The Writing Revolution Amalia E. Gnanadesikan, 2011-09-13 In a world of rapid technological advancements it can be easy to forget that writing is the original Information Technology created to transcend the limitations of human memory and to defy time and space The Writing Revolution picks apart the development of this communication tool to show how it has conquered the world Explores how writing has liberated the world making possible everything from complex bureaucracy literature and science to instruction manuals and love letters Draws on an engaging range of examples from the first cuneiform clay tablet Egyptian hieroglyphs and Japanese syllabaries to the printing press and the text messaging Weaves together ideas from a number of fields including history cultural studies and archaeology as well as linguistics and literature to create an interdisciplinary volume Traces the origins of each of the world's major written traditions along with their applications adaptations and cultural influences New Researches on the Quran: Why and How Two Versions of Islam Entered the History of Mankind Dr. Seyed Mostafa Azmayesh, 2015 This book focuses on the time before the Quran and the emergence of Islam The research delves into the origin of the Quran using its verses alongside investigative works which support various new theories The Quran is a written document which according to recent discoveries such as the recently discovered world's oldest Quran manuscript at the University of Birmingham can be traced to the lifetime of Prophet Mohammad It focuses on the time preceding Islam and highlights the relationships that are pivotal for understanding the development of Islam The danger posed by false interpretations of the Quran has become increasingly more serious from first appearance of Islam until today the result of which we can see clearly in our current world Hence the Quran itself is the most important document to be researched and studied for resolving the problems caused by its false interpretation Handbook to Life in the Medieval World, 3-Volume Set Madeleine Perner Cosman, Linda Gale Jones, 2009 Presents a three volume set that examines the medieval civilizations of the Muslims Jews and Christians including history economics medicine technology art literature and clothing DeArabizing Arabia Saad D. Abulhab, 2011 This book is a comprehensive reference on the history of Arabic Language and script which goes beyond the sole discussion of technical matters It studies objectively the evidence presented by modern day western archeological discoveries together with the evidence presented by the indispensable scholarly work and research of the past Islamic Arab civilization era The book scrutinizes modern western theories about the history of the Arabs and Arabic language and script in connection with the roles played by Western Near East scholarship religion and colonial history in the formation of current belief system vs Arab history and language which is an essential step to study this correlated and complex topic objectively In his book the author explores the relevant facts of history and geography as crucial defining factors in the study of history of Arabic language and script He offers a brief balanced account on the important topic of Muhammad leadership and Islam in the formation of Arabia and investigates the Quran as a key evidence and reference of the Arabic language and script As a research tool this book presents in depth tracings and readings of the most relevant inscriptions and the findings accumulated by the author over one and a half year of research Particularly it presents new comprehensive readings of the important Umm al Jimal and al Namarah Nabataean Arabic inscriptions The al Namarah stone which was discovered by French archeologist Dussaud in 1901 displayed today on a wall in the Louvre Museum of Paris was assumed for more than a century to be the tombstone of the prominent pre Islamic Arab king Umru al Qays bin Amru After re tracing and re reading its complex inscription the author concluded it was actually about a previously unknown personality named Akdi possibly a high ranking Arab soldier in the Roman army or an Arab tribal leader not the burial stone of King Umru al Qays or even about him Similarly the author proves beyond doubt that the important Umm al Jimal Nabataean Arabic inscription was not the burial stone of Faihru bin Sali but Faru bin Sali The two inscriptions are among only four Nabataean inscriptions believed by Western scholars to be written in the old Arabic language These are referenced heavily today as evidence linking the Arabic script to the Nabataean Aramaic script Utilizing classic Arabic and grammar tools and challenging their accuracy at times the author findings in this book could potentially amend several historical and linguistic facts as told today by history textbooks In his book the author a known Arabic type designer studies with an investigative expert eye the early shapes of the pre Islamic Arabic script and compares them to those of Musnad Arabic and late Nabataean Aramaic inscriptions in addition to those of the early Islamic Arabic manuscripts and papyri He concludes that the early Arabic script was not an evolved Nabataean script but likely an independently derived script of the old Musnad Arabic script with clear Nabataean influence Although this book is conceived as a reference tool for scholars and researchers other readers may find its topics and captivating arguments valid enough to debate and to study further All chapters can be read independently There are more than 40 figures and illustrations to aid the reader throughout the book The first two chapters are intended as introductory essays regarding the history of Arabia people and language and the role of Western scholarship To facilitate the selective and independent reading of the last three chapters which presents the author research findings and conclusions the book included in addition to the chapter specific references already offered throughout the whole book chapter specific introductions and conclusions

Blair, 2020-01-19 No detailed description available for Islamic Calligraphy Persian Calligraphy Mahdiyeh Meidani, 2019-09-04 This book is an exploratory adventure to defamiliarize calligraphy especially Persian Nastaliq calligraphic letterforms and to look beyond the tradition that has always considered calligraphy as pursuant to and subordinate to linguistic practices Calligraphy can be considered a visual communicative system with different means of meaning making or as a medium through which meaning is made and expression is conveyed via a complex grammar This study looks at calligraphy as a systematic means in the field of visual communication rather than as a one dimensional and ad hoc means of providing visual beauty and aesthetic enjoyment Revolving around different insights of multimodal social semiotics the volume relies on the findings of a corpus study of Persian Nastaliq calligraphy The research emphasizes the way in which letterforms regardless of conventions in language are applied as graphically meaningful forms that convey individual distinct meanings This volume on Persian Nastaliq calligraphy will be inspirational to visual artists designers calligraphers writers linguists and visual communicators With an introduction to social semiotics this work will be of interest to students and scholars interested in visual arts media and communication and semiotics :
