Archaeology And Anthropology Of Landscape Shaping Your Landscape:

The Archaeology and Anthropology of Landscape Robert Layton, Peter Ucko, 2003-09-02 The Archaeology and Anthropology of Landscape contributes to the development of theory in archaeology and anthropology provides new and varied case studies of landscape and environment from five continents and raises important policy issues concerning development and the management of heritage The Archaeology and Anthropology of Landscape Robert Layton, Peter Ucko, 2003-09-02 The Archaeology and Anthropology of Landscape contributes to the development of theory in archaeology and anthropology provides new and varied case studies of landscape and environment from five continents and raises important policy issues concerning development and the management of heritage Handbook of Landscape

Archaeology Bruno David, Julian Thomas, 2016-06-03 Over 80 archaeologists from four continents create a benchmark volume of the ideas and practices of landscape archaeology covering the theoretical and the practical the research and conservation and encasing the term in a global framework The Archaeology of Maritime Landscapes Ben Ford, 2011-05-21 Maritime cultural landscapes are collections of submerged archaeological sites or combinations of terrestrial and submerged sites that reflect the relationship between humans and the water These landscapes can range in size from a single beach to an entire coastline and can include areas of terrestrial sites now inundated as well as underwater sites that are now desiccated However what binds all of these sites together is the premise that each aspect of the landscape cultural political environmental technological and physical is interrelated and can not be understood without reference to the others In this maritime cultural landscape approach individual sites are treated as features within the larger landscape and the interpretation of single sites add to a larger analysis of a region or culture This approach provides physical and theoretical links between terrestrial and underwater archaeology as well as prehistoric and historic archaeology consequently providing a framework for integrating such diverse topics as trade resource procurement habitation industrial production and warfare into a holistic study of the past Landscape studies foster broader perspectives and approaches extending the study of maritime cultures beyond the shoreline Despite this potential the archaeological study of maritime landscapes is a relatively untried approach with many questions regarding the methods and perspectives needed to effectively analyze these landscapes The chapters in this volume which include contributions from the United States the United Kingdom Norway and Australia address many of the theoretical and methodological questions surrounding maritime cultural landscapes The authors comprise established scholars as well as archaeologists at the beginning of their careers providing a healthy balance of experience and innovation The chapters also demonstrate parity between method and theory where the varying interpretations of culture and space are given equal weight with the challenges of investigating both wet and dry sites across large areas Landscape Archaeology between Art and Science Sjoerd Kluiving, Erika Guttman-Bond, 2025-10-01 Researchers in landscape archaeology use two different definitions of landscape One definition landscape as territory is used by the processual archaeologists earth scientists and most historical geographers within this volume By contrast post processual archaeologists new cultural geographers and anthropologists favour a more abstract definition of landscape based on how it is perceived by the observer Both definitions are addressed in this book with 35 papers that are presented here and that are divided into six themes 1 How did landscape change 2 Improving temporal chronological and transformational frameworks 3 Linking landscapes of lowlands with mountainous areas 4 Applying concepts of scale 5 New directions in digital prospection and modelling techniques and 6 How will landscape archaeology develop in the future This volume demonstrates a worldwide interest in landscape archaeology and the research presented here draws upon and integrates the humanities and sciences This interdisciplinary approach is rapidly gaining support in new regions where such collaborations were previously uncommon

Exploring the Boundaries of Landscape Architecture Simon Bell, Ingrid Herlin, Richard Stiles, 2011-02-20 What have cultural anthropologists historical geographers landscape ecologists and environmental artists got in common Along with eight other disciplines from domains as diverse as planning and design the arts and humanities as well as the social and natural sciences they are all fields of importance to the theory and practice of landscape architecture In the context of the EU funded LE NOTRE Project carried out under the auspices of ECLAS the European Council of Landscape Architecture Schools international experts from a wide range of related fields were asked to reflect each from their own perspective on the interface between their discipline and landscape architecture The resulting insights presented in this book represent an important contribution to the development the discipline of landscape architecture as well as suggesting new ways in which future collaboration can help to create a greater interdisciplinary richness at a time when the awareness of the importance of the landscape is growing across a wide range of disciplines Exploring the Boundaries of Landscape Architecture is the first systematic attempt to explore the territory at the boundaries of landscape architecture It addresses academics professionals and students not just from landscape architecture but also from its neighbouring discipline all of whom will benefit from a better understanding their areas of shared interest and the chance to develop a common language with which to converse Space and Spatial Analysis in Archaeology University of Calgary. Archaeological Association. Conference, Elizabeth C. Robertson, 2006 The archaeology of space and place is examined in this selection of papers from the 34th annual Chacmool Archaeological Conference

Landscapes of the Islamic World Stephen McPhillips, Paul D. Wordsworth, 2016-07 Landscapes of the Islamic World presents new work by twelve authors on the archaeology history and ethnography of the Islamic world in the Middle East the Arabian peninsula and central Asia The focus looks beyond the city to engage with the predominantly rural and pastoral character of premodern Islamic society

The Routledge Companion to Landscape Studies Peter Howard, Ian Thompson, Emma Waterton, Mick Atha, 2013-02-15 Landscape is a vital synergistic concept which opens up ways of thinking about many of the problems which beset our contemporary world such as climate change social alienation environmental degradation loss of biodiversity and destruction of heritage As a concept landscape does not respect disciplinary boundaries Indeed many academic disciplines have found the concept so important it has been used as a qualifier that delineates whole sub disciplines landscape ecology landscape planning landscape archaeology and so forth In other cases landscape studies progress under a broader banner such as heritage studies or cultural geography Yet it does not always mean the same thing in all of these contexts The Routledge Companion to Landscape Studies offers the first comprehensive attempt to explore research directions into the many uses and meanings of landscape The Companion contains thirty nine original contributions from leading scholars within the field which have been divided into four parts Experiencing Landscape Landscape Culture and Heritage Landscape Society and Justice and Design and Planning for Landscape Topics covered range from phenomenological approaches to landscape to the consideration of landscape as a repository of human culture from ideas of identity and belonging to issues of power and hegemony and from discussions of participatory planning and design to the call for new imaginaries in a time of global and environmental crisis Each contribution explores the future development of different conceptual and theoretical approaches as well as recent empirical contributions to knowledge and understanding Collectively they encourage dialogue across disciplinary barriers and reflection upon the implications of research findings for local national and international policy in relation to landscape This Companion provides up to date critical reviews of state of the art perspectives across this multifaceted field embracing disciplines such as anthropology archaeology cultural studies geography landscape planning landscape architecture countryside management forestry heritage studies ecology and fine art It serves as an invaluable point of reference for scholars researchers and graduate students alike engaging in the field of landscape studies Mining the Landscape Geraldine Mate, 2022-09-12 Mining was one of the primary elements of colonial enterprise in Australia and a factor in movement on colonial frontiers In the second half of the 19th and early 20th century mining particularly of gold saw transformations of the land itself as well as in the way that people working in mining engaged with the landscape around them Landscape archaeology provides a theoretical perspective that allows an articulation of how people created and understood the place in which they lived and worked The impact of and narrative surrounding gold mining has meant that it has long been a focus of study both historical and archaeological The archaeology of mining has traditionally fallen under the umbrella of industrial archaeology with analyses based on historical economic and technological evidence However this is changing From an industrial focus examining the remnants of mines and associated processing equipment archaeology has progressed towards understandings of the social aspects of mining recognising that people not just equipment occupied these landscapes Nevertheless there remains a separation between industrial technology based studies and purely social household based archaeological studies a division that overlooks the integration of home and livelihood This work addresses these very challenges using a landscape based approach that articulates a nuanced meaning laden and experienced mining landscape Integrating the social and the industrial the case study of Mount Shamrock a gold mining town in Queensland

Australia demonstrates how this methodology can enhance our understanding of the past The work presents an integration of social and industrial perspectives in a mining settlement and provides an exemplar in the application of landscape theory to Australian historical archaeology These concepts and approaches developed in an Australian context are of universal interest

Landscapes of Movement James E. Snead, Clark L. Erickson, J. Andrew Darling, 2011-09-01 The essays in this volume document trails paths and roads across different times and cultures from those built by hunter gatherers in the Great Basin of North America to causeway builders in the Bolivian Amazon to Bronze Age farms in the Near East through aerial and satellite photography surface survey historical records and excavation

Maritime Archaeology and Social Relations Virginia Dellino-Musgrave, 2006-11-22 This book analyses British action in the Southern hemisphere in the late 18th century examining two Royal Navy ships one off the Argentinean coast and one off the Southeast Australian coast The author goes beyond a descriptive analysis of wrecks by treating them and their cargoes as embodiments of 18th century social relations The book challenges traditional approaches providing a perspective that emphasises the richness diversity and complexity of British action

Archaeology at the Millennium Gary M. Feinman, T. Douglas Price, 2007-09-27 In this book internationally distinguished contributors consider hot topics in turn of the millennium archaeology and chart an ambitious agenda for the future

European Landscapes of Rock-Art Christopher Chippindale, George Nash, 2003-09-02 Rock art the ancient images which still scatter the rocky landscapes of Europe is a singular kind of archaeological evidence Fixed in place it does not move about as artefacts as trade objects do Enigmatic in its meaning it uniquely offers a direct record of how prehistoric Europeans saw and envisioned their own worlds European Landscapes of Rock Art provides a number of case studies covering a range of European locations including Ireland Italy Scandinavia Scotland and Spain which collectively address the chronology and geography of rock art as well as providing an essential series of methodologies for future debate Each author provides a synthesis that focuses on landscape as an essential part of rock art construction From the paintings and carved images of prehistoric Scandinavia to Second World War graffiti on the German Reichstag this volume looks beyond the art to the society that made it The papers in this volume also challenge the traditional views of how rock art is recorded Throughout there is an emphasis on informal and informed methodologies The authors skilfully discuss subjectivity and its relationship with landscape since personal experience from prehistoric times to the present day plays an essential role in the interpretation of art itself The emphasis is on location on the intentionality of the artist and on the needs of the audience This exciting volume is a crucial addition to rock art literature and landscape archaeology It will provide new material for a lively and greatly debated subject and as such will be essential for academics non academics and commentators of rock art in general

Landscapes under Pressure Ludomir R. Lozny, 2006-12-30 This book investigates the newly emerging interest to investigate and preserve cultural landscapes It presents the historic archaeological ethnographic and environmental traditions of cultural landscape study and the attempts to reconstruct and analyze the complex processes of cultural changes It points to the benefits of interdisciplinary cooperation which should involve an ecological approach with historical ecology applied archaeology and environmental planning The Oxford Handbook of Anglo-Saxon

Archaeology Helena Hamerow,David A. Hinton,Sally Crawford,2011-03-31 Written by a team of experts and presenting the results of the most up to date research The Handbook of Anglo Saxon Archaeology will both stimulate and support further investigation into a society poised at the interface between prehistory and history Rural Resistance in South Africa

Thembele Kepe,Lungisile Ntsebeza,2011-10-14 Drawing on scholarship from multiple disciplines this volume presents a fresh understanding of the Mpondo uprising in South Africa focusing on its meanings and significance in relation to land rural governance politics and the agency of the marginalized Consciousness, Creativity, and Self at the Dawn of Settled

Life Ian Hodder,2020-03-05 Challenges the widely held assumption that the Neolithic saw an overall cognitive revolution

Mediterranean Archaeological Landscapes Effie F. Athanassopoulos,Luann Wandsnider,2010-11-24 The Mediterranean landscape record is recognized for its length and richness and the opportunity it offers to study the interaction between humans and their landscape This volume explores a variety of current archaeological issues in the context of specific landscapes from southern Spain through Greece and Cyprus to Jordan and from antiquity to recent times Over the last 25 years researchers have initiated a dramatic expansion in theoretical approaches both anthropological and classical Over the same time span a huge volume of field survey projects has been carried out in the Mediterranean arena The contributors to Mediterranean Archaeological Landscapes take stock of what has been learned identify lacunae and consider new approaches to our understanding of the rich surface landscape record of the Mediterranean Their goal is to explore theoretically diverse interpretative themes and the methods that make those approachable Buddhist Landscapes in

Central India Julia Shaw,2016-08-12 The monumental bias of Buddhist archaeology has hampered our understanding of the socio religious mechanisms that enabled early Buddhist monks to establish themselves in new areas To articulate these relationships Shaw presents here the first integrated study of settlement archaeology and Buddhist history carried out in the area around Sanchi a Central Indian UNESCO World Heritage site Her comprehensive data rich and heavily illustrated work provides an archaeological basis for assessing theories regarding the dialectical relationship between Buddhism and surrounding lay populations It also sheds light on the role of the introduction of Buddhism in changing settlement patterns This volume was originally published in 2007 by the British Association of South Asian Studies
