of Sound Jacob Smith, Neil Verma, 2016-07-19 This collection of essays examines one of the most important yet understudied media authors of all time Norman Corwin using him as a critical lens to consider the history of multimedia authorship particularly in the realm of sound Known for seven decades as the poet laureate of radio Corwin is most famous for his radio dramas which reached tens of millions of listeners around the world and contributed to radio drama's success as a mass media form in the 1930s and 1940s But Corwin was a pioneer in multiple media including cinema theater TV public service broadcasting journalism and even cantata In each of these areas Corwin had a distinctive approach to sonic aesthetics and mastery of multiple aspects of media production relying in part on his inventive atmospheric effects in the studio both prerecorded and more impressively live in real time From the front lines of World War II to his role as Chief of Special Projects for United Nations Radio and his influence on media today the political and social aspect of Corwin's work is woven into these essays With a foreword by Michele Hilmes and contributions from Thomas Doherty Mary Ann Watson Shawn VanCour David Ossman and others this volume cements Corwin's reputation as perhaps the greatest writer in the history of radio while also showing that his long career is a neglected model of multimedia authorship Provided by publisher

Integrating Discovery-Based Research into the Undergraduate Curriculum National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Committee for Convocation on Integrating Discovery-Based Research into the Undergraduate Curriculum, 2016-01-07 Students who participate in scientific research as undergraduates report gaining many benefits from the experience However undergraduate research done independently under a faculty member's guidance or as part of an internship regardless of its individual benefits is inherently limited in its overall impact Faculty members and sponsoring companies have limited time and funding to support undergraduate researchers and most institutions have available or have allocated only enough human and financial resources to involve a small fraction of their undergraduates in such experiences Many more students can be involved as undergraduate researchers if they do scientific research either collectively or individually as part of a regularly scheduled course Course based research experiences have been shown to provide students with many of the same benefits acquired from a mentored summer research experience assuming that sufficient class time is invested and several different potential advantages In order to further explore this issue the Division on Earth and Life Studies and the Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education organized a convocation meant to examine the efficacy of engaging large numbers of undergraduate students who are enrolled in traditional academic year courses in the life and related sciences in original research civic engagement around scientific issues and or intensive study of research methods and scientific publications at both two and four year colleges and universities Participants explored the benefits and costs of offering students such experiences and the ways that such efforts may both influence and be influenced by issues such as institutional governance available resources and professional expectations of faculty Integrating Discovery Based Research into the Undergraduate Curriculum summarizes the presentations and discussions from this event

Vitamins and Cancer Jr. Meyskens, Kedar N. Prasad, 2012-12-06 In the past five years a surprising and intense resurgence in interest in vitamins and other micronutrients and their role in health and disease has occurred The recognition has emerged that vitamins not only are essential for life in that severe nutritional deficiencies occur in their absence but that these compounds may also serve as natural inhibitors of cancer Synthetic alterations of the basic vitamin A molecule have also resulted in the production of compounds that are more potent as anticancer agents than the natural substance and may have substantial therapeutic activity as well Whether other vitamins can be changed or altered to produce a better anticancer effect than the native compound has been little explored to date but should be a fruitful pursuit for future study In our concluding remarks to the First International Conference in 1982 we speculated that rapid advances in our understanding of vitamins would occur in the next few years and that large scale intervention trials of vitamins as preventive agents in defined human populations would be started This anticipated generation of data on vitamins and their interactions has proceeded rapidly and the importance of interactions between vitamins and other micronutrients in the prevention setting has become better appreciated Currently more than 25 intervention trials with a variety of target populations using vitamins and other micronutrients have been started but it remains too early for meaningful analysis of the results to date

John Sexton,2019-04-16 A powerful case for the importance of universities as an antidote to the secular dogmatism that increasingly infects political discourse John Sexton argues that over six decades a secular dogmatism impenetrable by dialogue or reason has come to dominate political discourse in America Political positions elevated to the status of doctrinal truths now simply are revealed Our leaders and our citizens suffer from an allergy to nuance and complexity and the enterprise of thought is in danger Sexton sees our universities the engines of knowledge and stewards of thought as the antidote and he describes the policies university leaders must embrace if their institutions are to serve this role Acknowledging the reality of our increasingly interconnected world and drawing on his experience as president of New York University when it opened campuses in Abu Dhabi and Shanghai Sexton advocates for global network universities as a core aspect of a new educational landscape and as the crucial foundation blocks of an interlocking world characterized by secular ecumenism Renal Cell Cancer Jean J.
