Blessing Over Ashes The Remarkable Odyssey Of My Cambodian Brother:

A Blessing over Ashes Adam Fifield, 2001-06-05 On a snowy winter's night in Vermont eleven year old Adam Fifield and his family awaited the arrival of his new foster brother Soeuth a fourteen year old refugee from the killing fields of Cambodia Scrawny and terrified Soeuth was mute for days warily retreating into his room despite the Fifields' numerous attempts to make him feel welcome But for Soeuth whose young life had been plagued with fear and violence it would be months before any place could feel like home In this rewarding memoir Adam Fifield recalls the months and years that followed his first meeting with Soeuth He describes the boy's amazing physical prowess his sense of humor and juxtaposed against his own typically American coming of age the horrific details of Soeuth's early years But even more compelling is the story of Adam and his brother's journey to Cambodia to meet the family Soeuth once thought dead What awaits them on the side of the globe will both reunite Soeuth with his lost family and cement the relationship he has forced with his new one Escaping the Khmer Rouge Chileng Pa, Carol A. Mortland, 2017-02-10 The Khmer Rouge ruled Cambodia for three years eight months and twenty days After overthrowing Lon Nol in April 1975 and establishing a so called Democratic Kampuchea the Communist sponsored government was responsible for the deaths of as many as two million people almost one third of the country's population Here Chileng Pa vividly recalls life under the Cambodian Communists Attempting to conceal his identity as a policeman for the previous government Chileng changed his name and moved his family to the village of Prayap near the Vietnamese border In April of 1977 after two years of starvation and cruelty at the hands of the Khmer Rouge Chileng was forced to watch as Communist guerillas brutally murdered his wife and two year old son With nothing left for him in Prayap Chileng fled to Vietnam but eventually returned to Cambodia as part of a Vietnamese invasion force that would end the bloody reign of the Khmer regime In 1981 Chileng and his new family found their way to America His simple strand of remembrance serves to honor all those who died at the hands of the Khmer Rouge Leaving the House of Ghosts Sarah Streed, 2010-06-28 On April 17 1975 after five years of civil war the Khmer Rouge guerrillas invaded Cambodia's major cities and forced the residents on a mass exodus to the countryside Their leader Pol Pot established a government based on terror to bring about his dream of an agrarian society where work was done by hand without what he believed to be corruptive influences By the time the Vietnamese captured Phnom Penh and ended this brutal experiment in communism in 1979 an estimated two million Cambodians were dead and hundreds of thousands had begun to flee the country for refugee camps in Thailand Survivors of Pol Pot and his Khmer Rouge now living in the Midwest tell their stories in this work Many of them were children during that time unable to comprehend exactly what was happening and why but now able to reveal the trauma they experienced Noeun Nor and Sinn Lok recollect being wrenched from their families and put into labor camps around the age of five Prum Nath talks about her mother encouraging her to eat the last grains of her family's rice Sokhary You remembers giving birth on a mountain without a doctor or hospital and using rusty scissors to cut the umbilical cord

Begin Here Rocio G. Davis, 2007-01-31 An analytically innovative work Begin Here widens the current critical focus of Asian North American literary studies by proposing an integrated thematic and narratological approach to the practice of autobiography. It demonstrates how Asian North American memoirs of childhood challenge the construction and performative potential of national experiences. This understanding influences theoretical approaches to ethnic life writing, expanding the boundaries of traditional autobiography by negotiating narrative techniques and genre and raising complex questions about self representation and the construction of cultural memory. By examining the artistic project of some fifty Asian North American writers who deploy their childhood narratives in the representation of the individual processes of self identification and negotiation of cultural and national affiliation, this work provides a comprehensive overview of Asian North American autobiographies of childhood published over the last century. Importantly, it also attends to new ways of writing autobiographies, employing comics, blending verse, prose, diaries, and life writing for children, and using relational approaches to self identification among others.

Bending with the Wind Bounchoeurn Sao, Diyana D. Sao, Karline F. Bird, 2014-01-10 Before the Khmer Rouge takeover of Cambodia in April 1975, Sao Bounchoeurn and San Bounriem grew up in idyllic though vastly different circumstances. After a secondary education, Bounchoeurn entered the army, joined the Special Forces, and worked for the Americans. He became a slave laborer after the fall of Phnom Penh and eventually escaped to Thailand. In another part of Cambodia, Bounriem lived happily, spoiled and uneducated. Fleeing from the advancing Khmer Rouge, she arrived at the same refugee camp as Bounchoeurn, where they met, married, and immigrated to America. This riveting memoir chronicles the couple's childhoods, their lives under the Khmer Rouge, their journeys to Thailand and later the United States, and their efforts to forge a new life. This remarkable tale offers an intimate look inside the terrors of the Khmer Rouge and an inspiring portrait of the immigrant experience in America.

Form and Transformation in Asian American Literature Xiaojing Zhou, Samina Najmi, 2011-07-01 This critical anthology draws on current theoretical movements to examine the breadth of Asian American literature from the earliest to the most recent writers. Covering fiction, essays, poetry, short stories, ethnography, and autobiography, Form and Transformation in Asian American Literature advances the development of a theoretically informed, historically and culturally specific methodology for studying this increasingly complex field. The essays in this anthology probe into hotly debated issues as well as understudied topics, including the relations between Asian American and other minority American writings.

American Book Publishing Record, 2000-07 In the Shadow of Angkor Frank Stewart, Sharon May, 2004-05-31 Nearly two million people died in Cambodia between 1975 and 1979 as a result of the Khmer Rouge's genocidal regime. Cambodians who were educated, teachers, artists, and authors were among the first to be killed. One generation later, literature is re-emerging from the ashes. 22 photographs.
