Solar Heating Systems for Houses

Werner Weiss,2003-11 The use of solar collectors for domestic hot water over the past 20 years has demonstrated that solar heating systems are now founded on a reliable and mature technology However the development of similar but more complex systems to provide both domestic hot water and space heating solar combisystems resulted in a diverse range of different designs that were not carefully optimized to reflect local climate and practice Application of energy efficient building strategies such as improved thermal insulation and use of low temperature heat supply systems is becoming increasingly common This trend combined with growing environmental awareness and the subsidies available in certain countries favours an increase in market share for solar combisystems The need for guidelines in selecting the appropriate system and designing this system according to the specific needs of the building and the local environment is therefore now increasingly pressing This book fills that need

Cost C16, Improving the Quality of Existing Urban Building Envelopes Marie Therèse Andeweg,Silvia Brunoro,L. G. W. Verhoef,2007 As a result of changes in the composition of the population society changes continuously with respect to various factors including age structure family composition and the availability of energy

Changes lead to situations that are reflected in the commissioning of buildings which is gradually shifted from new construction to the reuse and renovation of existing buildings The adaptation of buildings often requires the modification of facades and the construction behind The scope of this action within the COST Transport and Urban Development Domain is to improve techniques and methods for envelopes of buildings constructed during the last half of the 20th century in the COST countries In other words it is directed on the building envelopes of the so called non traditional buildings This publication is based on a support by COST an intergovernmental European framework for international cooperation between nationally funded research activities COST creates scientific networks and enables scientists to collaborate in a wide spectrum of activities in research and technology
