Armourer And His Craft:

The Armourer and His Craft from the XIth to the XVIth Century Charles John Ffoulkes, 1988 The Armourer and His Craft Charles John Ffoulkes, 2008-12-01 As soon as the armed man realized that iron and steel were the best defences for his body he would naturally insist that some sort of a guarantee should be given him of the efficacy of the goods supplied by his armourer This system of proving armour would be effected by using those weapons commonly in use and these in the early times were the sword the axe the lance the bow and the crossbow The latter seems to have been the more common forms of proof though as late as the seventeenth century we have evidence that armour was proved with the estramaon or sword blow from The Proof of Armour Not a history of defensive armor but rather a guide to the actual making of armor as well as the regulations that governed the artisans who made it this is a fascinating and practical handbook on the production selling and wearing metal traditional medieval body armor First published in 1912 this classic book by British historian and author CHARLES JOHN FFOULKES 1868 1947 curator of London s Royal Armouries draws on records of the time to detail the tools and appliances of the trade the decoration and cleaning of armor the use of leather and fabrics and much more to offer a complete reference for readers of period fiction and history wargamers costumers and anyone fascinated by the craft of the armorer This replica of the 1912 edition is complete with all of the original diagrams illustrations and photos The Armourer and His Craft Charles Ffoulkes, 1967 The Armourer and His Craft From the Xith to the Xvith Century Charles John Ffoulkes, 2015-06-12 Excerpt from The Armourer and His Craft From the Xith to the Xvith Century I Do not propose in this work to consider the history of development of defensive armour for this has been more or less fully discussed in works which deal with the subject from the historical side of the question I have rather endeavoured to compile a work which will in some measure fill up a gap in the subject by collecting all the records and references especially in English documents which relate to the actual making of armour and the regulations which controlled the Armourer and his Craft At the same time it is impossible to discuss this branch of the subject without overlapping in some details the existing works on Arms and Armour but such repetition has only been included because it bears directly on the making selling or wearing of armour I have intentionally omitted all reference to the sword and other weapons of offence for this would have unduly increased the size of the present work and the subject is of such importance that it deserves a full consideration in a separate volume The original limits of this work have been considerably enlarged since it was offered as a thesis for the Degree of Bachelor of Letters in the University of Oxford in the Michaelmas Term 1911 A polyglot glossary has been included as this is a detail which has been practically overlooked by all English writers The subject of Arms and Armour has not up to the present time received the attention in England that it deserves but I would be the first to admit the value of the works of Meyrick and Hewitt which are the foundations upon which German and French as well as all English authors have based their investigations At the same time it should be remembered that these two authors were pioneers and statements which they made have been
