Construction Economics And Building Design A Historical Approach:

Construction Economics and Building Design R. Gregory Turner, 1986 Construction - Craft to Industry Gyula Sebestyen, 2003-09-02 This book provides a unique and comprehensive survey of changes and trends in the construction industry focusing on the post war years and emphasizing their contemporary and future relevance Studies in Tectonic Culture Kenneth Frampton, 2001-08-24 Composed of ten essays and an epilogue that trace the history of contemporary form as an evolving poetic of structure and construction the book's analytical framework rests on Frampton's close readings of key French and German and English sources from the eighteenth century to the present Kenneth Frampton's long awaited follow up to his classic A Critical History of Modern Architecture is certain to influence any future debate on the evolution of modern architecture Studies in Tectonic Culture is nothing less than a rethinking of the entire modern architectural tradition The notion of tectonics as employed by Frampton the focus on architecture as a constructional craft constitutes a direct challenge to current mainstream thinking on the artistic limits of postmodernism and suggests a convincing alternative Indeed Frampton argues modern architecture is invariably as much about structure and construction as it is about space and abstract form Composed of ten essays and an epilogue that trace the history of contemporary form as an evolving poetic of structure and construction the book's analytical framework rests on Frampton's close readings of key French and German and English sources from the eighteenth century to the present He clarifies the various turns that structural engineering and tectonic imagination have taken in the work of such architects as Perret Wright Kahn Scarpa and Mies and shows how both constructional form and material character were integral to an evolving architectural expression of their work Frampton also demonstrates that the way in which these elements are articulated from one work to the next provides a basis upon which to evaluate the works as a whole This is especially evident in his consideration of the work of Perret Mies and Kahn and the continuities in their thought and attitudes that linked them to the past Frampton considers the conscious cultivation of the tectonic tradition in architecture as an essential element in the future development of architectural form casting a critical new light on the entire issue of modernity and on the place of much work that has passed as avant garde A copublication of the Graham Foundation for Advanced Studies and The MIT Press Journal of the Society of Architectural Historians Society of Architectural Historians, 1999 Includes special issues Effect of Urban Planning, Construction Technology and Industrialization of Building System on Office-commercial Blocks of Downtown San Francisco Emi Mizuno, 1994
