

The Crazy Woman

*I shall not sing a May song.
A May song should be gay.
I'll wait until November
And sing a song of gray.*

*I'll wait until November
That is the time for me.
I'll go out in the frosty dark
And sing most terribly.*

*And all the little people
Will stare at me and say,
"That is the Crazy Woman
Who would not sing in May."*

Hollander,1986-10-01 In this major new collection John Hollander displays the elegance versatility and wit that mark him as perhaps the most urbane poet in America In Time and Place features a generous offering of new verse an extended prose piece and a series of prose poems previously available only in a rare privately published edition The tightly rhymed quatrains of the new poems demonstrate once again the freedom Hollander achieves through mastery of form The consummate control with which he writes in memoriam to a lost love and a time of absence gives him opportunities to move through dimensions most poets never see His purgatorial mock journal dwelling on loss and gain on difference and effacement on places and the place of writing leads into a sequence of captivating prose poems where imagination centers on the word and language celebrates its own creation

The Letters of Robert Duncan and Denise Levertov Robert Edward Duncan,Robert J. Bertholf,Albert Gelpi,2004 This volume presents the complete correspondence between two of the most important and influential American poets of the postwar period The almost 500 letters range widely over the poetry scene and the issues that made the period so lively and productive But what gives the exchange its special personal and literary resonance is the sense of spiritual affinity and shared conviction about the power of the visionary imagination Duncan and Levertov explore these matters in rich detail until under the stress of dealing with the Vietnam War in poetry they discover deep seated differences in the religious and ethical convictions underlying their politics and poetic stance The issues that drew them together and those that drove them apart create a powerful personal drama with far reaching historical and cultural significance The editors have provided a critical Introduction full notes a chronology and a glossary of names
