Sustainable Tourism III F. D. Pineda,C. A. Brebbia,2008 Tourism internationally is the largest economic sector both in terms of earnings and number of people employed Understandably the economic advantages have led to the active promotion of tourism by governments and other institutions often independent of the consequences on the environment The challenge is to balance the need for a low impact on the environment and local culture while helping to generate income employment and the conservation of local ecosystems Sustainable tourism has to be both ecologically and culturally sensitive This book contains papers presented at the Third International Conference on Sustainable Development held in Malta The Meeting focused on empirical work and case studies from around the world and the book offers new insight and best practice guidance for supporting sustainable tourism Adopting a multi disciplinary approach this book examines the practice of sustainable tourism from global travel trends through to destination and site management Of interest to scientists practitioners and policy makers the topics covered in this volume include Art culture and nature Climate change and tourism Coastal issues Community involvement Ecological issues IT and tourism Modelling and estimates Risk and safety Rural tourism Tourism and protected areas Tourism as a factor of development Tourism as a tool of urban development Tourism impact Tourism strategies

Tourism and Environment F. D. Pineda,2013-10-16 The contributions contained in this volume deal with two perspectives of tourism and environment the role of the environment in tourism and environmental tourism The same message would be expected in both cases The environment comprises the set of biophysical and cultural events surrounding us and influences the activities developed depending on time and site Among the environmental characteristics of a region climate is usually the most relevant and conditions almost all other components Climate defines much of the natural as well as the urban cultural landscape and the countryside of an area Seasonal environmental change affects the life and culture of each place and largely explains the choice of destination of travellers Environment and landscape therefore give rise to an interesting and varying relationship over the year Thus coastal landscapes are not inherently more beautiful in summer than in other seasons but environmental conditions cause a greater demand in this season Certain places in the world captivate visitors who flock to them in large numbers Local people recognize the benefit of this employers become interested in the economic aspects and so the tourism infrastructure develops The appeal of good climate has led to a change from a rural subsistence culture to a lucrative services economy in some areas Unfortunately however in many cases short sightedness and corruption can lead to the ruin of the natural landscape Situations like this are now common throughout the world due to the environmental mismanagement of tourism Local populations within emerging tourism based economies should learn this lesson The papers included in this volume address important issues related to tourism and the environment and offer a better understanding of some of the current challenges
