shaw (Jr.), Ralph W. Donnelly, 1976 Blacks in the Marine Corps Henry I. Shaw, Jr., Ralph W. Donnelly, 2014-06-04 When this monograph was published almost 30 years ago then History and Museums Director Brigadier General Edwin H Simmons wrote Today s generation of Marines serve in a fully integrated Corps where blacks constitute almost one fifth of our strength Black officers noncommissioned officers and privates are omnipresent their service so normal a part of Marine life that it escapes special notice The fact that this was not always so and that as little as 34 years ago in 1941 there were no black Marines deserves explanation This statement holds true for this edition of Blacks in the Marine Corps which has already gone through several previous reprintings What has occurred since the first edition of Blacks in the Marine Corps has been considerable scholarship and additional writing on the subject that deserve mention to a new generation of readers both in and outside the Corps First and foremost is Morris J MacGregor Jr s Integration of the Armed Forces 1940 1965 Washington D C U S Army Center of Military History 1981 that documents the Armed Forces efforts as part of the Defense Studies Series The volume is an excellent history of a social topic often difficult for Service historical offices to deal with African Americans in the Military Catherine Reef, 2014-05-14 Throughout much of the United States s history Blacks in the Marine Corps Henry I. Integrating the US Military Douglas Walter Bristol, Heather Marie Stur, 2017-05 Integrating the US Military is an edited collection that examines the US Army's role and place in progressive social change through the lens of the military experience of African Americans, women and gays since World War II. By making this long overdue comparison, the editors argue this anthology demonstrates how the challenges launched against the racial gender and sexual status quo in the years after World War II transformed overarching ideas about power, citizenship and America's role in the world. This anthology's major contribution is synthesizing recent scholarly work on the history of minorities and women in the US military. It does so by examining connections between GIs and civilian society in the context of ideologies of race, gender and sexuality. Given the militarization of American society since World War II, revealing the links between these legally marginalized groups within the Armed Services is historically significant in its own right. At the same time, this comparison also sheds new light on a broad range of issues that affected civilian society, such as affirmative action, integration, marriage laws and sexual harassment. Integrating the US Military is a book designed for college students, military professionals, policy makers and general readers. Allowing readers to view the history of several civil rights movements within the Armed Forces will prompt them to rethink the way they understand the history of social movements. It will also help them to better understand the relationship between the military and American society. Finally, readers will gain a historical perspective on recent debates about the rights of gays in the military and the implications of deploying women in combat. Provided by publisher

Footprints of the Montford Point Marines Eugene S. Mosley, 2022-01-15 Footprints of the Montford Point Marines explores historic information about the Montford Point Marines and also my dad, Corporal Thomas Mosley, while serving with the first group of African American Marines in the United States. This is the story of a brief period of his life from Montford Point Camp to the Pacific in World War II and seventy years later being awarded the Congressional Gold Medal by Congress. These men came from all parts of the United States to the South to train at a segregated facility called Montford Point Camp adjacent to Camp Lejeune, North Carolina, the largest all-purpose Marine base in the world. It had the best equipment for all types of military training, but these new black enlistees at the adjacent Montford Point Camp were not allowed to enter unless accompanied by a White officer. Camp Lejeune was exclusive to White Marines and their families only. With World War II looming, the government needed all hands on deck and created millions of new jobs in preparation but continued keeping Blacks out of the job market and housing. With the pressure imposed by groups such as the NAACP, President Franklin D. Roosevelt had to rethink these exclusions at least in the federal workplace and through negotiations with many groups led by A Philip Randolph Executive Order 8802 was issued by President Roosevelt on June 25 1941 to counter racial discrimination The U S Marine Corps was part of the defense industry and as a result had to open their ranks to African Americans who wished to serve The Montford Point Marines became giants in the Asiatic Pacific and were some of the greatest heroes this country has ever known Through swamps hills and worse terrain under heavy enemy gunfire they were able to supply ammunition fuel food and medical supplies to troops on the front lines where most others had failed They were also charged with removing the dead and wounded back to the safety of the ships waiting offshore Eventually they were called to the front lines and fought in every major battle in the Pacific islands Some seventy years later on June 27 2012 approximately four hundred of these brave men mostly in their eighties and nineties finally received their just recognition by receiving Congressional Gold Medals Other families received the medal posthumously From 1942 to 1949 the 19 168 Montford Point Marines paid the price so others could follow in their footprints to continue the legacy of the few the proud the Marines Semper Fidelis Always Faithful They were also known as The Chosen Few U.S. Marines in Vietnam: Cosas, Graham A., Murray, Terrence P. Fighting on Two Fronts James E. Westheider,1999-04 In this dramatic history of race relations during the Vietnam War James E Westheider illustrates how American soldiers in Vietnam grappled with many of the same racial conflicts that were roiling their homeland thousands of miles away Over seven years in the making Fighting on Two Fronts draws on interviews with dozens of Vietnam veterans black and white and official Pentagon documents to paint the first complete picture of the African American experience in Vietnam U.S. Marines in Vietnam: Cosmas, G.A., Murray, T.P. Vietnamization and redeployment, 1970-1971 United States. Marine Corps. History and Museums Division,1977 Contested Valor

Cameron D. McCoy,2023-11-16 Contested Valor is a challenging examination of the use and status of black Marines in United States military service during the Cold War era These pioneering men experienced contested military integration as well as multiple forms of institutional and social opposition which called their humanity manhood and rights to full citizenship into question Efforts to undermine their service compromised their right to be counted among the elite and sidelined their story to the fringes of Marine Corps and U S history Cameron McCoy describes the factors and pressures leading to the racial turbulence that surfaced in the Marine Corps from the end of World War II through Vietnam and the measures taken by civilian and Marine officials to maintain and restore organizational integrity based on a foundation of white supremacy He examines the psychological effects of institutionalized racism on African American Marines during the Vietnam era and the emergence of a new generation of black men unwilling to submit to the traditions of a Jim Crow Marine Corps By exploring the realities American society constructed about black Marines this work calls attention to the diverse ways in which these men coped within a strict prejudiced organization and found greater purpose as U S Marines despite an embattled image Contested Valor weaves the experiences of black Americans in the armed forces into the larger tapestry of the American racist past and aptly captures the dilemmas triumphs and pitfalls that the first African American Marines encountered during the contentious eras of World War II Korea and Vietnam McCoy explores the creation of organizational policies designed to minimize their footprint as U S Marines until the social experiment of military integration faded and illustrates the discriminatory practices that further delegitimized their wartime reputation McCoy demonstrates that black Marines absence from the historical record has been compounded by the negligence and oversight of past historians as the Marine Corps reckons with its racist past and its first black Marines The Marines of Montford Point Melton A.

McLaurin,2009-11-05 With an executive order from President Franklin Roosevelt in 1941 the United States Marine Corps the last all white branch of the U S military was forced to begin recruiting and enlisting African Americans The first black recruits received basic training at the segregated Camp Montford Point adjacent to Camp Lejeune near Jacksonville North Carolina Between 1942 and 1949 when the base was closed as a result of President Truman s 1948 order fully desegregating all military forces more than 20 000 men trained at Montford Point most of them going on to serve in the Pacific Theatre in World War II as members of support units This book in conjunction with the documentary film of the same name tells the story of these Marines for the first time Drawing from interviews with 60 veterans The Marines of Montford Point relates the experiences of these pioneers in their own words From their stories we learn about their reasons for enlisting their arrival at Montford Point and the training they received there their lives in a segregated military and in the Jim Crow South their experiences of combat and service in World War II Korea and Vietnam and their legacy The Marines speak with flashes of anger and humor sometimes with sorrow sometimes with great wisdom and always with a pride fostered by incredible accomplishment in the face of adversity This book serves to recognize and to honor the men who desegregated the Marine Corps and loyally served their country in three major wars U.S. Marines in Vietnam Graham A. Cosmas, Terrence P. Murray, 1986
