Consumer Behavior And Environmental Quality:

Consumer Behaviour and Environmental Quality Liisa Uusitalo,1983      Understanding Consumer Behavior and Consumption Experience Rajagopal,Raquel Castano,2015-01-31 Abstract This book discusses the indispensable value of understanding consumer activities and the crucial role they play in developing successful marketing strategies by focusing on concepts such as consumer perceptions consumption culture and the influence of information technology Provided by publisher      Consumer Behavior and Environmental Quality Liisa Uusitalo,1983      Environment, Information and Consumer Behaviour Signe Krarup,Clifford S. Russell,2005-01-01 Over the past decade there has been growing interest in the role of information in the promotion of environmentally friendly behaviour This book examines how and why the provision of such information can affect individual decisions concerning buying or consuming a product or valuing a policy The information can take the form of a product label or a statement in a survey questionnaire and the decision can be what product to buy what food to eat or how to answer a contingent valuation question The chapters in this volume carefully explore the explanations for consumer behaviour in different scenarios where information is provided about the public implications of individual decisions The first set of chapters examines the prospects for eco labelling as a tool of environmental policy from a variety of different perspectives They also look at how this form of information provision compares with more familiar policy instruments in achieving efficiency goals In the second and third sections the focus is on environmental and food labelling in which a combination of private and public motives for purchase decisions is found Finally the role of information in contingent valuation surveys is considered in particular the impact of information and time in altering stated value responses      Consumer Behavior and environmental quality ,1982      Oligopoly, the Environment and Natural Resources Luca Lambertini,2013-08-21 Industrial production and consumption patterns rely heavily on the intensive use of both renewable and non renewable resources and the consequences for the environment can be serious Following a long period of time where the profit incentives of firms have prevailed over preservation of the environment and the world s natural resources a new consensus has emerged concerning the need to regulate firm behaviour aimed at ensuring the sustainability of the economic system in the long run This book offers an exhaustive overview of current economic debate about these topics taking modern oligopoly theory as a benchmark The first part of the book covers static models dealing with incentives for green research and development Pigovian taxation cartels environmental quality and international trade as well as the role of corporate social responsibility public firms and consumer environmental awareness as endogenous regulatory instruments Then the author moves on to examine the role of time while drawing from optimal control and differential game theory This opens the way to the discussion of fair discount rates to ensure the welfare of future generations as well as the long run sustainability of production and consumption patterns      Corporate Environmental Management, Climate Change and Sustainable Development Khaldoun Albitar,Zhenghui Li,Mohamed Chakib Kolsi,Ghassan

Liao,Shufeng Xiao ,Siyong Long,2024-05-31 Green purchase behavior refers to consumers purchasing green products that are environmentally friendly using fewer resources and causing lower environmental impact and risk As a growing number of people start to recognize the importance of individual responsibility for environmental protection firms are increasingly motivated to develop green products to fit the needs of this green advocacy Despite an emerging number of consumers claiming their preference towards green brands compared to traditional alternatives researchers have found that there is a huge gap between consumers purchase intention and actual behavior which has gained much attention The psychological process of green purchase behavior may be a complicated process influenced by various factors such as consumer values and norms the pros and cons marketed for green products and various other situational factors Scholars are calling for research that explores the psychological decision making process of green purchase behavior from both theoretical and practical perspectives Due to the high pricing of green products the trade off between the price and function of green products may lower consumers satisfaction Thus there is always a gap between green purchase intention and actual purchase behavior What determines consumers actual green purchase behavior Under what conditions will the consumers pay a premium price for green products What prompts consumers to choose green brands over traditional alternatives Will green consumption be a passing trend or a long term consumption habit What influences the frequency of consumers green purchasing Scholars are welcome to share their opinions and findings about green purchase behavior to help explore this research topic We are extremely interested in the determinants of green purchase behavior and the mechanism of facilitating green consumption considering different perspectives
