Ecosystem Goods and Services from Plantation Forests Jurgen Bauhus, Peter van der Meer, Markku Kanninen, 2010-09-23 Plantation forests often have a negative image They are typically assumed to be poor substitutes for natural forests particularly in terms of biodiversity conservation carbon storage provision of clean drinking water and other non timber goods and services Often they are monocultures that do not appear to invite people for recreation and other direct uses Yet as this book clearly shows they can play a vital role in the provision of ecosystem services when compared to agriculture and other forms of land use or when natural forests have been degraded This is the first book to examine explicitly the non timber goods and services provided by plantation forests including soil water and biodiversity conservation as well as carbon sequestration and the provision of local livelihoods The authors show that if we require a higher provision of ecosystem goods and services from both temperate and tropical plantations new approaches to their management are required These include policies methods for valuing the services the practices of small landholders landscape approaches to optimise delivery of goods and services and technical issues about how to achieve suitable solutions at the scale of forest stands While providing original theoretical insights the book also gives guidance for plantation managers policy makers conservation practitioners and community advocates who seek to promote or strengthen the multiple use of forest plantations for improved benefits for society Published with CIFOR

The Youth Guide to Forests Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2018-06-06 This fact filled guide explores forests from the equator to the frozen poles the depths of the rainforest to the mountain forests at high altitudes It also demonstrates the many benefits that forests provide us with discusses the negative impacts that humans unfortunately have on forests and explains how good management can help protect and conserve forests and forest biodiversity At the end of the guide inspiring examples of youth led initiatives and an easy to follow action plan will help young people develop their own forest conservation activities and projects Fremont-Winema National Forest (N.F.), Toolbox Fire Recovery Project ,2004

Forest Climbing Plants of West Africa Frans Bongers,Marc P. E. Parren,Dossahua Traoré,2005 Climbing plants including lianas represent a fascinating component of the ecology of tropical forests This book focuses on the climbing plants of West African forests Based on original research it presents information on the flora including a checklist diversity with overviews at several levels of integration ecology distribution characteristics in relation to environment their role in forest ecosystems and ethnobotany Forestry aspects such as their impact on tree growth and development and the effects of forestry interventions on climbers are also covered Forests as Wildlife Habitat John Good,1991
