Re-evaluation of Drinking-Water Guidelines for Diisopropyl Methylphosphonate
National Research Council, Commission on Life Sciences, Board on Environmental Studies and Toxicology, Committee on Toxicology, Subcommittee on the Toxicity of Diisopropyl Methylphosphonate, 2000-11-25

Diisopropyl Methylphosphonate DIMP is a groundwater contaminant at the U S Army s Rocky Mountain Arsenal in Colorado DIMP is a by product created from the manufacture and detoxification of the nerve agent GB which the arsenal produced from 1953 to 1957 For awhile the Army and the State of Colorado disagreed upon the appropriate drinking water contaminant guideline for DIMP A drinking water guideline of 600 micrograms per liter was established by the U S Environmental Protection Agency EPA in 1989 but the State of Colorado promulgated a lower guideline of 8 micrograms per liter The significant difference between the two suggested values arose from the fact that both sides used different studies to determine their values Colorado used one generation reproductive toxicity study in mink whereas EPA used a subchronic toxicity study in dogs To resolve the disagreement a two generation reproductive study in mink was conducted The Army asked the National Research Council NRC to independently evaluate the 1997 study and re evaluate the drinking water guideline for DIMP This task was assigned to the Committee on Toxicology which established the Subcommittee on the Toxicity of Diisopropyl Methylphosphonate a multidisciplinary group of experts The subcommittee evaluated the two generation reproductive study as well as other studies relevant to the task Data on the use of mink as a predictive model in toxicology were also reviewed

Re Evaluation of Drinking Water Guidelines for Diisopropyl Methylphosphonate is the subcommittee s report which shows that neither party was corrected in their DIMP guidelines The report includes the subcommittee s evaluation and recommendations concerning the topic

Energetic Materials and Munitions Adam Stewart Cumming, Mark S. Johnson, 2019-05-13 Provides a hands on approach to demilitarization and environmental aspects of energetic materials and munitions This book gives an overview of the environmental impact of the production use and cleanup of energetic materials and munitions It provides scientists engineers environmental specialists and users with the understanding of environmental issues for munitions and of the ways to improve design and manage potential risks It covers the various aspects of how chemical properties influence fate transport and toxicity of new formulations and prescribes tools for reducing or alleviating environmental risks In addition it discusses pyrotechnics and the problem of dealing with munitions underwater Chapters in Energetic Materials and Munitions Life Cycle Management Environmental Impact and Demilitarization look at demilitarization in general as well as in the future

Topics covered include logistics costs and management life cycle analysis and management and greener munitions Another introduces readers to the One Health approach in the design of sustainable munition compounds Following that readers are taught about land assessment for munitions related contamination in military live fire training The book also examines the development and integration of environmental safety and occupational health information Brings together in one source expertise and in depth information on the current and future state of how we handle the production use and demilitarization of explosives and weaponry A handy reference for experienced practitioners as well as for training young professionals in the field Every chapter contains real life examples and proposes future directions for the field Energetic Materials and Munitions Life Cycle Management Environmental Impact and Demilitarization is an important book for explosives specialists pyrotechnicians materials scientists military authorities safety officers health officers and chemical engineers Evaluation of Alternative Technologies for Disposal of Liquid Wastes from the Explosive Destruction System National Research Council, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Board on Army Science and Technology, Committee on Review and Evaluation of the Army Non-Stockpile Chemical Materiel Disposal Program, 2002-01-20 Chemical warfare materiel CWM encompasses diverse items that were used during 60 years of efforts by the United States to develop a capability for conducting chemical warfare Non Stockpile CWM NSCWM is materiel not included in the current U S inventory of chemical munitions and includes buried materiel recovered materiel components of binary chemical weapons former production facilities and miscellaneous materiel Because NSCWM is stored or buried at many locations the Army is developing transportable treatment systems that can be moved from site to site as needed Originally the Army planned to develop three transportable treatment systems for nonstockpile chemical materiel the rapid response system RRS the munitions management device MMD and the explosive destruction system EDS This report supplements an earlier report that evaluated eight alternative technologies for destruction of the liquid waste streams from two of the U S Army s transportable treatment systems for nonstockpile chemical materiel the RRS and the MMD This report evaluates the same technologies for the destruction of liquid waste streams produced by the EDS and discusses the regulatory approval issues and obstacles for the combined use of the EDS and the alternative technologies that treat the EDS secondary waste streams Although it focuses on the destruction of EDS neutralent it also takes into consideration the ability of posttreatment technologies to process the more dilute water rinses that are used in the EDS following treatment with a reagent Water-resources Investigations Report ,1996 The Cumulative Book Index ,1994 A world list of books in the English language U.S. Geological Survey Toxic Substances Hydrology Program U.S. Geological Survey Toxic Substances Hydrology Program. Resources and References Donna S. Kocurek, Bayle Woodside, 1995-12-31 This guide book provides references and resources for the complex field of hazardous waste and hazardous materials management The book is divided into general topics such as air quality industrial wastewater pollution prevention and risk assessment under hazardous waste management and chemical hazards emergency planning and hazard communication under hazardous materials management Each individual section includes a list of annotated bibliographies of the most recent books by major publishers as well as established standard references Following the annotated titles are additional references of books and documents by publishers technical associations and governmental agencies primarily the U S Environmental Protection Agency In general only references from 1986 onward are included since the technology and regulations affecting hazardous waste and materials are constantly evolving Additional resources included in the book are video tapes for training and instruction information services and databases libraries agency contacts technical journals and a list of publishers and ordering information This book will be a useful reference to professionals in the environmental field who need an extensive but concise source of technical information and contacts The book will be a valuable addition to individual libraries and will fill a current reference void in university libraries and technical libraries in industry and government At present there are very few technical bibliographies in the field and none has covered topics related to hazardous materials and hazardous waste as extensively as this book
