Condemned Without A Trial Bogus Arguments Against Bilingual Education:

Condemned Without a Trial Stephen D. Krashen, 1999 Here is a timely and important book for anyone concerned about the future of bilingual education in America Written by Stephen Krashen the nation's foremost expert on second language acquisition it disproves many of the false assumptions and outright distortions that led to the passage of Proposition 227 in California Now as some of those same arguments proliferate in other states Krashen explains the bases for five of these key beliefs and proves step by step why they are wrong Bilingual education is responsible for the high Hispanic dropout rate In fact studies show reduced and even no difference in dropout rates when background factors are controlled Most immigrants succeeded without bilingual education Krashen argues that many immigrants arrived here having had a de facto bilingual education in their countries of origin and that until the last half of this century economic success was not so strongly dependent on school success The United States is the only nation that has bilingual education There is ample evidence of bilingual programs not only existing but also succeeding in countries like Norway and the Netherlands Bilingual education failed in California The author explores flaws in the methods of various studies and counters with other reasons why bilingual education students may not thrive Including widespread poverty and lack of reading materials The public is against bilingual education This argument propagated by the media proves false when one examines the biased language used in survey after survey In its careful delineation of the real issues Condemned Without a Trial gives educators administrators parents and voters the essential understanding and evidence they have heretofore been denied

Bilingualism in International Schools Maurice Carder, 2007-01-10 International Schools have developed since their inception from a largely native English speaking student body to schools such as the author's the Vienna International School VIS where there are students of 90 nationalities with 65 mother tongues Maurice Carder proposes a three programme model for addressing the language and curricula needs of these students a content based second language programme a programme of cultural and linguistic training for all staff and a mother tongue programme for minority students The model is based on research findings and practice at the VIS every year approximately 1/3 of the graduating students gain an IB Diploma International Baccalaureate because they are able to take their mother tongue other than English or German as Language A1 The book contains insightful chapters not only for school leaders programme designers and teachers but also for parents Inserted boxes of student responses give an authentic voice to the needs of second language learners and many useful resources and websites are given Rethinking Multicultural Education Wayne Au, 2020-11-16 This new and expanded edition collects the best articles dealing with race and culture in the classroom that have appeared in Rethinking Schools magazine With more than 100 pages of new materials Rethinking Multicultural Education demonstrates a powerful vision of anti racist social justice education Practical rich in story and analytically sharp Book Review 1 If you are an educator student activist or parent striving for educational equality and liberation Rethinking Multicultural Education Teaching for Racial and Cultural Justice

Second International Handbook of Educational Leadership and Administration Kenneth A. Leithwood, P. Hallinger, 2012-12-06 The first International Handbook of Educational Leadership and Administration Leithwood et al was published in 1996 and quickly became something of a best seller for reference works within education Such success we suggest was at least partly due to the unprecedented global waves of concern for improving schools launched in the mid 1980s combined with a widespread belief in leadership as the single most powerful contribution to such improvement The roots of this belief can be found in evidence produced by the early effective schools research although there is a romance with leadership as an explanation for success in many non school enterprises as well During the two year period during which this current handbook was being written activity in the realms of school leadership school improvement and leadership development gained further momentum The English government created its new National College of School Leadership and several Asian nations announced new initiatives in leadership selection preparation and development

Language, Literacy, and Power in Schooling Teresa L. McCarty, 2006-04-21 Language Literacy and Power in Schooling brings critical ethnographic perspectives to bear on language literacy and power in culturally and linguistically diverse contexts showing how literacy and schooling are negotiated by children and adults and how schooling becomes a key site of struggle over whose knowledge discourses and literacy practices count Part I examines tensions between the local and the general in literacy development and use Part II considers face to face interactions surrounding literacy practices in ethnically diverse classrooms and Part III widens the ethnographic lens to position literacy practices in the context of globalization and contemporary education policies Each section includes a substantive introduction by the editor and a synthetic commentary by a leading literacy researcher Above all this is a book oriented toward social action Unpacking the complexity of literacy practices and experiences in diverse settings the authors seek not only to build new knowledge but to inform and transform the pedagogies and policies that limit human potentials The chapters in this volume have much to teach us about the roots of inequality and the possibilities for positive change Together they highlight the urgent need for critical literacy researchers to engage politically confronting education policies that deny the rich multiplicity of human literacies thereby carving ever deeper cleavages between those with and without access to literacies of power The dual focus on language and literacy with critical ethnographic accounts of identity and schooling speaks to a growing constituency of scholars and practitioners concerned with the role of literacy and discourse in alternatively affirming or negating knowledge power and identity both within and outside of schools the 1993 U S federal definition of giftedness They maintain that not only are these capabilities currently overlooked by existing assessment procedures but also that there is little understanding of the ways in which the unique talents of young interpreters might be nurtured and developed in academic settings A strong case is made that in order for such students to be identified as gifted on the basis of their bilingual abilities the field of gifted and talented education must embrace the concept that bilingualism is a strength The field must also make developing bilingualism a focus of programs designed to meet the needs of the increasingly multilingual student population in the United States The research this book reports part of a larger five year study of giftedness through linguistic and cultural lenses funded by OERI through the National Research Center on the Gifted and Talented was conducted by researchers whose background is very much outside the field of gifted education Rather their focus is on language working within the traditions of qualitative sociolinguistics Thus this book offers a unique approach to the exploration of giftedness It asks researchers and practitioners ordinarily accustomed to working with quantitative data to examine and make sense of detailed and rich analyses of students linguistic performance and argues that it is only by understanding the challenges of such bilingual interactions that the field of gifted and talented education can expand and reframe its vision of giftedness Race, Culture, and Identities in Second Language Education
