Conservation of Contemporary Art Renée van de Vall, Vivian van Saaze, 2023-12-30 This open access book investigates whether and how theoretical findings and insights in contemporary art conservation can be translated into the daily work practices of conservators or vice versa whether and how the problems and dilemmas encountered in conservation practice can inform broader research questions and projects For several decades now the conservation of contemporary art has been a dynamic field of research and reflection Because of contemporary art's variable constitution its care and management calls for a fundamental rethinking of the overall research landscape of museums heritage institutions private sector organizations and universities At first this research was primarily pursued by conservation professionals working in or with museums and other heritage organizations but increasingly academic researchers and universities became involved for instance through collaborative projects This book is the result of such collaboration It sets out to bridge the gap between theory and practice by investigating conservation practices as a form of reflection and reflection as a form of practice

Faded and Threadbare Historic Textiles and their Role in Houses Open to the Public Margaret Ponsonby, 2016-04-15 Many historic houses that open to the public in England and Wales particularly those owned by the National Trust preserve their contents rather than restore them to a particular period The former owners of these houses often retained objects from various periods and this layering of history produces interiors that look aged and patinated Although the reason for this preservation and lack of fashionable renewable can be attributed to declining economic fortunes in the twentieth century there are many examples of families practising this method of homemaking over a much longer period Taking National Trust properties as its central focus this book examines three interlocking themes to examine the role of historic textiles Firstly it looks at houses with preserved contents together with the reasons for individual families choosing this lifestyle secondly the role of the National Trust as both guardian and interpreter of these houses and their collections and finally and most importantly the influence of textiles to contribute to the appearance of interiors and their physical attributes that carry historical resonances of the past The importance of preserved textiles in establishing the visual character of historic houses is a neglected area and therefore the prominence given to textiles in this project constitutes an original contribution to the study of these houses Drawing upon a range of primary sources including literature produced by the National Trust for their sites and documentary sources for the families and their houses such as diaries letters and household accounts the study takes a broad approach that will be of interest to all those with an interest in material culture heritage collecting studies and cultural history

Working with Conservation Data Athanasios Velios, 2024-12-30 Working with Conservation Data provides a practical step by step guide that describes how to approach the issue of documentation in a professional conservation environment Documentation forms an essential part of conservation work allowing conservators to preserve essential information about objects over time With the increasing popularity of digital tools for documenting conservation work it is important that a solid framework for organising this information is in place Each chapter within this book corresponds to an individual step of a larger process of documentation providing readers with not only a reference for specific parts of the process but also a thorough guide to implementing or improving a conservation documentation system The book explores important concepts involved in the documentation of conservation as well as research and practical questions and an analysis of implicit information embedded within conservation data and how it can be used to answer conservation questions It also outlines best practices for producing conservation data and recommendations for structuring and sharing conservation data so that documentation records can be easily retrieved and combined with other data Working with Conservation Data is an invaluable reference work suitable for conservators working on documentation projects as well as professionals working in the computing and information departments of museums galleries libraries and archives
