Bioequivalence of biosimilar therapeutic proteins and monoclonal antibodies New FDA guidelines for bioanalytical method validation Outsourcing and monitoring of bioequivalence studies The cost of generic drugs is rising much faster than in the past partly because of the increased costs required for approval including those for bioequivalence testing There is a dire need to re examine the science behind this type of testing to reduce the burden of development costs allowing companies to develop generic drugs faster and at a lower expense The final chapter explores the future of bioequivalence testing and proposes radical changes in the process of biowaivers It suggests how the cost of demonstrating bioequivalence can be reduced through intensive analytical investigation and proposes that regulatory agencies reduce the need for bioequivalence studies in humans Backed by science and updated with the latest research this book is destined to spark continued debate on the efficacy of the current bioequivalence testing paradigm Index of Conference Proceedings British Library.

markets and the mobility of people is becoming an important fact of life. Consequently the mobile user is demanding appropriate technical solutions to make use of customized information and communication services. In this context the notion of next generation networks (NGNs) which are driven by the convergence of the entertainment sector, the mobile Internet and fixed mobile telecommunications is emerging. Such NGNs are aggregating a variety of different access networks and supporting the seamless connection of an open set of end user devices and due to the adoption of an all IP network paradigm they enable a much better integration of voice and data services. Coincidentally the buzzword fixed mobile convergence (FMC) describes the current trend towards providing common services across fixed and mobile networks resulting in the medium term in the full integration of fixed and mobile telecommunication networks. The adoption of appropriate middleware technologies and the provision of called service delivery platforms driven by the ongoing innovation in the field of information technologies provides today the technical foundation for supporting terminal personal and service mobility and thus the implementation of real seamless information and communication services. Furthermore users are nowadays looking in light of an omnipresent service environment for a much higher degree of customization and context awareness in the services they use. The papers in this volume look at these enabling mobility aware technologies and their use for implementing mobility aware and context aware applications.
