Concrete And Wild Carrot:

Concrete and Wild Carrot Margaret Avison, 2002 Poetry Heartfelt looking and attentive listening are newly advocated and demonstrated in CONCRETE AND WILD CARROT The poems in this book are startlingly youthful The words leap with life whether the subject be Avison's beloved Toronto byways with their population of dogs kids oaks firs squirrels ants and human citizens or her surprising probes of the Bible Jesus is a model for instance a poet who among us found encrusted words and structures he washed and brushed them clean and out of the intractability of history learned by rote stepped in simplicity the exemplar Margaret Avison's own distinctive words and structures her clean approaches to an odd intransigent openness paradoxically comfort the reader with a smack of the limitless There is no complacency here just the best kind of large minded company in the still heroic venture of thinking Outside and the hard crucial discipline of wording it A

Persevering Witness Elizabeth Davey, 2016-05-16 Margaret Avison one of Canada's premier poets is a highly sophisticated and self conscious writer both charming and intimidating at the same time She calls to mind her more famous predecessors the religious poets George Herbert Gerard Manley Hopkins and T S Eliot as she vigorously engages both heart and intellect She has forged a way to write against the grain some of the most humane sweet and profound poetry of our time write the judges of the 2003 Griffin Poetry Prize Becoming a Christian in her mid forties her life and her vocation were transformed and her lyrics record that shift In Muse of Danger she writes to Christian college students But in His strange and marvelous mercy God nonetheless lets the believer take a necessary place as a living witness in behavior with family and classmate and stranger in conversation or in a poem How she blends her twin passions of poetry and Christian faith becomes a story of a kind of perseverance Readers who respond with understanding and empathy recognize both the distinctive mystery of poetic witness and the mystery inherent in Christ's saving work to which it points Her enduring witness becomes an implicit call for us to persevere in what Avison identifies as the mix of resurrection life and marred everyday living Wider Boundaries of Daring Di Brandt, Barbara Godard, 2011-09-08 Wider Boundaries of Daring The Modernist Impulse in Canadian Women's Poetry announces a bold revision of the genealogy of Canadian literary modernism by foregrounding the originary and exemplary contribution of women poets critics cultural activists and experimental prose writers Dorothy Livesay P K Page Miriam Waddington Phyllis Webb Elizabeth Brewster Jay Macpherson Anne Wilkinson Anne Marriott and Elizabeth Smart In the introduction editor Di Brandt champions particularly the achievements of Livesay Page and Webb in setting the visionary parameters of Canadian and international literary modernism The writers profiled in Wider Boundaries of Daring are the real founders of Canadian modernism the contributors of this volume argue both for their innovative aesthetic and literary experiments and for their extensive cultural activism They founded literary magazines and writers groups wrote newspaper columns and created a new forum for intellectual debate on public radio At the same time they led busy lives as wives and mothers social workers and teachers editors and critics and competed successfully with their male contemporaries in the public arena in an era when women were not generally encouraged to hold professional positions or pursue public careers. The acknowledgement of these writers' formidable contribution to the development of modernism in Canada and along with it wider boundaries of daring for women and other people previously disadvantaged by racial, ethnic or religious identifications has profound implications for the way we read and understand Canadian literary and cultural history and for the shape of both national and international modernisms.

The Essential Margaret Avison Margaret Avison, 2014-05-14 The sixth volume of the Porcupine Quill's acclaimed series of Essential Poets, this collection provides an excellent introduction to this prominent Canadian poet and the evolution of her work. Robyn Sarah's selections amply celebrate Avison's diverse styles and forms and reveal Avison's unique perspective on and response to her world. Here one can experience Avison's dazzling diction, a saucepantilt of water birds clotted in big trees, her metaphoric and tonal complexities and her quiet examination of the world in which she lived. The Essential Margaret Avison also traces her movement from skeptical intellectual to committed Christian. Though some scholars have dismissed her later religious poetry as simplistic and inferior to her earlier work, the truth is more complex and the line between what is religious and what is not in Avison's poetry is difficult to draw. Robyn Sarah describes how Avison's work became more and more a poetry of inquiry, an inner pondering of her daily givens in which her experience of the worldly and the transcendent are inextricably tied. Margaret Avison, honoured by the Griffin Prize and twice by the Governor General's Award, was named an Officer of the Order of Canada in 1985 and died at the age of 89 in 2007. This singular poet's legacy is well represented in Robyn Sarah's thoughtfully chosen selection.
