have received scant critical attention. They tend to be overshadowed by their American counterparts in the media and have come to be represented within the academy almost exclusively by Angela Carter and Jeanette Winterson. This collection celebrates the range and diversity of contemporary post 1970 British women writers. It challenges misconceptions about the nature and scope of fiction by women writers working in Britain commonly dismissed as parochial, insular, dreary and domestic and seeks to expand conventional definitions of British by exploring how issues of nationality intersect with gender, class, race and sexuality. Writers covered include Pat Barker, A. L. Kennedy, Maggie Gee, Rukhsana Ahmad, Joan Riley, Jennifer Johnston, Ellen Galford, Susan Hill, Fay Weldon, Emma Tennant and Helen Fielding. Contributors: DAVID ELLIS, CLARE HANSON, MAROULA JOANNOU, PAULINA PALMER, EMMA PARKER, FELICITY ROSSLYN, CHRISTIANE SCHLOTE, JOHN SEARS, ELUNED SUMMERS, BREMNER IMELDA, WHELEHAN GINA WISKER. Australian Book Review, 1999. The City and the Ocean I-Chun Wang, Jonathan White, 2012-01-24. Throughout history cities have been locations of human encounter. Equally they have been contexts for the trade of goods and services for the evolution of various forms of urban space and for the production, development and enrichment of culture and technology. Many cities grew up along shorelines which themselves constitute some of the globe's most important cultural boundaries. For above all else it is water that has separated but also connected different communities, races, religions and nations down through recorded time. With the rapid advance in technologies of communication encounters between cultures have multiplied at a rate that no individual can follow or control. The present book constitutes a space of memory in its own right, one of its chief reasons d'être being that a group of diverse scholars herein maps certain key encounters between peoples past as well as present and the urgent issues generated in consequence. No one person could have traced such diversity and made sense of it, whereas a scholarly grouping of persons reporting on phenomena from around the world such as is provided here offers its readers a vision of global change and development. With the twentieth and twenty-first centuries a new set of mega-cities in Asia, Africa and Latin America has emerged to challenge the primacy of European and North American metropolitan centres. This expanded landscape is here interpreted with special attention as already mentioned to cities located at coastlines, hence generally speaking more exposed to globalizing trends. Migrants, exiles and refugees, ethnic and racial minorities as well as alternative or countercultural groupings continue to complicate the ways in which cities articulate their now pluralized identities in terms of and by means of literature, history, architecture, social events and other forms of artistic and cultural production. The international scholars whose work is assembled in these pages are well placed to engage with the intersecting themes and issues of the volume. Contributors have mapped different examples from Homeric narrative through Renaissance drama and its representation of crossways of culture such as Rhodes and Malta to an earlier time in the development of a New World city such as Boston. Others look at the twentieth and twenty-first centuries' complexity of great world cities and of oceanic migration or trade between them. Shanghai, Singapore, London, Detroit, Shantou, Macau and Saigon are some that are dealt
