Archaeological Finds First Studys:

Proceedings of the First Conference on Scientific Research in the National Parks, New Orleans, Louisiana, November 9-12, 1976 Robert M. Linn, 1979 From the Early Preboreal to the Subboreal period - Current Mesolithic research in Europe. Annabel Zander, Birgit Gehlen, 2021-02-15 This volume 5 of the Mesolithic Edition publishes the papers of lectures and posters presented during the conference of the AG Mesolithikum in Wuppertal in March 2017 30 authors from Denmark the Netherlands Austria and Germany publish their latest research on the Mesolithic A total of 16 contributions offer site analyses regional and supra regional studies as well as theoretical and methodological essays At the end of the volume the full publication list of the honouree Bernhard Gramsch is published Archaeological Human Remains Barra O'Donnabhain, María Cecilia Lozada, 2014-06-10 This volume addresses the directions that studies of archaeological human remains have taken in a number of different countries where attitudes range from widespread support to prohibition Overlooked in many previous publications this diversity in attitudes is examined through a variety of lenses including academic origins national identities supporting institutions archaeological context and globalization The volume situates this diversity of attitudes by examining past and current tendencies in studies of archaeologically retrieved human remains across a range of geopolitical settings In a context where methodological approaches have been increasingly standardized in recent decades the volume poses the question if this standardization has led to a convergence in approaches to archaeological human remains or if significant differences remain between practitioners in different countries The volume also explores the future trajectories of the study of skeletal remains in the different jurisdictions under scrutiny The Routledge Handbook of Archaeological Human Remains and Legislation Nicholas Marquez-Grant, Linda Fibiger, 2011-03-21 Methodologies and legislative frameworks regarding the archaeological excavation retrieval analysis curation and potential reburial of human skeletal remains differ throughout the world As work forces have become increasingly mobile and international research collaborations are steadily increasing the need for a more comprehensive understanding of different national research traditions methodologies and legislative structures within the academic and commercial sector of physical anthropology has arisen The Routledge Handbook of Archaeological Human Remains and Legislation provides comprehensive information on the excavation of archaeological human remains and the law through 62 individual country contributions from Europe Asia Africa North America South America and Australasia More specifically the volume discusses the following What is the current situation including a brief history of physical anthropology in the country What happens on discovering human remains who is notified etc What is the current legislation regarding the excavation of archaeological human skeletal remains Is a license needed to excavate human remains Is there any specific legislation regarding excavation in churchyards Any specific legislation regarding war graves Are physical anthropologists involved in the excavation process Where is the cut off point between forensic and archaeological human remains e g 100 years 50 years 25 years Can human remains be transported abroad for research purposes What methods of anthropological analysis are mostly used in the country Are there any methods created in that country which are population specific Are there particular ethical issues that need to be considered when excavating human remains such as religious groups or tribal groups In addition an overview of landmark anthropological studies and important collections are provided where appropriate The entries are contained by an introductory chapter by the editors which establish the objectives and structure of the book setting it within a wider archaeological framework and a conclusion which explores the current European and world wide trends and perspectives in the study of archaeological human remains The Routledge Handbook of Archaeological Human Remains and Legislation makes a timely much needed contribution to the field of physical anthropology and is unique as it combines information on the excavation of human remains and the legislation that guides it alongside information on the current state of physical anthropology across several continents It is an indispensable tool for archaeologists involved in the excavation of human remains around the world International Handbook of Historical Archaeology Teresita Majewski, David

Gaimster, 2009-06-07 In studying the past archaeologists have focused on the material remains of our ancestors Prehistorians generally have only artifacts to study and rely on the diverse material record for their understanding of past societies and their behavior Those involved in studying historically documented cultures not only have extensive material remains but also contemporary texts images and a range of investigative technologies to enable them to build a broader and more reflexive picture of how past societies communities and individuals operated and behaved Increasingly historical archaeology refers not to a particular period place or a method but rather an approach that interrogates the tensions between artifacts and texts irrespective of context In short historical archaeology provides direct evidence for how humans have shaped the world we live in today Historical archaeology is a branch of global archaeology that has grown in the last 40 years from its North American base into an increasingly global community of archaeologists each studying their area of the world in a historical context Where historical archaeology started as part of the study of the post Columbian societies of the United States and Canada it has now expanded to interface with the post medieval archaeologies of Europe and the diverse post imperial experiences of Africa Latin America and Australasia The 36 essays in the International Handbook of Historical Archaeology have been specially commissioned from the leading researchers in their fields creating a wide ranging digest of the increasingly global field of historical archaeology The volume is divided into two sections the first reviewing the key themes issues and approaches of historical archaeology today and the second containing a series of case studies charting the development and current state of historical archaeological practice around the world This key reference work captures the energy and diversity of this global discipline today Recent Archaeological Discoveries and Biblical Research William G. Dever, 1990 A provocative and often insightful volume The book's central chapters describe in illuminating detail how the results of recent excavations affect our understanding of three major issues and periods in the history of Israel Dever's firsthand knowledge of the material is everywhere apparent and his presentation of important new data is characteristically lucid

Biblical Archaeology Review Ancient Synagogues - Archaeology and Art: New Discoveries and Current Research
Rachel Hachlili, 2013-09-30

Ancient Synagogues Archaeology and Art New Discoveries and Current Research presents archaeological evidence the architecture art Jewish symbols zodiac biblical tales inscriptions and coins which attest to the importance of the synagogue When considered as a whole all these pieces of evidence confirm the centrality of the synagogue institution in the life of the Jewish communities all through Israel and in the Diaspora Most importantly the synagogue and its art and architecture played a powerful role in the preservation of the fundamental beliefs customs and traditions of the Jewish people following the destruction of the Second Temple and the loss of Jewish sovereignty in the Land of Israel The book also includes a supplement of the report on the Qazion excavation

The Oxford Handbook of

A History of African Archaeology

Peter Robertshaw, 1990

Archaeologists have been excavating in Africa for over 200 years Contributors place the subject within the broader political social and economic context Not only have the attitudes and aspirations of both colonialism and nationalism been important influences on the development of African archaeology but certain discoveries have also had considerable political impact Contributors include J D Clark Thurstan Shaw and Peter Shinnie who have been at the forefront of African archaeology for 50 years

The Archaeology of Slavery in Early Medieval Northern Europe Felix

Biermann, Marek Jankowiak, 2021-11-18

This volume is the first comprehensive study of the material imprint of slavery in early medieval Europe While written sources attest to the ubiquity of slavery and slave trade in early medieval British Isles Scandinavia and Slavic lands it is still difficult to find material traces of this reality other than the hundreds of thousands of Islamic coins paid in exchange for the northern European slaves This volume offers the first structured reflection on how to bridge this gap It reviews the types of material evidence that can be associated with the institution of slavery and the slave trade in early medieval northern Europe from individual objects such as e g shackles to more comprehensive landscape approaches The book is divided into four sections The first presents the analytical tools developed in Africa and prehistoric Europe to identify and describe social phenomena associated with slavery and the slave trade The following three sections review the three main cultural zones of early medieval northern Europe the British Isles Scandinavia and Slavic central Europe The contributions offer methodological reflections on the concept of the archaeology of slavery They emphasize that the material record by its nature admits multiple interpretations More broadly this book comes at a time when the history of slavery is being integrated into academic syllabi in most western countries The collection of studies contributes to a more nuanced perspective on this important and controversial topic This volume appeals to multiple audiences interested in comparative and global studies of slavery and will constitute the point of reference for future debates Studying Early

India Brajadulal Chattopadhyaya, 2005 This book comprises a set of interrelated essays on some of the key issues which continue to excite historians and scholars of early India It shows the profound impact of colonialism on the study of India's early past the new methods and premises introduced into India by colonial studies and the variety of departures from traditional pre colonial modes of history writing It goes on to show that post Independence historiography has brought a fresh set of problems to the fore such as the integration of archaeology with narratives of early Indian history of the trajectories of social change and social formation of the historical position of ideology and its shifts and of the ways of communicating knowledge of a past which is now increasingly under non academic fundamentalist onslaughts With its diverse parts connected by strong threads of interest in the changing nature of history writing on early India this new book on the methodological changes that confront the historian of pre colonial India will consolidate Professor Chattopadhyaya's reputation as one of the foremost thinkers in his area of ancient and early medieval history International Review of Early Middle Ages, and Beyond - Mobilität im Frühmittelalter und darüber hinaus Laury Sarti, Helene von Trott zu Solz, 2025-04-21 This interdisciplinary volume deals with new methodological approaches to studying early medieval mobility. The chapters address innovative methods from the fields of history, archaeology, and the natural sciences, discussing the potential and limits of each methodological approach and shining the spotlight on historical and archaeological as well as scientific methods.

Neighbours and Successors of Rome Daniel Keller, Jennifer Price, Caroline Jackson, 2014-05-30 Presented through 20 case studies covering Europe and the Near East, Neighbours and Successors of Rome investigates development in the production of glass and the mechanisms of the wider glass economy as part of a wider material culture in Europe and the Near East around the later first millennium AD. Though highlighting and solidifying chronology, patterns of distribution, and typology, the primary aims of the collection are to present a new methodology that emphasises regional workshops, scientific data, and the wider trade culture. This methodology embraces a shift in conceptual approach to the study of glass by explaining typological change through the existence of a thriving supra-national commercial network that responded to market demands and combines the results of a range of new scientific techniques into a framework that stresses co-dependence and similarities between the various sites considered. Such an approach, particularly within Byzantine and Early Islamic glass production, is a pioneering concept that contextualises individual sites within the wider region. By twinning a critique of archaeometric methods with the latest archaeological research, the contributors present a foundation for glass research seen through the lens of consumption demands and geographical necessity that analyses production centres and traditional typological knowledge. In so doing, they bridge an important divide by demonstrating the co-habitability of diverse approaches and disciplines, linking for example the production of Campanulate bowls from Gallaecia with the burgeoning international late antique style. Equally, the particular details of those pieces allow us to identify a regional style as well as local production. As such, this compilation provides a highly valuable resource for archaeologists, anthropologists, and art historians.

A Dictionary of Archaeology Ian Shaw, Robert Jameson, 2008-04-15 This dictionary provides those studying or working in archaeology with a complete reference to the field.
