Arab Oil Policies in the 1970s Yusuf Sayigh, 2015-05-15 Until 1973 few people either in the advanced industrial countries or in the developing countries of the Third World thought seriously on the issues and complexities involved in the production and marketing of the oil on which they relied It was only with the sudden steep increases in oil prices that the oil industry became a matter of general discussion and the Organisation of Petroleum Exporting Countries OPEC became a front page topic for analysis and comment However real understanding of the organisation and its policies did not accompany this rush of interest and much confusion has followed In particular the Arab exporters have received the weight of the criticism although they have only a share in the market and not a monopoly This book attempts to instil a greater mutual understanding between oil exporters and importers although it is not a wholesale endorsement of Arab policies by outlining the major policy areas in this field It looks at new policy options and their implications in exploration marketing and pricing and at downstream operations such as the petrochemical and gas industries In conclusion this study identifies the wide ranging opportunities that the new oil policies have opened up for the Arab countries in the national regional and international context and assesses and clarifies the responsibilities which accompany this success First published in 1983

Political Modernization in the Gulf Shahid Jamal Ansari,1998 The entire Gulf is passing through a transitional phase The member states of the Gulf Cooperation Council GCC are witnessing change in varying degrees The change has become too evident from the 1960s It was oil more than any other factor which was responsible for a rapid transition Control over oil production and marketing have led to the strengthening of governmental role as owner and distributor of oil income The regions tribal society is being transformed into a modern society Political modernization is a recent phenomenon if the nature and extent of structural and informal transformations are taken into account Three broadly defined phases of political change can be discerned in the Arabian Peninsula the traditional the neo traditional and the modernizing or post traditional The modernizing phase was initiated by radical policies of socio economic development including the necessary restructuring of replacement of regimes and a redefinition or expansion of the scope and role of the state However the pace and direction of change is not clear enough The coming few decades are crucial in this regard
