17 Love Poems with No Despair B. J. Ward, 1997 17 Love Poems with No Despair resounds with the voice of a clear powerful speaker Ward does not naively deny despair but rather refuses it making a case to the beloved and to the reader that proffers love as an antidote This book is an offering of passion wrought with charm and poignancy Always one is aware of the strength that is required to love long and well Lessons: Poems by Donna Spector Donna Spector, 2016-01-01 Donna Spector's Lessons is a cycle of vignettes arranged chronologically that depicts through specific moments in the speaker teacher's career the wide sweep of emotions one experiences during a career in education Often poignant the loss of students we carry like stones with us although we may have forgotten their names sometimes funny a reactionary principal who doesn't actually read anything this book is a welcome acknowledgement of everyday scenarios for Spector's fellow teachers as well as a window onto the happiness and heartache of the profession for those who have been affected by teachers which of course is all of us BJ Ward Gravedigger's Birthday 17 Love Poems with No Despair Landing in New Jersey with Soft Hands Teachers are idealists who try hard to make the world a better place in spite of all the interferences with demanding parents inane politicians and inept administrators who torment rather than lead And we all fail miserably much of the time In one poem in Lessons Donna Spector advises her students Don't let fear stop you And she takes her own advice marvelously These poems overflow with good students immature students even criminal students with rejection and frustration loving and loathing pity and terror and ultimately with bracing courage Dr Johnson defined a second marriage as the triumph of hope over experience The serene wisdom Ms Spector offers in these poems in the aftermath of classroom nightmares makes it a good definition of teaching too Sander Zulauf Editor Emeritus Journal of New Jersey Poets Poet Laureate Diocese of Newark English teachers expect a certain amount of drama but Donna Spector's Lessons is especially rich in the comedy and tragedy of high school Struggling to keep order in the classroom luring students into literature directing plays and a literary magazine watching students navigate the chaotic halls of adolescence Spector a graduate of Berkeley's hippie days can be as provocative as her students Outside the classroom she's the playwright wearing glittering red heels paid for by her principal to her Off Broadway opening night Quirky witty tender poems that remind us how challenging and rewarding education on both sides of the desk can be Mary Makofske Tractio Eating Nasturtiums Donna Spector's book of poems Lessons takes us on a journey as we follow her from her early days as a teacher through the numerous classrooms she inhabited in the years in between Spector celebrates both her failures and triumphs as a teacher What we learn in Lessons is just how much love and perseverance go into creating a great teacher What a gem of a book Maria Mazziotti Gillan The Silence in an Empty House Ancestors Song What We Pass On Collected Poems The Rutherford Red Wheelbarrow No. 3 Red Wheelbarrow Poets, 2010-08-04 A remarkable collection of 42 poets connected with the Rutherford NJ poetry revival gives voice to memorable poetry and essays in the third edition of The Rutherford Red
