Conservation Research in the African Rain Forests Dr. Lee White, Ann Elizabeth Edwards, 2000-01-01

Conservation Biology in Sub-Saharan Africa Richard Primack, Johnny W. Wilson, 2019-09-10 Conservation Biology in Sub Saharan Africa comprehensively explores the challenges and potential solutions to key conservation issues in Sub Saharan Africa Easy to read this lucid and accessible textbook includes fifteen chapters that cover a full range of conservation topics including threats to biodiversity environmental laws and protected areas management as well as related topics such as sustainability poverty and human wildlife conflict This rich resource also includes a background discussion of what conservation biology is a wide range of theoretical approaches to the subject and concrete examples of conservation practice in specific African contexts Strategies are outlined to protect biodiversity whilst promoting economic development in the region Boxes covering specific themes written by scientists who live and work throughout the region are included in each chapter together with recommended readings and suggested discussion topics Each chapter also includes an extensive bibliography Conservation Biology in Sub Saharan Africa provides the most up to date study in the field It is an essential resource available on line without charge for undergraduate and graduate students as well as a handy guide for professionals working to stop the rapid loss of biodiversity in Sub Saharan Africa and elsewhere

Ethnoprimatology Michel T. Waller, 2016-07-28 The list of challenges facing nonhuman primates in the 21st century is a long one The expansion of palm oil plantations to feed a growing consumer class is eating away at ape and monkey habitats in Southeast Asia and Central Africa Lemurs are hunted for food in the poorest parts of Madagascar while monkeys are used as medicine in Brazil Traditional cultural beliefs are maintaining demand for animal body parts in West African markets while viral YouTube videos of cute and cuddly lorises have increased their market value as pets and endangered their populations These and other issues are addressed in this book by leading researchers in the field of ethnoprimatology the study of human nonhuman primate interactions that combines traditional primatological methodologies with cultural anthropology in an effort to better understand the nuances of our economic ritualistic and ecologic relationships

Field and Laboratory Methods in Primatology Joanna M. Setchell, Deborah J. Curtis, 2011-02-03 Building on the success of the first edition and bringing together contributions from a range of experts in the field the second edition of this guide to research on wild primates covers the latest advances in the field including new information on field experiments and measuring behaviour It provides essential information and advice on the technical and practical aspects of both field and laboratory methods covering topics such as ethnoprimatology remote sensing GPS and radio tracking trapping and handling dietary ecology and non invasive genetics and endocrinology This integrated approach opens up new opportunities to study the behavioural ecology of some of the most endangered primates and to collect information on previously studied populations Chapters include methodological techniques instructions on collecting processing and preserving samples data for later analysis ethical considerations comparative costs and further reading making this an invaluable tool for postgraduate students and researchers in primatology behavioural ecology and zoology Ethics in the Field Jeremy MacClancy, Agustín Fuentes, 2013-07-01 In recent years ever increasing concerns about ethical dimensions of fieldwork practice have forced anthropologists and other social scientists to radically reconsider the nature process and outcomes of fieldwork what should we be doing how for whom and to what end In this volume practitioners from across anthropological disciplines social and biological anthropology and primatology come together to question and compare the ethical regulation of fieldwork what is common to their practices and what is distinctive to each discipline Contributors probe a rich variety of contemporary questions the new unique problems raised by conducting fieldwork online and via email the potential dangers of primatological fieldwork for locals primates the environment and the fieldworkers themselves the problems of studying the military and the role of ethical clearance for anthropologists involved in international health programs The distinctive aim of this book is to develop of a transdisciplinary anthropology at the methodological not theoretical level The Congo's Salonga National Park Bila-Isia Inogwabini, 2025-10-30 This book examines interactions between human communities and the global biodiversity that is sheltered by the Salonga National Park While not being a review of research that has been on going in the Salonga National Park over several years now the book takes a bird eye perspective to look at how the forests waters and species that occur in the wider Salonga landscape interact to give birth to what the Salonga National Park is As such the book treats of the Salonga s wildlife its forests and waters and the Salonga National Park s contemporary human history within the regional framework A Technical Guide for Forest Nursery Management in the Caribbean and Latin America L. Hanna, Douglas A. Clark, D. Scott Slocumbe, 2007-10-18 This title was originally published in 2007 The version published in 2012 is a PB reprint of the original HB The protection of natural resources and biodiversity through protected areas is increasingly based on ecological principles Simultaneously the concept of ecosystem based management has become broadly accepted and implemented over the last two decades However this period has also seen unprecedented rapid global social and ecological change which has weakened many protection efforts These changes have created an awareness of opportunities for innovative approaches to managing protected areas and of the need to integrate social and economic concerns with ecological elements in protected areas and parks management A rare collection of articles that fuses academic theory critique of practice and practical knowledge Transforming Parks and Protected Areas analyzes and critiques these theories practices and philosophies looking in detail at the emerging issues in the design and operation of parks and protected areas Addressing critical dynamics and current practices in parks and protected areas management the excellent volume goes well beyond simple managerial solutions and descriptions of standard practice With contributions from leading academics and practitioners this book will be of value to all those working within ecology natural resources conservation and parks management as well as students and academics across the environmental sciences and land use management
