The Oxford History of the Novel in English Cyrus R. K. Patell,Deborah Lindsay Williams,2024-03-05 The Oxford History of the Novel in English is a twelve volume series presenting a comprehensive global and up to date history of English language prose fiction written by a large international team of scholars The series is concerned with novels as a whole not just the literary novel and each volume includes chapters on the processes of production distribution and reception and on popular fiction and the fictional sub genres as well as outlining the work of major novelists movements and tendencies This book offers an account of US fiction during a period demarcated by two traumatic moments the eve of the entry of the United States into the Second World War and the onset of the Covid 19 pandemic The aftermath of the Second World War was arguably the high point of US nationalism but in the years that followed US writers would increasingly explore the possibility that US democracy was a failure both at home and abroad For so many of the writers whose work this volume explores the idea of nation became suspect as did the idea of national literature as the foundation for US writing Looking at post 1940s writing the literary historian might well chart a movement within literary cultures away from nationalism and toward what we would call cosmopolitanism a perspective that fosters conversations between the occupants of different cultural spaces and that regards difference as an opportunity to be embraced rather than a problem to be solved During this period the novel has had significant competition for the US public s attention from other forms of narrative and media film television comic books videogames and the internet and the various forms of social media that it spawned If however the novel becomes a residual form during this period it is by no means archaic The novel has been reinvigorated over the past eighty years by its encounters with both emergent forms such as film television comic books and digital media and the emergent voices typically associated with multiculturalism in the United States

GALE, Postcolonial Theory and the United States Amritjit Singh, Peter Schmidt, 2009-11-12 At the beginning of the twenty first century we may be in a transnational moment increasingly aware of the ways in which local and national narratives in literature and elsewhere cannot be conceived apart from a radically new sense of shared human histories and global interdependence To think transnationally about literature history and culture requires a study of the evolution of hybrid identities within nation states and diasporic identities across national boundaries Studies addressing issues of race ethnicity and empire in US culture have provided some of the most innovative and controversial contributions to recent scholarship Postcolonial Theory and the United States Race Ethnicity and Literature represents a new chapter in the emerging dialogues about the importance of borders on a global scale This book collects nineteen essays written in the 1990s in this emergent field by both well established and up and coming scholars Almost all the essays have been either especially written for this volume or revised for inclusion here These essays are accessible well focused resources for college and university students and their teachers displaying both historical depth and theoretical finesse as they attempt close and lively readings The anthology includes more than one discussion of each literary tradition associated with major racial or ethnic communities Such a gathering of diverse complementary and often competing viewpoints provides a good introduction to the cultural differences and commonalities that comprise the United States today The volume opens with two essays by the editors first a survey of the ideas in the individual pieces and second a long essay that places current debates in US ethnicity and race studies within both the history of American studies as a whole and recent developments in postcolonial theory

Western and Arab worlds Using the lens of postcolonial literary theory Katharina Motyl explores how the War on Terror turned Arab Americans into enemies within their own country Countering the master narrative of a clash of civilizations between the Islamic world and the West the fictional and poetic texts discussed in this book alternate between deconstructing neo Orientalist stereotypes and critiquing U S neocolonialism in the Greater Middle East on the one hand and critically examining Arab culture for instance its patriarchal outlook on the other Motyl pays special attention to texts written by Arab American women who have radically advocated for self determination in areas like sexuality and mode of dress thus rejecting the stereotype of Arab women as oppressed victims With the Face of the Enemy takes a serious look at how the aesthetics of Arab American literature negotiates the many psychosocial consequences the domestic War on Terror and the U S wars in Iraq and Afghanistan have had on the Arab American community The Time Between Places Pauline Kaldas,2010-11-01 This collection of twenty stories delves into the lives of Egyptian characters from those living in Egypt to those who have immigrated to the United States With subtle and eloquent prose the complexities of these characters are revealed opening a door into their intimate struggles with identity and place We meet people who are tempted by the possibilities of America and others who are tempted by the desire to return home Some are in the throes of re creating themselves in the new world while others seem to be embedded in the loss of their homeland Many of these characters although physically located in either the United States or Egypt have lives that embrace both cultures A Game of Chance follows the actions of a young man when he wins the immigration lottery and then must decide whether or not to change his life Cumin and Coriander takes us inside a woman s thoughts as she tries to come to terms with the path her life has taken while working as a cook for American expatriates in Egypt The Top enters the mind of a man whose immigration results in a loss of identity and sanity These compelling stories pull us into the lives of many different characters and offer us striking insights into the Arab American experience Aging Masculinities in Contemporary U.S. Fiction Josep M.

Abdul-Jabbar,2019-05-09 This book framed through the notion of double consciousness brings postcolonial constructs to sociopolitical and pedagogical studies of youth that have yet to find serious traction in education Significantly this book contributes to a growing interest among educational and curriculum scholars in engaging the pedagogical role of literature in the theorization of an inclusive curriculum Therefore this study not only recognizes the potential of immigrant literature in provoking critical conversation on changes young people undergo in diaspora but also explores how the curriculum is informed by the diasporic condition itself as demonstrated by this negotiation of foreignness between the student and selected texts Etching Our Own Image Anan Ameri,Holly Arida,2009-03-26 Etching Our Own Image Voices From Within the Arab American Art Movement is a celebration of Arab American art and identity In the wake of 9 11 the need for Arab Americans to define themselves rather than be defined by others has galvanized an artistic movement This collection of writers includes poets musicians playwrights creative writers painters conceptual artists comedians and scholars of the arts who have gathered to assert for themselves what it means to be Arab American and an artist Arab American artists use their art both to resist and to embrace their past present and future Through their art they retain their origins while creating something new They collaborate and come together The artists included here are above all artists and the artistic renderings in this collection demonstrate their commitment to craft innovation and expression They take on the task of etching their own image willingly or unwillingly consciously or unconsciously By telling their own stories through their own artistic mediums these voices from within the Arab American art movement reclaim their own image and tell the world who they are

Negotiating Borderlines in Four Contemporary Migrant Writers from the Middle East Petya Tsoneva Ivanova,2018-10-23 The book considers the persistent tendency to represent the Middle East as a region enclosed in less permeable boundaries This perspective of enclosure haunts Middle Eastern Studies and is part of ongoing cultural debates on cross border circulation currently challenged by spectacular outbursts of violence along resurfacing lines of division This critical study analyses selected works of four contemporary Anglophone migrant writers from the Middle East namely Rabih Alameddine Diana Abu Jaber Laila Halaby and Elif Shafak to demonstrate that in spite of the forceful lines that remain after religious ethnic and political disputes this region does not exist as a rigidly delimited place in the writing of migrants who reclaim it back from beyond its boundaries Rather than being a permanent location it is constructed as a place that flows into other places and is constantly reshaped by a variety of personal stories migrant trajectories departures and returns
