Isolation is the complex theme which is usually addressed in poetry in connection with the depiction of the characters' interpersonal and intrapersonal conflicts. Thus, the topic of isolation is discussed in Matthew Arnold's poem "Dover Beach" (1867) with the focus on the changes in the social and religious life. In Thomas Hardy's "Ah, Are You Digging on My Grave" (1913), the topic of isolation is discussed more directly, but with the help of satire and irony.

Referring to these poems, it is possible to note that the idea of isolation can affect the persons at the social level, while accentuating the isolation between the social categories, and at the personal level, while concentrating on the individual's isolation from the other persons. In spite of the fact that the theme of isolation is shown in both the poems, the idea of isolation is presented in Arnold's poem "Dover Beach" with the focus on the melancholic isolation of people within the society because of their lost religious ideals and changed values; and in Hardy's "Ah, Are You Digging on My Grave", isolation is the personal problem which affects an individual, not a society.

The feeling of isolation as the aspect of the social atmosphere is accentuated in Arnold's poem. The poet is inclined to represent the isolation of everyone in the world of lost religious ideals. Thus, referring to the character's melancholy, Arnold focuses on the "eternal note of sadness" and "human misery" (Arnold 14, 18). In the context of the Victorian era's poetry, the problem of isolation is a result of the fact that the "Sea of Faith" is not as full and calm as it was previously (Arnold 21; Bristow 112). That is why, Arnold's approach to melancholic isolation is accentuated with references to the character's doubts and hesitations, and it is explained with references to the Victorian era's crisis of faith.

Isolation is also the problem associated with the interpersonal relations and the role of the individual in the other people's lives. In "Ah, Are You Digging on My Grave", Hardy discusses isolation as primarily the personal problem which is associated with sadness and fear of being forgotten. Following the satirical dialogue between the dead woman and the dog, it is possible to note that the woman is forgotten by every close

Ruderman, 2016-04-28 This book radically refigures the conceptual and formal significance of childhood in nineteenth century English poetry By theorizing infancy as a poetics as well as a space of continual beginning Ruderman shows how it allowed poets access to inchoate uncanny and mutable forms of subjectivity and art While recent historicist studies have documented the freshness of experience childhood confers on 19th century poetry and culture this book draws on new formalist and psychoanalytic perspectives to rethink familiar concepts such as immortality the sublime and the death drive as well as forms and genres such as the pastoral the ode and the ballad Ruderman establishes that infancy emerges as a unique structure of feeling simultaneously with new theories of lyric poetry at the end of the eighteenth century He then explores the intertwining of poetic experimentation and infancy in Wordsworth Anna Barbauld Blake Coleridge Erasmus Darwin Sara Coleridge Shelley Matthew Arnold Tennyson and Augusta Webster Each chapter addresses and analyzes a specific moment in a writer's work moments of tenderness or mourning birth or death physical or mental illness when infancy is analogized eulogized or theorized Moving between canonical and archival materials and combining textual and intertextual reading metrical and prosodic analysis and post Freudian psychoanalytic theory the book shows how poetic engagements with infancy anticipate psychoanalytic and phenomenological i.e. modern ways of being in the world Ultimately Ruderman suggests that it is not so much that we return to infancy as that infancy returns obsessively compulsively in us This book shows how by tracking changing attitudes towards the idea of infancy one might also map the emotional political and aesthetic terrain of nineteenth century culture It will be of interest to scholars in the areas of British romanticism and Victorianism as well as 19th century American literature and culture histories of childhood and representations of the child from art historical cultural studies and literary perspectives D B Ruderman's The
