of the book shows that Kierkegaard's notion of situatedness as being placed in a socio-historical situation conditioned by a situation prior to situatedness points to a realist position and a flat ontology. Secondly, the book develops a detailed analysis of the ontological structure of the existential place, the place we ourselves are and concrete places, the places where we are. Place opens a qualified space within bounds, the existence sphere, an atmosphere of elemental attunement and attuned elementality. Finally, the book collects the dots from part one and two in a topological realist approach to Kierkegaard's theology and three main definitions of God: God is love, God is that everything is possible, and God is the middle term. The book concludes that Kierkegaard's existential topography reveals a realist position where we are is never exhausted by being the place where we are.
