Alternatives Community Identity And Environmental Justice On Walpole Island:

AlterNatives Robert M. VanWynsberghe, 2002 A new entry into the Cultural Survival Studies in Ethnicity and Change Series this ethnography provides a detailed account of how the Walpole Island First Nation has effectively organized itself in order to protect meaningful cultural and economic ties to its natural resources This account focuses on the Heritage Centre a Walpole Island First Nation government body in Southwestern Ontario Canada that has a twenty year history of engaging in multifaceted endeavors to safeguard the environment Speaking for Ourselves Julian Agyeman, Peter Cole, Randolph Haluza-DeLay, Pat O'Riley, 2010-01-01

The concept of environmental justice has evolved over the past two decades to offer a new direction for social movements public policy and public planning Researchers worldwide now position social equity as a building block for sustainability Yet the relationship between social equity and the environmental aspects of sustainability has been little studied in Canada Speaking for Ourselves draws together scholars and activists Aboriginal and non Aboriginal established and new who bring equity issues to the forefront by considering environmental justice in specifically Canadian cases and contexts and from a variety of perspectives and concerns including those of women and First Nations Social Problems Corey Dolgon, Chris Baker, 2010-08-03 p This book empowers the powerless and gives sociologists and their students a new vantage point for understanding Judith Blau University of North Carolina Chapel Hill In Social Problems A Service Learning Approach authors Corey Dolgon and Chris Baker integrate an innovative case study approach into a comprehensive introduction that helps students understand how they can address social problems in their communities by applying basic theories and concepts Contributor to the SAGE Teaching Innovations and Professional Development Award

Defending the Land Ronald Niezen, 2016-01-08 Suitable for both introductory anthropology and upper division courses in cultural anthropology The campaign of the Cree people to protect their forest culture from the impact of hydro electric development in northern Quebec has been widely documented Few have heard in any detail about this campaign s outcome and impact upon indigenous societies futures This text gives equal attention to the Cree leadership s successful strategies for dealing with major social and environmental pressures with the forces of acculturation and native communities social destruction The titles in the Cultural Survival Studies in Ethnicity and Change series edited by David Maybury Lewis and Theodore Macdonald Jr of Cultural Survival Inc Harvard University focus on key issues affecting indigenous and ethnic groups worldwide Each ethnography builds on introductory material by going further in depth and allowing students to explore virtually first hand a particular issue and its impact on a culture Forest Dwellers, Forest Protectors Richard Reed, 2015-09-07 The Guarani of Paraguay have survived over four centuries of contact with the commercial system while keeping in tact their traditions of leadership religion and kinship This concise ethnography examines how the Guarani have adapted over time in concert with Paraguay s subtropical forest system New To This Edition Expanded historical background and updated demographic information on the Guarani brings the research to the present day Chapter 1 Expands and strengthens the discussion of sustainability to include more recent advances in the concept Chapter 1 and introduces the idea of subsidy from nature into the discussion of conventional tropical development Chapter 3 Develops the discussion of women s labor in horticulture Chapter 3 Analyzes the effects of indigenous mixed agro forestry in stemming the high rates of Paraguayan deforestation of the 1990s Chapter 4 Discusses the recent globalization of the yerba mate market and the economy s effecton Paraguay s protected areas Chapter 4 Describes Guarani ethnic federations as a means to engage the national and international political institutions Chapter 4 Explores the rapid growth in Guarani population in native communities which results from lower infant mortality more land pressure and more reliable census data Chapter 4 This brief introductory text makes the ideal supplementary text for students of anthropology

Lines Drawn upon the Water Karl S. Hele,2008-09-30 The First Nations who have lived in the Great Lakes watershed have been strongly influenced by the imposition of colonial and national boundaries there The essays in Lines Drawn upon the Water examine the impact of the Canadian American border on communities with reference to national efforts to enforce the boundary and the determination of local groups to pursue their interests and define themselves Although both governments regard the border as clearly defined local communities continue to contest the artificial divisions imposed by the international boundary and define spatial and human relationships in the borderlands in their own terms The debate is often cast in terms of Canada s failure to recognize the 1794 Jay Treaty s confirmation of Native rights to transport goods into Canada but ultimately the issue concerns the larger struggle of First Nations to force recognition of their people s rights to move freely across the border in search of economic and social independence

Applied Anthropology in Canada Edward J. Hedican,2008-01-01 Anthropologists are often reluctant to present their work relating to matters of a broad social context to the wider public even though many have much to say about a range of contemporary issues In this second edition of a classic work in the field Edward J Hedican takes stock of Anthropology s research on current indigenous affairs and offers an up to date assessment of Aboriginal issues in Canada from the perspective of applied Anthropology In his central thesis Hedican underlines Anthropology s opportunity to make a significant impact on the way Aboriginal issues are studied perceived and interpreted in Canada He contends that anthropologists must quit lingering on the periphery of debates concerning land claims and race relations and become more actively committed to the public good His study ranges over such challenging topics as advocacy roles in Aboriginal studies the ethics of applied research policy issues in community development the political context of the self government debate and the dilemma of Aboriginal status and identity in Canada Applied Anthropology in Canada is an impassioned call for a revitalized Anthropology one more directly attuned to the practical problems faced by First Nations peoples Hedican s focus on Aboriginal issues gives his work a strong contemporary relevance that bridges the gap between scholarly and public spheres

Environmental Justice David E. Newton,2009-07-08 Environmental Justice A Reference Handbook Second Edition offers a current overview of the environmental inequities faced by poor and minority communities and the development of the grassroots movement working to address them Building on the original edition's focus on the link between social inequalities and the uneven distribution of environmental hazards in the air water and soil Environmental Justice A Reference Handbook Second Edition presents a contemporary look at the convergence of the environmental movement and civil rights activism Environmental Justice Second Edition follows the rise and maturation of the movement focused on environmental racism describes solutions that have been implemented and examines issues that remain unresolved The book offers a wealth of new data and information particularly in its expanded coverage of environmental disparities in developing countries and its rich bibliography of print and online resources

Where the Waters Divide
Michael Mascarenhas, 2012-07-13 This timely and important scholarship advances an empirical understanding of Canada's contemporary Indian problem Where the Waters Divide is one of the few book monographs that analyze how contemporary neoliberal reforms in the manner of deregulation austerity measures common sense policies privatization etc are woven through and shape contemporary racial inequality in Canadian society Using recent controversies in drinking water contamination and solid waste and sewage pollution Where the Waters Divide illustrates in concrete ways how cherished notions of liberalism and common sense reform neoliberalism also constitute a particular form of racial oppression and white privilege Where the Waters Divide brings together theories and concepts from four disciplines sociology geography Aboriginal studies and environmental studies to build critical insights into the race relational aspects of neoliberal reform In particular the book argues that neoliberalism represents a key moment in time for the racial formation in Canada one that functions not through overt forms of state sanctioned racism as in the past but via the morality of the marketplace and the primacy of individual solutions to modern environmental and social problems Furthermore Mascarenhas argues because most Canadians are not aware of this pattern of laissez faire racism and because racism continues to be associated with intentional and hostile acts Canadians can dissociate themselves from this form of economic racism all the while ignoring their investment in white privilege Where the Waters Divide stands at a provocative crossroads Disciplinarily it is where the social construction of water an emerging theme within Cultural Studies and Environmental Sociology meets the social construction of expertise one of the most contentious areas within the social sciences It is also where the political economy of natural resources an emerging theme in Development and Globalization Studies meets the Politics of Race Relations an often understudied area within Environmental Studies Conceptually the book stands where the racial formation associated with natural resources reform is made and re made and where the dominant form of white privilege is contrasted with anti neoliberal social movements in Canada and across the globe

Indigenous Peoples, Ethnic Groups, and the State David Maybury-Lewis, 2002 Indigenous Peoples Ethnic Groups and the State provides a concise introduction to the process of modernization and its effect on tribalism and ethnic parochialism Part of the Cultural Survival Studies in Ethnicity and Change series this text focuses on key issues affecting indigenous and ethnic groups worldwide Ethnic conflicts proliferate throughout the world as indigenous peoples are becoming increasingly vocal in demanding their rights including the right to be different. Readers are invited to reexamine their ideas about the state, the role of ethnicity in it, and the peculiar situation of indigenous peoples who are ethnic minorities alien to the states in which they live. Ariaal Pastoralists of Kenya Elliot M. Fratkin, 2004. Based on over twenty five years of research and fieldwork, the Second Edition of Ariaal Pastoralists of Kenya: Studying Pastoralism, Drought and Development in Africa's Arid Lands offers a highly readable and often humorous ethnographic description of the Maasai speaking society of East Africa. This unique text details the story of how one society of livestock herders in northern Kenya has adapted to and survived both natural and human induced disasters of recent times including drought and famine, inter pastoralist warfare, and the wide scale intervention of international development and relief organizations. The Ariaal's determination to maintain their pastoral lifestyle while taking advantage of new health, employment, marketing, and education opportunities offered in the growing Kenyan towns provides a fascinating study of the dynamics of cultural change and the threat to cultural survival among East African pastoralists. This small, accessible ethnography offers a detailed look at pastoral ecology, life in an Ariaal community, the trials and tribulations of anthropological fieldwork, and problems of development and social change for Ariaal people. Cleaner, Greener, Healthier David R. Boyd, 2015-09-01. Despite Canada's enduring image as a natural paradise, every year thousands of Canadians become ill or die prematurely as a result of exposure to environmental hazards. Canadians understand that their health is inextricably linked to the health of the environment and are deeply concerned about the impacts of toxic substances on themselves and their children. In Cleaner, Greener, Healthier, David R. Boyd sets out to remedy Canada's environmental health problems. He begins by assessing the environmental burden of disease, identifies its unequal distribution along racial and socio-economic lines, and estimates the associated economic costs. He then compares Canadian environmental laws and policies with those in the United States, Australia, and the European Union, delivering a provocative diagnosis of the root causes of Canada's second rate standards. Finally, drawing on strategies that protect citizens in other countries, Boyd prescribes legal remedies that will enable Canada to catch up with the world's environmental leaders while delivering substantial health and economic benefits.

Cultural Anthropology Barbara D. Miller, 2004. STUDENT EDITION. The first mainstream book to truly integrate coverage of race, class, gender, ethnicity, and age continues to win high praise. One user writes, "Miller's text offers clarity and an attention to diversity and inequality in human experience that the students really appreciate." Emphasizing social inequality, this contemporary introductory textbook explains how inequalities affect economy, kinship, politics, religion, and language, while still covering the core concepts of cultural anthropology. Special Features: Integrates coverage of contemporary issues such as health systems, migration, and development throughout the text to highlight the practical applications and relevance of cultural anthropological studies. More focus on theory in cultural anthropology with a new section on the history of theory. Ch 1 and more explicit links to theory in the Critical Thinking boxes in every chapter.
