Constructing Social Psychology:

Constructing Social Psychology William James McGuire, 1999-03-28 This collection of papers by William J McGuire reports research on the phenomenal self revealing how we selectively perceive ourselves and other complex stimuli in terms of distinctive or atypical features often noticing what is missing rather than what is there The content structure and processing of thought systems surrounding the self and other complex stimuli are shown to function by balancing logical consistency realistic coping and hedonic gratification Attitude change and social influence processes are described with particular attention given to the personality correlates of persuasability how beliefs can be immunized against persuasion how persuasive communications affect beliefs and how people can be persuaded by Socratic questioning that does not give them new information but rather directs their attention to information they already have Also reported are findings on language and thought psychology and history and techniques of creative thinking in psychology and other fields

Constructing Social Memory Marta Vignola, Mariano Longo, Stefano Bory, 2025-03-19 This book is about the role of memory in contemporary social sciences and societies The work has two parts In the first experts from different countries address the topic of memory from a theoretical and epistemological perspective e g historical memory biographical memory memory as an act of creation as well as and the narrative dimension of memory In the second part case studies are presented from different countries France Italy Albania Spain Brazil Peru among others referring to the relationship between memories and aspects of social life such as migration conflict gender relations journalism and public opinion culture collective trauma art collaborative archaeology and the use of film materials The book has both a political and a methodological intent It underlines how the circulation of conflicting and unresolved narratives of past events may take multiple forms through a wide range of communicative aesthetic and cultural codes The empirical contributions deal with traumatic silenced stubborn and insurgent memories whose narration is able to have an impact on present and future Thus each chapter is an attempt to give back the right to speak to people and stories often placed on the margins of dominant narratives Constructing Social Memory introduces insights and themes of study that embrace a multiplicity of approaches to memory and makes a wholly original contribution to the topic

Constructing Social Work Practices Arja Jokinen, 2018-12-17 First published in 1999 Jokinen Juhila and Poso comprises both theoretical reflexive articles and articles based on empirical social constructionist studies It provokes new ways of looking at social work practices as interpretative and interactive processes In addition to this theoretical and methodological contribution the volume provides empirically based material on the practical implications of an alliance between social work and social constructionism

Internationalizing the Psychology Curriculum in the United States Frederick T. L. Leong, Wade E. Pickren, Mark M. Leach, Anthony J. Marsella, 2011-11-01 The psychology community recognizes that cultivating an international worldview is crucial not only to professionals and researchers but more importantly for professors and students of psychology as well It is critically necessary for psychologists to learn from their colleagues who are working in different cultural contexts in order to develop the type of knowledge and psychological understanding of human behavior that will be maximally useful to practitioners and researchers alike This volume Internationalizing the Psychology Curriculum in the United States provides information and resources to help psychology faculty educate and train future generations of psychologists within a much more international mindset and global perspective Recognizing that cultural context are central to a true and accurate psychology the authors describes how cultural economic political and social factors in different countries frame individual experience and affect the science and practice of psychology Each of the chapters will provide a content specific overview of how the curriculum in psychology with regards to social development clinical counseling psychology etc will need to be modified in order to present a much more global view of psychology

Handbook of Social Psychology John DeLamater, Amanda Ward, 2013-08-13 This handbook provides a broad overview of the field of social psychology and up to date coverage of current social psychological topics It reflects the recent and substantial development of the field both with regard to theory and empirical research It starts out by covering major theoretical perspectives including the interactionist identity social exchange social structure and the person perspectives Next it discusses development and socialization in childhood adolescence and adulthood In addition to updated discussions of topics that were included in the first edition the part examining personal processes includes entirely new topics such as social psychology and the body and individual agency and social motivation Interpersonal processes are discussed from a contemporary perspective with a focus on stress and health The final section examines the person in sociocultural context and includes another topic new to the second edition the social psychology of race and gender and intersectionality

Social Psychology, Past and Present Jay M. Jackson, 2013-02-01 Providing a clearer understanding of contemporary issues through a broad historical perspective this scholarly overview unites the multidisciplinary roots of social psychology into one coherent book The author attempts to unite the works and theories of all social psychological subdivisions Clearly and concisely he presents readers with a history of social psychology using a minimum of technical jargon Rather than merely cataloging theories and works he provides an intellectual context for contemporary research practice and study

Constructing Identities Mike Michael, 1996-01-28 This volume provides a distinctive overview and analysis of the place of social constructionism in social psychology The author's arguments revolve around two key questions

How can social constructionism account for changes in human identities In what ways might social constructionism accommodate a role for nonhumans whether technological or natural in the constitution of identity Michael locates these questions between recent innovations in social psychology and the highly influential contributions of actor network theory which has come to dominate the sociology of scientific knowledge

Voice and Silence in Organizations Jerald Greenberg, Marissa S. Edwards, 2009-01-07 Are employees encouraged to speak up or to pipe down Do they share ideas openly or do they remain silent in ways that are hurtful to individuals and harmful to the functioning of their organizations This collection of 12 essays addresses these and related issues from a variety of scholarly perspectives

Close Relationships Harry T. Reis, Caryl E. Rusbult, 2004-08-02 Each of the chapters in this reader is written by leading scholars in the area of relationships reflecting the diversity of the field and including both contemporary and key historical papers for comprehensive coverage of research

Creating Fear David L. Altheide, The creative use of fear by news media and social control organizations has produced a discourse of fear The awareness and expectation that danger and risk are lurking everywhere Case studies illustrates how certain organizations and social institutions benefit from the exploitation of such fear construction One social impact is a manipulated public empathy We now have more victims than at any time in our prior history Another more troubling result is the role we have ceded to law enforcement and punishment we turn ever more readily to the state and formal control to protect us from what we fear This book attempts through the marshalling of significant data to interrupt that vicious cycle of fear discourse David Altheide employs a method which he calls tracking discourse to map how the nature and the extent of the use of the word fear has changed since the 1980s how the topics associated with fear the topics of media discourse have also changed over the same period for example the emphasis moves over time across AIDS crime immigrants race sexuality schools and children and how certain news sources prevail over others thus protectively insulating themselves from criticism of the premises of their discourse frames

The Blackwell Dictionary of Modern Social Thought William Outhwaite, 2008-04-15 Modern social thought ranges widely from the social sciences to philosophy political theories and doctrines cultural ideas and movements and the influence of the natural sciences Provides an authoritative overview of the main themes of social thought Long essays and entries give full coverage to each topic Covers major currents of thought philosophical and cultural trends and the individual social sciences from anthropology to welfare economics New edition updates about 200 entries and includes new entries suggestions for further reading and a bibliography of all sources cited within the text

The Innovation Algorithm Genrikh Saulovich Al'tshuller, 1999 Genrich Altshuller's The Innovation Algorithm is a milestone in the development of the Theory of Inventive Problem Solving TRIZ It is the result of more than 20 years of research and analysis Here Altshuller details ARIZ TRIZ's problem solving algorithm that can produce innovation and creativity of the highest order Saturated with profound thoughts insights and convincing examples this book is regarded by many as Altschuller's magnum opus his handbook for a creative and technological revolution Back cover Social Constructionism Vivien Burr, 2024-11-15 The fourth edition of this seminal work introduces students to social constructionism Using a variety of examples from everyday experience and from existing research in areas such as personality sexuality and health it clearly explains the basic theoretical assumptions of social constructionism Drawing on a range of empirical studies the book clearly defines the various approaches to social constructionist theory and research and explores the theoretical and practical issues they raise It presents and analyses key debates such as the nature and status of knowledge truth reality and the self in an accessible style The new edition has been updated with relevant and contemporary references to aid understanding of key theoretical and methodological issues The author additionally utilises new illustrative examples from research and contemporary life such as the MeToo movement BlackLivesMatter and Post Truth politics The updated work has also been expanded to include an extended discussion of affect and embodiment and a number of exercises to help illustrate important concepts Social Constructionism extends and updates the material covered in previous editions and will be an invaluable and informative resource for undergraduate and postgraduate students of Psychology Sociology Education and other related disciplines Handbook of the History of Social Psychology Arie W. Kruglanski, Wolfgang Stroebe, 2012-10-12 For the first time in the history of social psychology we have a handbook on the history of social psychology In it leading luminaries in the field present their take on how research in their own domains has unfolded on the scientists whose impact shaped the research agendas in the different areas of social psychology and on events institutions and publications that were pivotal in determining the field's history Social psychology's numerous subfields now boast a rich historical heritage of their own which demands special attention The Handbook recounts the intriguing and often surprising lessons that the tale of social psychology's remarkable ascendance has to offer The historical diversity is the hallmark of the present handbook reflecting each of this field's domains unique evolution Collectively the contributions put a conceptual mirror to our field and weave the intricate tapestry of people dynamics and events whose workings combined to produce what the vibrant discipline of social psychology is today They allow the contemporary student scholar and instructor to explore the historical development of this important field provide insight into its enduring aims and allow them to transcend the vicissitudes of the zeitgeist and fads of the moment The Handbook of the History of Social Psychology provides an essential resource for any social psychologist's collection Consensus Decision Making, Northern Ireland and Indigenous Movements Patrick G. Coy, 2003 Presents a study of social movement decision making through seven case studies This book focuses on Northern Ireland where frustration with inter community conflict resolution spawned a movement promoting intra community or single tradition programs Discoursal Construction of Academic Identity in Cyberspace Małgorzata Sokół, 2011-10-18 The aim of this volume is to look into how academic identity is discursively constructed in CMC computer

mediated communication using the example of an e seminar An e seminar is an asynchronous type of CMC where private public and institutional domains merge and therefore it provides an interesting context for exploring academic communication phenomena in cyberspace The linguistic cues of academic identity can be identified on three levels of discourse organisation the features of lexico grammar textual macrostructures and genres In general the analysis shows how these three levels of discourse organisation contribute towards how academics negotiate their identities relative to the aims and activities of their discourse communities and relative to their individual goals The discursual construction of academic identity in electronic discourse depends also on such factors as the medium s defining properties and the lack of direct physical contact between interactants An important finding is the confirmation of the individuating character of the medium i e the authors self presentation in an e seminar is characterised by their distinctive voice and increased self disclosure Communication in this context enhances individuality which bears important consequences for how academics negotiate their identity in electronic discourse exploiting the possibilities offered by the new medium The results of the analysis reveal how important it is for scholars to maintain a legitimate identity in an e seminar Virtual academic identity as constructed in this context is as an extension of academic identity constructed in the real world The new communicative medium seems to have extended the repertoire of effective means of self promotion and the presentation of academic achievements and expertise These aspects have become important for academic interaction in today s world which is characterised by such phenomena as the internationalisation and globalisation of scholarship commodification of science and intensified competition The book will be of interest to students and researchers in the fields of discourse analysis academic literacy rhetoric and genre studies and to all those concerned with the complexities of identity work in the context of computer mediated communication
