Denny, George Randolph Hopkins, James Stewart Wroth, L. C. Ilsley, Martin Joseph Gavin, William Waugh Adams, Ernest J. Gleim, Fred Daniel De Vaney, John Stephen Desmond, Hilary Breton Brunot, 1929 Annual Report British Columbia. Department of Mines and Petroleum Resources, 1973 A White Man's Province Patricia Roy, 1989 We are not strong enough to assimilate races so alien from us in their habits We are afraid they will swamp our civilization as such Nanaimo Free Press 1914 A White Man's Province examines how British Columbians changed their attitudes towards Asian immigrants from one of toleration in colonial times to vigorous hostility by the turn of the century and describes how politicians responded to popular cries to halt Asian immigration and restrict Asian activities in the province White workingmen objected to Asian sojourning habits to their low living standards and wages and to their competition for jobs in specific industries Because employers and politicians initially supported Asian immigrants early manifestations of antipathy often appeared just as another dispute between capital and labour But as their number increased complaints about Asians became widespread and racial characteristics became the nucleus of such terms as a white man's province a catch phrase which as Roy notes covered a wide variety of fears and transcended particular economic interests The Chinese were the chief targets of hostility in the nineteenth century by the twentieth the Japanese more economically ambitious and backed by a powerful mother country appeared more threatening After Asian disenfranchisement in the 1870s

provincial politicians freed from worry about the Asian vote fueled and exploited public prejudices The Asian question also became a rallying cry for provincial rights when Ottawa disallowed anti Asian legislation Although federal leaders such as John A Macdonald and Wilfrid Laurier shared a desire to keep Canada a white man s country they followed a policy of restraint in view of imperial concerns The belief that whites should be superior as Roy points out was then common throughout the Western world Many of the arguments used in British Columbia were influenced by anti Asian sentiments and legislation emanating from California and from Australia and other British colonies Drawing on almost every newspaper and magazine report published in the province before 1914 and on government records and private manuscripts Roy has produced a revealing historical account of the complex basis of racism in British Columbia and of the contribution made to the province in these early years by its Chinese and Japanese residents Report of the Committee of management of the Technological, Industrial, and Sanitary Museum of Sydney, New South Wales ,1889 When Coal Was King John Hinde,2011-11-01 The town of Ladysmith was one of the most important coal mining communities on Vancouver Island during the early twentieth century The Ladysmith miners had a reputation for radicalism and militancy and engaged in bitter struggles for union recognition and economic justice most notably the Great Strike of 1912 14 This strike one of the longest and most violent labour disputes in Canadian history marked a watershed in the history of the town and the coal industry This book explains the origins of the 1912 14 strike by examining the development of the coal industry on Vancouver Island the founding of Ladysmith the experience of work and safety in the mines the process of political and economic mobilization and how these factors contributed to the development of identity and community While the Vancouver Island coal industry and the strike have been the focus of a number of popular histories this book goes beyond to emphasize the importance of class ethnicity gender and community in creating the conditions for the emergence and mobilization of the working class population Informed by current academic debates on the matter and within the discipline this readable history takes into account extensive archival research and will appeal to historians and others interested in the history of Vancouver Island
