Sea-Level Rise and Coastal Subsidence: Causes, Consequences, and Strategies J.D. Milliman, B.U. Haq, 2013-03-09 Greenhouse induced climate warming increasingly appears to be a reality and the warming climate will be accompanied by an accelerated sea level rise as much as 60-100 cm over the next century What is commonly absent in the discussion of rising sea level however is the role played by the subsidence of low lying coastal areas which can have a far greater local effect than the eustatic rise of the sea The combined sea level rise and land subsidence will almost certainly make the greatest impact on coastal societies in the densely populated regions of southern Asia but its effects will be felt globally This volume explores the concepts of sea level rise and coastal subsidence both natural and anthropogenically accelerated in the form of a series of case studies in such diverse locations as Bangkok Bangladesh Venice and the Niger and Mississippi deltas as well as a discussion of the economic engineering and policy responses that must be considered if the effects of local sea level rise are to be mitigated

Continental Drift, Plate Tectonics and the Ice Flow Theory Thomas Oldfield, John De Lano, 2017-06-06 This volume contains background information and supporting documents for The Ice Flow Theory a new theory that describes how the Earth's ocean basins developed into what they are today and how the continents were shaped including the development of the fold mountain systems It provides information for locating oil gas and coal deposits as well as information on earthquake and tsunami causes This theory also explains prehistoric animal migration isolation and extinction causes without the need for continental migration or extinction level events

Human Impacts on Seals, Sea Lions, and Sea Otters Todd J. Braje, Torben C. Rick, 2011-03-23 The bones recovered from the middens of the northeastern Pacific shorelines have important stories to tell biologists marine mammalogists and those concerned with marine conservation This volume unearths a wealth of information about the historical ecology of seals sea lions and sea otters in the North Pacific that spans thousands of years It provides fascinating insights into how the world once looked and how it may one day look again as seals sea lions and sea otters reclaim and recolonize their former haunts Andrew Trites Director Marine Mammal Research Unit University of British Columbia Braje and Rick have assembled a compelling set of case studies on the long term and complex interactions between people marine mammals and environments in the Northeast Pacific The promise of zooarchaeology as historical science is on full display as researchers use geochemistry aDNA morphometrics and traditional analytic methods to address questions of utmost importance to the long term health of coastal ecosystems If this book doesn't convince conservation biology about the need to take the long view of animal histories and ecosystems into account in developing conservation management plans I'm not sure what will Virginia L Butler Department of Anthropology Portland State University
