Architecture as a Synthesis of the Arts is a translation from German of Wege zu einem neuen Baustil Und der Bau wird Mensch

Gordon Matta-Clark Stephen Walker, 2011-05-10 Known for and even overshadowed by his brutal and spectacular building cuts Gordon Matta Clark's oeuvre is unique in the history of American art He worked in the 1970s on the borders between art and architecture and his diverse practice is often understood as an outright rejection of the tenets of high modernism Stephen Walker argues instead for the artist's ambivalent relationship with the architectural heritage he is often claimed to disavow thus making this the first book to extrapolate Matta Clark's thinking beyond its immediate context Walker considers the broad range of Matta Clark's ephemeral practice from montage to actual interventions and from performance art and installation to drawing film and video Bringing to the fore the consistent themes and issues explored through this broad range of media and in particular the complex notion of the discreet violation he reveals the continued relevance of Matta Clark's artistic and theoretical oeuvre to the reception of artistic and architectural work today

Warped Space Anthony Vidler, 2002-02-22 How psychological ideas of space have profoundly affected architectural and artistic expression in the twentieth century Beginning with agoraphobia and claustrophobia in the late nineteenth century followed by shell shock and panic fear after World War I phobias and anxiety came to be seen as the mental condition of modern life They became incorporated into the media and arts in particular the spatial arts of architecture urbanism and film This spatial warping is now being reshaped by digitalization and virtual reality Anthony Vidler is concerned with two forms of warped space The first a psychological space is the repository of neuroses and phobias This space is not empty but full of disturbing forms including those of architecture and the city The second kind of warping is produced when artists break the boundaries of genre to depict space in new ways Vidler traces the emergence of a psychological idea of space from Pascal and Freud to the identification of agoraphobia and claustrophobia in the nineteenth century to twentieth century theories of spatial alienation and estrangement in the writings of Georg Simmel Siegfried Kracauer and Walter Benjamin Focusing on current conditions of displacement and placelessness he examines ways in which contemporary artists and architects have produced new forms of spatial warping The discussion ranges from theorists such as Jacques Lacan and Gilles Deleuze to artists such as Vito Acconci Mike Kelley Martha Rosler and Rachel Whiteread Finally Vidler looks at the architectural experiments of Frank Gehry Coop Himmelblau Daniel Libeskind Greg Lynn Morphosis and Eric Owen Moss in the light of new digital techniques that while relying on traditional perspective have radically transformed the composition production and experience perhaps even the subject itself of architecture

Art and Architecture in the Islamic Tradition Mohammed Hamdouni Alami, 2013-12-20 What is art in the sense of the Islamic tradition Mohammed Hamdouni Alami argues that Islamic art has historically been excluded from Western notions of art that the Western aesthetic tradition's preoccupation with the human body and the ban on the representation of the human body in Islam has meant that Islamic and Western art have been perceived as inherently at odds However the move away from this anthropomorphic aesthetic in Western art movements such as modern abstract and constructivist painting have presented the opportunity for new ways of viewing and evaluating Islamic art and architecture This book questions the very idea of art predicated on the anthropocentric bias of classical art and the corollary exclusion of Islamic art from the status of art It addresses a central question in post classical aesthetic theory in as much as the advent of modern abstract and constructivist painting have shown that art can be other than the representation of the human body that art is not neutral aesthetic contemplation but it is fraught with power and violence and that the presupposition of classical art was not a universal truth but the assumption of a specific cultural and historical set of practices and vocabularies Based on close readings of classical Islamic literature philosophy poetry medicine and theology along with contemporary Western art theory the author uncovers a specific Islamic theoretical vision of art and architecture based on poetic practice politics cosmology and desire In particular it traces the effects of decoration and architectural planning on the human soul as well as the centrality of the gaze in this poetic view in Arabic nazar while examining its surprising similarity to modern theories of the gaze Through this double gesture moving critically between two traditions the author brings Islamic thought and aesthetics back into the realm of visibility addressing the lack of recognition in comparison with other historical periods and traditions
