Bond A Study Of His Plays:

Bond, a Study of His Plays Malcolm Hay, Philip Roberts, 1980 Adapting King Lear for the Stage Lynne Bradley, 2016-03-16 Questioning whether the impulse to adapt Shakespeare has changed over time Lynne Bradley argues for restoring a sense of historicity to the study of adaptation Bradley compares Nahum Tate's History of King Lear 1681 adaptations by David Garrick in the mid eighteenth century and nineteenth century Shakespeare burlesques to twentieth century theatrical rewritings of King Lear and suggests latter day adaptations should be viewed as a unique genre that allows playwrights to express modern subject positions with regard to their literary heritage while also participating in broader debates about art and society In identifying and relocating different adaptive gestures within this historical framework Bradley explores the link between the critical and the creative in the history of Shakespearean adaptation Focusing on works such as Gordon Bottomley's King Lear's Wife 1913 Edward Bond's Lear 1971 Howard Barker's Seven Lears 1989 and the Women's Theatre Group's Lear's Daughters 1987 Bradley theorizes that modern rewritings of Shakespeare constitute a new type of textual interaction based on a simultaneous double gesture of collaboration and rejection She suggests that this new interaction provides constituent groups such as the feminist collective who wrote Lear's Daughters a strategy to acknowledge their debt to Shakespeare while writing against the traditional and negative representations of femininity they see reflected in his plays The Function of Song in Contemporary British Drama Elizabeth Hale Winkler, 1990 This comprehensive study formulates an original theory that dramatic song must be perceived as a separate genre situated between poetry music and theater It focuses on John Arden Margaretta D'Arcy Edward Bond Peter Barnes John Osborne Peter Nichols Harold Pinter Tom Stoppard Peter Shaffer and John McGrath Strategies of Political Theatre Michael Patterson, 2003-05-22 This volume provides a theoretical framework for some of the most important play writing in Britain in the second half of the twentieth century Examining representative plays by Arnold Wesker John Arden Trevor Griffiths Howard Barker Howard Brenton Edward Bond David Hare John McGrath and Caryl Churchill the author analyses their respective strategies for persuading audiences of the need for a radical restructuring of society The book begins with a discussion of the way that theatre has been used to convey a political message Each chapter is then devoted to an exploration of the engagement of individual playwrights with left wing political theatre including a detailed analysis of one of their major plays Despite political change since the 1980s political play writing continues to be a significant element in contemporary play writing but in a very changed form Adapted from the Original Laurence Raw, 2018-08-28 Critics and audiences often judge films books and other media as great but what does that really mean This collection of new essays examines the various criteria by which degrees of greatness or not so are constructed whether by personal political or social standards through topics in cinema literature and adaptation The contributors recognize how issues of value vary across different cultures and explore what those differences say about attitudes and beliefs Edward Bond Delia Donahue, 1979 A

The Play Out of Context Hanna Scolnicov, Peter Holland, 1989-02-24 This is a volume of essays which examines the relationship between the play and its historical and cultural contexts Transferring plays from one period or one culture to another is so much more than translating the words from one language into another The contributors vary their approaches to this problem from the theoretical to the practical from the literary to the theatrical with plays examined both historically and synchronically The articles interact with each other presenting a diversity of views of the central theme and establishing a dialogue between scholars of different cultures With play texts quoted in English the range of themes stretches from a Japanese interpretation of Chekhov to Shakespeare in Nazi Germany and Racine borrowing from Sophocles Most of the essays are based on papers presented at the Jerusalem Theatre Conference in 1986 The book will be of interest to students and scholars of the theatre and of literature and literary theory as well as to theatregoers Perceiving Evil: Evil Women cross times cultures and media Misreading Shakespeare Wagdi Zeid, 2012-10 A dynamic new study in literary and dramatic influence Misreading Shakespeare defines and explores the relation between two modern plays Edward Bond's Lear and Tom Stoppard's Rosencrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead and Shakespeare's King Lear and Hamlet While some see the modern plays as derivative others claim that they are as original as the Shakespearean plays The effort to define and explore this relationship is a challenge for critics and readers alike Here Wagdi Zeid a playwright and professor of Shakespeare and drama puts forth a theoretical perspective derived from W Jackson Bate and Harold Bloom's theories of influence Zeid's study manages to define and explore not only this intriguing and ambiguous relationship but the concept of originality itself Furthermore while theorists like Bate and Bloom are wholly concerned with just general statements and concepts Misreading Shakespeare goes inside the dramatic texts themselves and this practical aspect makes a big difference Also neither Bate nor Bloom has tried to apply his theory to dramatic texts Misreading Shakespeare offers readers both theory and practice Misreading Shakespeare was written for an eclectic audience including scholars of drama theatre Shakespeare and literary theory and criticism playwrights and other writers striving for originality and theatrical artists and audiences alike Indian Doctoral Dissertations in English Studies K.
