Time, Religion and History William Gallois, 2014-06-11 What is time How does our sense of time lead us to approach the world How did the peoples of the past view time This book answers these questions through an investigation of the cultures of time in Christianity Islam Buddhism Judaism and the Australian Dreamtime It argues that our contemporary world is blind as to the significance and complexity of time preferring to believe that time is natural and unchanging This is of critical importance to historians since the base matter of their study is time yet there is almost no theoretical literature on time in history This book offers the first detailed historiographical study of the centrality of time to human cultures It sets out the complex ways in which ideas of time developed in the major world religions and the manner in which such conceptions led people both to live in ways very different to our contemporary world and to make very different kinds of histories It goes on to argue that modern scientific descriptions of time such as Einstein's Theory of Relativity lie much closer to the complex understandings of time in religions such as Christianity than they do to our common sense notions of time which are centred on progress through a past present and future

Morgan, 1986-01-01 This book presents Buddhism from the Buddhist point of view It is an earnest attempt of eleven devout Buddhist scholars to describe the beliefs and practices of the Buddhist world twenty five centuries after the Buddha The need for such a book grew out of conversations among fellows of the National Council of UAS on Religion in Higher Education It was agreed that a fuller understanding of the leading non Christian religions requires books written by men speaking from the point of view of their own faiths and edited by a Westerner to make the meaning clear to readers brought up in the Greek Hebrew Christian Tradition Bhikhu J Kashyap of India has contributed the first chapter on the origin and expansion of Buddhism U Thittila of Rangoon wrote the second chapter on the fundamental principles of the Theravada Buddhism Balangoda Ananda Maitreya of Ceylon who wrote the third chapter was recommended as a man who can speak for all Theravada countries
