Archaeology And Text:

Archaeology and Text John Moreland, 2001-07-12 Drawing upon recent work in theoretical archaeology and on case studies from the prehistoric Near East medieval Europe early modern North America and Mesoamerica John Moreland challenges many of the assumptions which have hitherto underpinned archaeological research in historic periods arguing that we will only fully understand these pasts when we begin to appreciate the historically specific ways in which both documents and artefacts were activated in the reproduction and transformation of power and identity A concluding chapter warns that any contribution these arguments may make to the better understanding of the historical past will be negated if we fail to appreciate the very real dangers posed to all the peoples of the past by the recent linguistic turn in both disciplines

Archaeology and Text John Moreland, 2001 Re-constructing Archaeology Michael Shanks, Christopher Tilley, 2016-09-17 In Re Constructing Archaeology Shanks and Tilley aim to challenge the disciplinary practices of both traditional and the new archaeology and to present a radical alternative a critically self conscious archaeology aware of itself as practice in the present and equally a social archaeology that appreciates artefacts not merely as objects of analysis but as part of a social world of past and present that is charged with meaning It is a fresh and invigorating contribution to the emergence of a philosophically and politically informed archaeology

Archaeologies of Text Matthew T. Rutz, Morag Kersel, 2014-12-30 Scholars working in a number of disciplines archaeologists classicists epigraphers papyrologists Assyriologists Egyptologists Mayanists philologists and ancient historians of all stripes routinely engage with ancient textual sources that are either material remains from the archaeological record or historical products of other connections between the ancient world and our own Examining the archaeology text nexus from multiple perspectives contributors to this volume discuss current theoretical and practical problems that have grown out of their work at the boundary of the division between archaeology and the study of early inscriptions In 12 representative case studies drawn from research in Asia Africa the Mediterranean and Mesoamerica scholars use various lenses to critically examine the interface between archaeology and the study of ancient texts rethink the fragmentation of their various specialized disciplines and illustrate the best in current approaches to contextual analysis The collection of essays also highlights recent trends in the development of documentation and dissemination technologies engages with the ethical and intellectual quandaries presented by ancient inscriptions that lack archaeological context and sets out to find profitable future directions for interdisciplinary research

Archaeology After Structuralism Ian Bapty,Tim Yates,2014-10-24 Most practising archaeologists have preferred to leave the deep theories of what lies behind their methods and perceptions on one side Now archaeologists have faced up to the difficult task of making or not making the connections between the past interpretation and the present The writers of this volumes address the problems of archaeology sometimes warily and sometimes with enthusiasm The connections are not easy to accomplish a great deal of theory seems of little relevance to the everyday practice of archaeology and much of post structuralism refers exclusively back to itself rather than to the more specific concerns of a historical discipline But where the junction between post structuralism and archaeology can be made the results are innovative and enriching Originally published in 1990 A Dictionary of Archaeology Ian Shaw,Robert Jameson,2008-04-15 This dictionary provides those studying or working in archaeology with a complete reference to the field Sharing Archaeology Peter Stone,Zhao Hui,2014-08-13 As a discipline Archaeology has developed rapidly over the last half century The increase in so called public archaeology with its wide range of television programming community projects newspaper articles and enhanced site based interpretation has taken archaeology from a closed academic discipline of interest to a tiny minority to a topic of increasing interest to the general public This book explores how archaeologists share information with specialists from other disciplines working within archaeology other archaeologists and a range of non specialist groups It emphasises that to adequately address contemporary levels of interest in their subject archaeologists must work alongside and trust experts with an array of different skills and specializations Drawing on case studies from eleven countries Sharing Archaeology explores a wide range of issues raised as the result of archaeologists communication both within and outside the discipline Examining best practice with wider implications and uses beyond the specified case studies the chapters in this book raise questions as well as answers provoking a critical evaluation of how best to interact with varied audiences and enhance sharing of archaeology
