Army Forces For Homeland Security:

Army Forces for Homeland Security, 2004 Protecting the American homeland is now a critical priority for the nation and steps are under way to improve the capabilities of civilian organizations throughout the country The role of the U S military and especially the Army is to be prepared to make up for any deficiencies in these capabilities as it has in domestic emergencies throughout our history Since the 2001 terrorist attacks against the World Trade Center and the Pentagon the Army has taken critical steps to improve its capabilities for homeland security HLS The question is whether more should be done to hedge against the risk that these capabilities may not be sufficient given future dangers and risks This report explores ways in which the Army in both its active and reserve components could respond today by conducting more specialized HLS training by improving its responsiveness for domestic emergencies and or by augmenting certain types of its capabilities and then suggests a hedging strategy the Army could adopt This report would be of interest to anyone concerned with how the nation will defend itself against terrorism and the U S Army s role in that defense In the Army this research was sponsored by the Deputy Chief of Staff for Operations and Plans G 3 It was conducted in the RAND Arroyo Center s Strategy Doctrine and Resources Program The Arroyo Center is a federally funded research and development center sponsored by the U S Army
