Constructing Panic The Discourse Of Agoraphobia:

Constructing Panic Lisa Capps, Elinor Ochs, 1995 Offering a novel analysis of a patient's experience of agoraphobia this collaboration between a clinical psychologist and a linguist proposes a view of agoraphobia as a communicative disorder It opens up potential for linguistic and narrative analysis by revealing the roots of panic and by establishing a framework for therapeutic intervention

A Companion to Psychological Anthropology Conerly Casey, Robert B. Edgerton, 2008-04-15 This Companion provides the first definitive overview of psychocultural anthropology a subject that focuses on cultural psychological and social interrelations across cultures Brings together original essays by leading scholars in the field Offers an in depth exploration of the concepts and topics that have emerged through contemporary ethnographic work and the processes of global change Key issues range from studies of consciousness and time emotion cognition dreaming and memory to the lingering effects of racism and ethnocentrism violence identity and subjectivity

The Grammar of Autobiography Jean Quigley, 2000-05-01 This is the first book to bring together four distinct literatures functional linguistics child language narrative development and discursive psychology It is an outgrowth of the historical relationship between psychology and linguistics especially the post Wittgensteinian turn to language Relevant issues are situated at that interface in a way that should prove accessible to both linguists with little or no psychological knowledge and to psychologists with no linguistics background are addressed Previously there have been volumes on the theses of discursive psychology and social constructionism and volumes on the workings and theories of functional linguistics but none have attempted to link the two as natural bedfellows in this way While clearly situated within the spirit of the Berkeley school it goes beyond it by virtue of linking functional linguistics and discursive psychology and by doing this ontogenetically Overall this book is an investigation of the psycholinguistic thesis of the social construction of selfhood and the psychology of everyday life Featuring the only book length studies of the use of grammatical analysis as a research strategy in psychology it integrates issues of human development and child language in a new way It deals in careful linguistic analyses examining the role of grammatical forms in constituting context which involves an examination of their functions that are then used to highlight fundamental aspects of development The linguistic analyses are treated as a testing ground for the ideas and claims made in discursive psychology The discussion deals with many of the current issues in psychology and related disciplines including narrative morality agency and responsibility in order to show the central role of language in human functioning

Linguistics, Pragmatics and Psychotherapy Elaine Chaika, 2008-04-30 This book discusses current theories in linguistics and sociolinguistics as they relate to therapeutic situations including uses of metaphor slogans and proverbs It shows how people's empathies or feeling of alienation are displayed by the language they choose to describe or discuss events Dysfunctions as different as depression drug and alcohol additions agoraphobia schizophrenia and bulimia are examined in terms of the language used by clients or patients It is shown that the way people encode life events influences their self evaluations evaluations of others and their general behaviour so that therapy becomes a process of learning to retell one's life story Every chapter contains either actual narratives from clients or therapist client interviews with thorough linguistic and sociolinguistic analyses of these speech activities The therapist is shown how to listen and what to listen for in the client's speech as well as what kinds of questions to ask Windowframes Peter Mortola, 2014-05-22 How do children emotionally heal and regain equilibrium after suffering trauma How do adults understand and help them in a therapeutic relationship These questions are at the heart of Violet Oaklander's approach to play therapy and her methods for training adults to work with children and adolescents In this text Peter Mortola uses qualitative and narrative methods of analysis to document and detail Oaklander's work in a two week summer training attended by child therapists from around the world A Companion to Linguistic Anthropology Alessandro Duranti, 2008-04-15 A Companion to Linguistic Anthropology provides a series of in depth explorations of key concepts and approaches by some of the scholars whose work constitutes the theoretical and methodological foundations of the contemporary study of language as culture Provides a definitive overview of the field of linguistic anthropology comprised of original contributions by leading scholars in the field Summarizes past and contemporary research across the field and is intended to spur students and scholars to pursue new paths in the coming decades Includes a comprehensive bibliography of over 2000 entries designed as a resource for anyone seeking a guide to the literature of linguistic anthropology Culture and Communication James M. Wilce, 2017-06-15 This introductory textbook of culture and communication shows students how to use language as a tool to reveal cultural phenomena Constructing Panic Lisa Capps, Elinor Ochs, 1995-01-04 Meg Logan has not been farther than two miles from home in six years She has agoraphobia a debilitating anxiety disorder that entraps its sufferers in the fear of leaving safe havens such as home Paradoxically while at this safe haven agoraphobics spend much of their time ruminating over past panic experiences and imagining similar hypothetical situations In doing so they create a narrative that both describes their experience and locks them into it Constructing Panic offers an unprecedented analysis of one patient's experience of agoraphobia In this novel interdisciplinary collaboration between a clinical psychologist and a linguist the authors probe Meg's stories for constructions of emotions actions and events They illustrate how Meg uses grammar and narrative structure to create and recreate emotional experiences that maintain her agoraphobic identity In this work Capps and Ochs propose a startling new view of agoraphobia as a communicative disorder Constructing Panic opens up the largely overlooked potential for linguistic and narrative analysis by revealing the roots of panic and by offering a unique framework for therapeutic intervention Readers will find in these pages hope for managing panic through careful attention to how we tell the story of our lives Patient Tales Carol Berkenkotter, 2022-10-10 A look into communicating psychiatric patient histories from the asylum years to the clinics of today In this engrossing study of tales of mental illness Carol Berkenkotter examines the evolving role of case history narratives in the growth of psychiatry as a medical profession Patient Tales follows the development of psychiatric case histories from their origins at Edinburgh

Medical School and the Royal Edinburgh Infirmary in the mid eighteenth century to the medical records of contemporary American mental health clinics Spanning two centuries and several disciplines Berkenkotter s investigation illustrates how discursive changes in this genre mirrored evolving assumptions and epistemological commitments among those who cared for the mentally ill During the asylum era case histories were a means by which practitioners organized and disseminated local knowledge through professional societies affiliations and journals The way in which these histories were recorded was subsequently codified giving rise to a genre In her thorough reading of Sigmund Freud s Fragment of an Analysis of a Case of Hysteria Berkenkotter shows how this account of Freud s famous patient Dora led to technical innovation in the genre through the incorporation of literary devices In the volume s final section Berkenkotter carries the discussion forward to the present in her examination of the turn from psychoanalysis to a research based and medically oriented classification system now utilized by the American Psychiatric Association Throughout her work Berkenkotter stresses the value of reading case histories as an interdisciplinary bridge between the humanities and sciences

Children, Childhood, and Everyday Life Mariane Hedegaard, Karin Aronsson, Charlotte Højholt, Oddbjørg Skjær Ulvik, 2018-02-01 Traditional work on child development is often based on notions of an individual and decontextualized child This volume involves a contribution to the rethinking of development it presents a number of situated studies where children s perspectives are documented through their interaction with others in situated practices in family life and school and across social contexts This volume offers a toolkit for analyzing children s perspectives and participation over time In prior work the interview has often been seen as the cardinal method or the only method for studying children s perspectives This anthology includes vignettes and case studies with descriptions of children s actions in situated activity settings as well as illustrative transcripts from video recorded social interaction It opens up toward a broader view of development in that it documents how children s and youths perspectives and agency can be studied through their ways of interacting or not interacting in everyday life One aspect of this is their verbal and nonverbal participation in family life and the social landscape of schools Another feature is that it involves several chapters that problematize impaired practices and dilemmas in the teaching of children with dysfunctions The book as a whole is rich in empirical ethnographic examples that highlight life trajectories in and across social contexts Moreover it features interview data and narratives that include children s and youths own reflections on their lives and experiences of the social demands of family and school This includes their own thoughts on being or becoming members of local communities
