hasn't changed in the past ten years our understanding and awareness of treating people in a more caring way has changed substantially. With no cure on the immediate horizon, respectful care by effective and compassionate care partners is the only real treatment available to people with dementia. The Best Friends Approach is successful because it sustains people's connection to their world, their loved ones, and themselves. It's a universal program which has been embraced by professional and family caregivers throughout the United States, Europe, Asia, the Middle East, and South America. In its revised form, A Dignified Life offers caregivers an antidote to the burnout and frustration that often accompanies the role of caring for a person with Alzheimer's and dementia. Rather than struggling through a series of frustrations and failures, A Dignified Life shows the new generation care partners how to bring dignity, meaning, and peace of mind to the lives of both those who have Alzheimer's and dementia and those who care for them.

Outdoor Environments for People with Dementia discusses in detail practical approaches that can significantly improve the quality of life for dementia victims. Research is discussed, revealing important aspects and issues needing to be addressed when creating better outdoor environments that are effective in helping residents of long-term care facilities and residential care homes. The text is extensively referenced and provides several tables, figures, and photographs to clearly illustrate concepts. Topics discussed in Outdoor Environments for People with Dementia include the impact of outdoor wandering, parks, and therapeutic gardens on people with dementia; empirical studies on how access to and participation in nature-related activities can benefit people with dementia; interventions to restore people with dementia; having directed attention; fatigue; evaluation tools for gardens for people with dementia; research-based design recommendations for future gardens; theories and empirical studies about healing gardens; training staff to increase their knowledge about horticulture and encouraging them to involve residents in outdoor activities; general guidelines for developing an outdoor space; examination of the attributes for the superior outdoor space found in Grand Rapids, Michigan; with design recommendations for the future. Outdoor Environments for People with Dementia is a valuable resource for scholars, policymakers, legislators, architects, and urban planners; lending institutions; developers; landscape architects; and the lay public in general who have an interest in the subject, personal, professional, or civic.
