Constructor Poems:

The Constructor John Koethe, 2009-10-06 John Koethe's The Constructor is a scrupulous elegant account of the meditative intellect as an instrument continually registering the passage of time. Exquisitely modulated and brutally honest, these poems would be harrowing were they not so seductively beautiful. No one writing in this country today sees as deeply as Koethe into the tears that lie at the heart of things and no contemporary investigation of the life of the mind may be called complete that does not accommodate the lush intricacy of his terrifying recognitions. George Bradley I prize John Koethe's intimate expanses and unsettling reveries, his tender contemplations and odd mental landscapes. He is an heir to Wallace Stevens and John Ashbery and like them he gives us the sensation of thinking itself of a certain fleeting daily solitary consciousness rescued from oblivion and held aloft. Theirs is the language of self questioning metaphors that turn against themselves syntax that moves one way because it threatens to move another. Poems resist themselves more strenuously than they are resisted by the cultures receiving them. But the resistance to poetry is quite specifically the wonder of poetry. Considering a wide array of poets from Virgil and Milton to Dickinson and Gl ck Longenbach suggests that poems convey knowledge only inasmuch as they refuse to be vehicles for the efficient transmission of knowledge. In fact this self resistance is the source of the reader s pleasure we read poetry not to escape difficulty but to embrace it. An astute writer and critic of poems Longenbach makes his case through a sustained engagement with the language of poetry Each chapter brings a fresh perspective to a crucial aspect of poetry line syntax figurative language voice disjunction and shows that the power of poetry depends less on meaning than on the way in which it means on the temporal process we negotiate in the act of reading or writing a poem Readers and writers who embrace that process Longenbach asserts inevitably recoil from the exaggeration of the cultural power of poetry in full awareness that to inflate a poem's claim on our attention is to weaken it A graceful and skilled study The Resistance to Poetry honors poetry by allowing it to be what it is This book arrives at a critical moment at a time when many people are trying to mold and market poetry into something it is not ECOOP 2003 - Object-Oriented Programming Luca

Cardelli, 2003-08-20 The refereed proceedings of the 17th European Conference on Object Oriented Programming ECOOP 2003 held in Darmstadt Germany in July 2003 The 18 revised full papers presented together with 2 invited papers were carefully reviewed and selected from 88 submissions The papers are organized in topical sections on aspects and components patterns architecture and collaboration types modeling algorithms optimization and runtimes and formal techniques and methodology Jane Cooper Martha Collins, Celia Bland, 2019-03-29 For her five volumes of poetry over the course of her career Jane Cooper 1924 2007 was deeply admired by her contemporaries and teaching at Sarah Lawrence College for nearly forty years she served as a mentor to many aspiring poets Her elegant honest and emotionally and formally precise poems often addressing the challenges of women's lives especially the lives of women in the arts continue to resonate with a new generation of readers Martha Collins and Celia Bland bring together several decades worth of essential writing on Cooper's poetry While some pieces offer close examination of Cooper's process or thoughtful consideration of the craft of a single poem the volume also features reviews of her collections including a previously unpublished piece on her first book The Weather of Six Mornings 1969 by James Wright a lifelong champion of her work Marie Howe Jan Heller Levi and Thomas Lux among others share personal remembrances of Cooper as a teacher colleague and inspiration L R Berger's moving tribute to Cooper's final days closes the volume This book has much to offer for both readers who already love Cooper's work and new readers especially among younger poets just discovering her enduring poems The Cure of Poetry in an Age of Prose Mary

Kinzie, 1993-07-15 The role of the poet Mary Kinzie writes is to engage the most profound subjects with the utmost in expressive clarity The role of the critic is to follow the poet word for word into the arena where the creative struggle occurs How this mutual purpose is served ideally and practically is the subject of this bracingly polemical collection of essays A distinguished poet and critic Kinzie assesses poetry's situation during the past twenty five years Ours she contends is literally a prosaic age not only in the popularity of prose genres but in the resultant compromises with truth and elegance in literature In essays on the rhapsodic fallacy confessionalism and the romance of perceptual response Kinzie diagnoses some of the trends that diminish the poet's flexibility Conversely she also considers individual poets Randall Jarrell Elizabeth Bishop Howard Nemerov Seamus Heaney and John Ashbery who have found ingenious ways of averting the risks of prosaism and preserving the special character of poetry Focusing on poet Louise Bogan and novelist J M Coetzee Kinzie identifies a crucial and curative overlap between the practices of great prose writing and great poetry In conclusion she suggests a new approach for teaching writers of poetry and fiction Forcefully argued these essays will be widely read and debated among critics and poets alike

Modern Visual Poetry Willard Bohn, 2001 Far from frivolous playthings modern visual poems represent serious experiments Together with other members of the avant grade the visual poets sought to restructure the basic vision of reality that they inherited from their predecessors This statement describes contemporary visual poets as well who like their earlier colleagues strive to say things that are more meaningful in ways that are more meaningful

Ezra Pound and Roman Poetry: A Preliminary Survey Peter Davidson, 2023-08-14 Ezra Pound and Roman Poetry is an examination of a crucial phase in the development of Pound as translator and therefore of creative translation in the twentieth century The book provides a survey of Pound's attempt to appropriate the poetry of Classical Rome by tracing the histories of the poet's involvement with Horace Virgil Catullus Ovid and Propertius in order to express his own marginal position within London during the First World War No extensive critical discussion is attempted but attention is given to Pound's critical writings on the Latin poets as well as his translations from their work Dr Davidson also treats other aspects of Pound's problematic relation to the Classical Tradition the use and abuse of dictionaries Laforgue and Baudelaire as a third term haunting Pound's translations the difficult monolith of English classicism the invention of an oppositional romanitas It is hoped that this work may encourage others to produce the comprehensive survey which Pound's sustained and Protean relationship to the classical languages would appear to demand Pound's readings of Latin poetry are inevitably readings also of English poetry in the context of England and particularly London in the first two decades of the twentieth century
