The Architecture of Suspense Christine Madrid French, 2022-09-08 The inimitable haunting films of Alfred Hitchcock took place in settings both exterior and interior that deeply impacted our experiences of his most unforgettable works From the enclosed spaces of Rope and Rear Window to the wide open expanses of North by Northwest the physical worlds inhabited by desperate characters are a crucial element in our perception of the Hitchcockian universe As Christine Madrid French reveals in this original and indispensable book Hitchcock's relation to the built world was informed by an intense engagement with location and architectural form in an era marked by modernism's advance fueled by some of the most creative midcentury designers in film Hitchcock saw elements of the built world not just as scenic devices but as interactive areas to frame narrative exchanges In his films building forms also serve a sentient purpose to capture and convey feelings sensations and moments that generate an emotive response from the viewer Visualizing the contemporary built landscape allowed the director to illuminate Americans' everyday experiences as well as their own uncertain relationship with their environment and with each other French shares several untold stories such as the real-life suicide outside the Hotel Empire in Vertigo which foreshadowed uncannily that film's tragic finale and takes us to the actual buildings that served as the inspiration for Psycho's infamous Bates Motel Her analysis of North by Northwest uncovers the Frank Lloyd Wright underpinnings for Robert Boyle's design of the modernist house from the film's celebrated Mount Rushmore sequence and ingeniously establishes the Vandamm House as the prototype of the cinematic trope of the villain's lair She also shows how the widespread unemployment of the 1930s resulted in a surge of gifted architects transplanting their careers into the film industry These practitioners created sets that drew from contemporary design schools of thought and referenced real structures both modern and historic The Architecture of Suspense is the first book to document how these great architectural minds found expression in Hitchcock's films and how the director used their talents and his own unique vision to create an enduring and evocative cinematic world Publication of this volume was assisted by a grant from Furthermore a program of the J M Kaplan Fund

Hitchcock at the Source R. Barton Palmer,David Boyd,2011-09-01 The adaptation of literary works to the screen has been the subject of increasing and increasingly sophisticated critical and scholarly attention in recent years but most studies of the subject have continued to privilege literature over film by taking the literary sources as their starting point Rather than examining the processes by which a particular author has been adapted into a diversity of films by different filmmakers the contributors in Hitchcock at the Source consider the processes by which a varied range of literary sources have been transformed by one filmmaker into an impressive body of work Throughout his career Alfred Hitchcock transformed a variety of literary sources novels plays short stories into what is arguably the most coherent and distinctive narratively stylistically and thematically of all directorial oeuvres After an introduction surveying the nature and diversity of Hitchcock s sources and locating the current volume in the context of theoretical work on adaptation nineteen original essays range across the entirety of Hitchcock s career from the silent period through to the 1970s In addition to addressing the process of adaptation in particular films in terms of plot and character the contributors also consider less obvious matters of tone technique and ideology Hitchcock s manipulation of the conventions of literary and dramatic genres such as spy fiction and romantic comedy and more general problems such as Hitchcock s shift from plays to novels as his major sources in the course of the 1930s place not just across media but across different cultures In this book Della Coletta explores what it means when the translation of fiction into film involves writers directors and audiences who belong to national historical and cultural formations different from that of the adapted work In particular Della Coletta examines narratives and films belonging to Italian North American French and Argentine cultures These include Luchino Visconti's adaptation of James M Cain's The Postman Always Rings Twice Federico Fellini's version of Edgar Allan Poe's story Never Bet the Devil Your Head Alain Corneau's film based on Antonio Tabucchi's Notturmo indiano and Bernardo Bertolucci's take on Jorge Luis Borges's Tema del traidor y del hroe In her framework for analyzing these cross cultural film adaptations Della Coletta borrows from the philosophical hermeneutics of Hans Georg Gadamer and calls for a hermeneutics of estrangement a practice of mediation and adaptation that defines cultures nations selfhoods and their aesthetic achievements in terms of their transformative encounters Stories travel to unexpected and interesting places when adapted into film by people of diverse cultures While the intended meaning of the author may not be perfectly reproduced it still holds Della Coletta argues an equally valid and important intellectual claim upon its interpreters With a firm grasp on the latest developments in adaptation theory Della Coletta invites scholars of media studies cultural history comparative literature and adaptation studies to deepen their understanding of this critical encounter between texts writers readers and cultural movements
