Animals Of All Kinds

James B. Reichmann

Animals Of All Kinds:

Evolution, Animal 'rights' & the Environment James B. Reichmann, 2000 The author of this study undertakes an investigation of the metaethical grounds of rights theory with special focus on the controversial issue of whether creatures other than humans can and should be considered true subjects of rights He contends that before assigning rights to this or that individual or group whether human or not we need to be very clear about what it is we are assigning to whom and why The book argues that the efforts to build a case supporting animal and environmental rights fail in their quest and that any such effort resting on a Darwinian evolutionary base is likewise condemned to fail The author investigates life phenomena followed by a detailed comparative study of knowing communicating and doing as these are observed in the human and nonhuman animal This is followed by an overview of diverse views advanced by contemporary environmental ethicists and animal rights advocates including Peter Singer Tom Regan J Baird Callicott Laura Westra and Don E Marietta Jr Conclusions drawn from this study include the claims that classic Darwinian theory provides no admissible premise from which to derive a theory of inherent inalienable rights no satisfactory explanation of the origin of rights and obligation can derive save from within the context of natural law theory the human person alone unqualifiedly possesses rights and the view that vegetarianism is an ethical mandate is neither compatible with the Christian world view nor philosophically sound
