Making Americans Healthier Robert F. Schoeni, James S. House, George A. Kaplan, Harold A. Pollack, 2008-01-25 The United States spends billions of dollars annually on social and economic policies aimed at improving the lives of its citizens but the health consequences associated with these policies are rarely considered. In Making Americans Healthier, a group of multidisciplinary experts shows how social and economic policies seemingly unrelated to medical well-being have dramatic consequences for the health of the American people. Most previous research concerning problems with health and healthcare in the United States has focused narrowly on issues of medical care and insurance coverage but Making Americans Healthier demonstrates the important health consequences that policymakers overlook in traditional cost-benefit evaluations of social policy. The contributors examine six critical policy areas: civil rights, education, income support, employment, welfare, and neighborhood and housing. Among the important findings in this book, David Cutler and Adriana Lleras-Muney document the robust relationship between educational attainment and health and estimate that the health benefits of education may exceed even the well-documented financial returns of education. Pamela Herd, James House, and Robert Schoeni discover notable health benefits associated with the Supplemental Security Income Program, which provides financial support for elderly and disabled Americans. George Kaplan, Nalini Ranjit, and Sarah Burgard document a large and unanticipated improvement in the health of African American women following the enactment of civil rights legislation in the 1960s. Making Americans Healthier presents ground-breaking evidence that the health impact of many social policies is substantial. The important findings in this book pave the way for promising new avenues for intervention and convincingly demonstrate that ultimately social and economic policy is health policy. A Volume in the National Poverty Center Series on Poverty and Public Policy. Contemporary Approaches in Urbanism and Heritage Studies Rokhsaneh Rahbariyanzad, Editor, 2021-08-01. This book is an intellectual discourse and a concise compendium of current research in Architecture and Urbanism. Primarily, it is a book of readings of 24 chapters. The book brings together theories, manifestos, and methodologies on contemporary architecture and urbanism to raise the understanding for the future of architecture and urban planning. Overall, the book aimed to establish a bridge between theory and practice in the built environment. Thus, it reports on the latest research findings and innovative approaches, methodologies for creating, assessing, and understanding of contemporary built environment. Creating Built Environments Roderick Lawrence, 2020-06-14. Built environments are complex, emergent, systemic, and require contextual analysis. They should be understood before reconsidering how professionals and researchers of the built environment are educated and trained to reduce the gap between knowledge, practice, and real-world circumstances. There is an urgent need to rethink the role of policy makers, researchers, practitioners, and laypeople in the construction, renovation, and reuse of the built environment in order to deal with numerous environmental, ecological, economic, financial, and social ethical challenges of providing a habitat for current and future generations in a world of continual change. These challenges are too complex to be dealt with only by one discipline or profession. Combinations of different types of knowledge, knowing in praxis, and tacit knowledge are needed. This book presents and illustrates recent innovative contributions with case studies focusing on five strategic domains and the interrelations between them These transdisciplinary contributions apply concepts methods and tools that facilitate convergence and concerted action between participants collaborating in policy definition and project implementation The methods and tools include experiments in living labs prototypes on site and virtual simulations as well as participatory approaches including citizen science the development of alternative scenarios and visioning plausible futures
