Roberto Rossellini's Roma città aperta and Pais and Vittorio De Sica's Ladri di biciclette are still half a century after they were made among the most highly valued artefacts in the history of cinema. Wagstaff suggests that this could be due to the aesthetic and rhetorical qualities of their assembled narratives, performances, locations, lighting, sound, mise en scène and montage. This volume begins by situating neorealist cinema in its historical, industrial, commercial and cultural context and makes available for the first time a large amount of data on post-war Italian cinema. Wagstaff offers a theoretical discussion of what it means to treat realist films as aesthetic artefacts before moving on to the core of the book which consists of three studies of the films under discussion. Italian Neorealist Cinema not only offers readers in Film Studies and Italian Studies a radically new perspective on neorealist cinema and the Italian art cinema that followed it but theorises and applies a method of close analysis of film texts for those interested in aesthetics and rhetoric as well as cinema in general.
