Contemplation Of The World Figures Of Community Style:

The Contemplation of the World Michel Maffesoli, 1996 In The Contemplation of the World eminent French theorist Michel Maffesoli pursues and extends his project of decoding contemporary societies Here Maffesoli questions afresh the mundane stuff of contemporary sociality seeking to discern its primary mode of expression its forms style rules and principles its aesthetics The advent of postmodernity marks the beginning of the society of the image It is as if the fragmentation of the social has gradually and necessarily corresponded to massive crumbling of our representations of the real and resulted in their infinite refraction Henceforward we are living in the heart of an ever increasing entanglement of objects signs and images Located somewhere between dream and reality we are the unfettered prisoners of a symbolic universe of growing opacity and mysterious meanings In The Contemplation of the World Maffesoli seeks to explore those unobtrusive links that regulate and organize the ensemble of our representations the raw material refashioned in our imaginary and our fantasies exploring what it is that is recognizably postmodern about them Maffesoli proposes a map of the vast domain of the collective imaginary allowing us to better understand where today's culture stands and helping us to perceive within its clamorous confines the outlines still frail of a community ideal Key Words in Religion, Media and Culture David Morgan, 2008-06-30 From The Passion of the Christ to the presumed clash of civilizations religion's role in culture is increasingly contested and mediated Key Words in Religion Media and Culture is a welcome and interdisciplinary contribution that maps the territory for those who aim to make sense of it all Highlighting the important concepts guiding state of the art research into religion media and culture this book is bound to become an important and frequently consulted resource among scholars both seasoned and new to the field Lynn Schofield Clark David Morgan has assembled here a fine team of scholars to prove beyond a doubt that the intersections of religion media and culture constitute one of the most stimulating fields of inquiry around today This highly useful and theoretically sophisticated text will likely assume ritual status in this emergent field Rosalind I J Hackett University of Tennessee US This volume is a major intervention in the literature on religion media and culture Drawing together leading international scholars it offers a conceptual map of the field to which students teachers and researchers will refer for many years to come The publication of Key Words in Religion Media and Culture is a significant moment in the formation of this area of study and sets a standard for cross disciplinary collaboration and theoretical and methodological sophistication for future work in this area to follow Gordon Lynch Birkbeck College University of London UK This book offers a range of refreshing essays on the relationships between media and religion Its selected keywords open doors to understanding contemporary society The cultural perspectives on mediation and religious practices give some illuminating and surprising analyses Knut Lundby University of Oslo Norway The Politics of Crowds Christian Borch, 2012-04-12 This book analyses sociological discussions on crowds and masses since the late nineteenth century covering France Germany and the USA Public Forgetting Bradford Vivian, 2010-01-01 Reconsiders the negative status attributed to forgetting in both academic and popular discussions of public memory Demonstrates how a community may adopt idioms of forgetting in order to create new and beneficial standards of public judgment concerning the lessons and responsibilities of its shared past Provided by publisher Networked Media, Networked Rhetorics Damien Smith Pfister,2016-01-01 In Networked Media Networked Rhetorics Damien Pfister explores communicative practices in networked media environments analyzing in particular how the blogosphere has changed the conduct and coverage of public debate Pfister shows how the late modern imaginary was susceptible to deliberation traps related to invention emotion and expertise and how bloggers have played a role in helping contemporary public deliberation evade these traps Three case studies at the heart of Networked Media Networked Rhetorics show how new intermediaries including bloggers generate publicity solidarity and translation in the networked public sphere Bloggers flooding the zone in the wake of Trent Lott s controversial toast to Strom Thurmond in 2002 demonstrated their ability to invent and circulate novel arguments the pre 2003 invasion reports from the Baghdad blogger illustrated how solidarity is built through affective connections and the science blog RealClimate continues to serve as a rapid response site for the translation of expert claims for public audiences Networked Media Networked Rhetorics concludes with a bold outline for rhetorical studies after the internet Intoxication Sébastien Tutenges,2022-11-11 For two decades Sébastien Tutenges has conducted research in bars nightclubs festivals drug dens nightlife resorts and underground dance parties in a quest to answer a fundamental question Why do people across cultures gather regularly to intoxicate themselves Vivid and at times deeply personal this book offers new insights into a wide variety of intoxicating experiences from the intimate feeling of connection among concertgoers to the adrenaline fueled rush of a fight to the thrill of jumping off a balcony into a swimming pool Tutenges shows what it means and feels to move beyond the ordinary into altered states in which the transgressive spectacular and unexpected take place He argues that the primary aim of group intoxication is the religious experience that Émile Durkheim calls collective effervescence the essence of which is a sense of connecting with other people and being part of a larger whole This experience is empowering and emboldening and may lead to crime and deviance but it is at the same time vital to our humanity because it strengthens social bonds and solidarity The book fills important gaps in Durkheim s social theory and contributes to current debates in micro sociology as well as cultural criminology and cultural sociology Here for the first time readers will discover a detailed account of collective effervescence in contemporary society that includes an explanation of what collective effervescence is a description of the conditions that generate collective effervescence a typology of the varieties of collective effervescence a discussion of how collective effervescence manifests in the realm of nightlife politics sports and religion and an analysis of how commercial forces amplify and capitalize on the universal human need for intoxication This book is also freely available online as an open access digital edition Download the open access ebook here The Art of Resistance in Islam Yafa Shanneik,2022-01-20 Examining different forms of resistance among Shi i women in the Middle East and Europe this book studies the performance of sectarian and gender power relations as expressed in Shi'i ritual practices. It provides a new transnational approach to researching gender agency in contemporary Islamic movements in both the Middle East and Europe. Deviance and Social Control in Sport Michael Atkinson, Kevin Young, 2008. Deviance and Social Control in Sport challenges preconceived understandings regarding the relationship of deviance and sport and offers a conceptual framework for future work in a variety of sociological subfields. Religion Hent de Vries, 2008. What do we talk about when we talk about religion? Is it an array of empirical facts about historical human civilizations? Or is religion what is in essence unpredictable, perhaps the very emergence of the new? In what ways are the legacies of religion, its powers, words, things, and gestures reconfiguring themselves as the elementary forms of life in the twenty-first century? Given the Latin roots of the word religion and its historical Christian uses, what sense, if any, does it make to talk about religion in other traditions? Where might we look for common elements that would enable us to do so? Has religion as an overarching concept lost all its currency, or does it ineluctably return, sometimes in unexpected ways, the moment we attempt to do without it? This book explores the difficulties and double binds that arise when we ask, "What is religion?" Offering a marvelously rich and diverse array of perspectives, it begins the task of rethinking religion and religious studies in a contemporary world. Opening essays on the question "What is religion?" are followed by clusters exploring the relationships among religion, theology, and philosophy, and the links between religion, politics, and law. Pedagogy is the focus of the following section. Religion is then examined in particular contexts from classical times to the present. Pentecostal revival leads into an especially rich set of essays on religion, materiality, and mediatization. The final section grapples with the ever-changing forms that religion is taking, such as spirituality movements, and responses to the ecological crisis. Featuring the work of leading scholars from a wide array of disciplines, traditions, and cultures, Religion: Beyond a Concept will help set the agenda for religious studies for years to come. It is the first of five volumes in a collection entitled The Future of the Religious Past, the fruit of a major international research initiative funded by the Netherlands Organization for Scientific Research.

At the Beach Jean-Didier Urbain, 2003. Around the world when people think of vacation, it's the beach they want, even when long distances must be traversed: the seashore is the place to escape the rigors of modern life. How did this come to be, and what does our ongoing love affair with the beach mean? How do shore vacations differ from traditional tourism, and what does this tell us about our dreams and fears? In At the Beach, Jean-Didier Urbain offers witty and insightful answers to these questions.
